Seek restoration of two-way traffic

Businessmen detail ambitious plans for revitalization of Pomona's Mall

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Ambitious plans to revitalize the Pomona Mall and to give it a regional shopping center status were detailed today by a coalition of local business leaders.

Frank G. Summers Jr., spokesman for the group which has bought various properties along the largely deserted mall, announced that it will be possible for new lessees to open up their businesses in the "Pomona Shoppers Park" in time for the Christmas season.

Details of the group's plans were announced at a morning press conference at 295 Pomona Mall West, Summers' new offices in the former Fireside Thrift location.

No dollar value was placed on the project immediately because of the diversity of the renewal programs involved, but Summers estimated that renovation costs could total $500,000.

Summers is also president of California Park Development Co., Inc. which will renovate buildings along the mall for prospective retailers.

Immediate plans call for the refurbishing of the S. H. Kress building on Locust Street, the John Evans block on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and the re-opening of Nash's as Walker's Department Store.

"Our objectives are to restore the prominence and economic viability of the downtown area and re-establish its status as a major regional shopping center," Summers said.

He noted that his firm has space ranging from 200 square feet to 70,000 square feet for lease.

Summers said that he will ask the Pomona City Council Oct. 10 to change the Pomona Mall back to two-way traffic as it was before the mall was constructed in 1962.

"We need the two-way traffic to bring the shoppers back into the area," he said.

He stressed that the artwork on the mall will not be disturbed.

Summers will ask the city to install traffic signals to facilitate traffic north and south from the mall on streets cul-de-saced when the mall was built.

The Pomona City Council in November 1975 had approved an experimental plan of allowing one-way traffic westbound between Garey and Park avenues.

Summers said that parking still would not be allowed on the mall because there is ample parking north and south of the street.

Summers said that the S. H. Kress building will become an "international village" with up to 35 small retail businesses on the three floors. A mezzanine will be added when the building is modernized.

The businesses will include 15 artisans who will sell the products they make in their stalls.

Summers said that his group has bought the John Evans block on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and will renovate the burned-out Woolworth building into a fashion arcade of ready-to-wear clothing stores.

The basement will be converted, he said, for rental as dry storage, and the second floor will become the offices of California Park Development Co., Inc.

He said that John A. Evans will continue to operate the John P. Evans store, and will be encouraged to expand his operation.

Nash's, which closed its doors this month after 20 years in Pomona, will re-open at the same location under the firm's new name: Walker's Department Store.

Summers said the Alfred Gray building on the northeast corner of the mall at Garey Avenue will open as the Pomona Bookstore with new best sellers.

He added that the C. H. Baker building across Locust Street from the Kress building will become Baker's TruValue Hardware sometime in October.

"It's been many years since we had a hardware store downtown," he said.

Summers said that other plans will be revealed as they reach fruition.

"Our area has 350,000 people living here, and we can draw them to the new Pomona Shoppers Park through the redevelopment of the mall," Summers said.

Summers said that a shoppers park is a new approach to retailing where the best of several worlds is at the customers' fingertips.

"The concept is proven," he concluded.

Hijackers release four more hostages, while Japan collects money, prisoners

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — Hijackers holding a Japan Air Lines DC8 jet released four more hostages today as Japanese officials rounded up prisoners in Japan and $6 million to meet the terrorists' ransom demands.

Bangladesh Foreign Secretary Dobraki Hussain said negotiations

were going well. But other officials said the five gunmen were growing irritable and short-tempered in the third day of the siege and were communicating less with the outside.

These officials also said the terrorists had not been told that one of their demands would not be fully met — three of the nine prisoners in Japanese jails whose freedom the hijackers demanded have refused the offer to leave.

Japanese officials said the ransom flight Saturday would arrive here more than seven hours after the hijackers' latest deadline and would carry no more than six of the prisoners.

The Bangladesh officials said it was not known whether the hijackers, said to be members of the ultraleftist Japanese Red Army, were willing to extend their deadline once again.

The latest hostage release brought to nine the number of passengers freed since the plane was seized Wednesday. All four passengers freed today — a Japanese woman, an Indonesian woman and an Egyptian couple — were ill.

The five masked terrorists, who hijacked the Japan Air Lines DC8 jet Wednesday, have repeatedly threatened to kill the hostages unless their demands are met but have twice extended their deadline.

There were indications the hijackers wanted to leave Dacca after the prisoners and money arrive.

Tokyo's Asahi Evening News, in an unattributed report, said the hijackers indicated plans to free all women, children and Indian and Pakistani men among the 132 passengers and 14 crew members in exchange for the ransom and keep the others — including nine American men — until arriving at their final destination. An American woman is also aboard.

Sources here said Japanese officials were contacting other governments in search of a country willing to accept the hijackers.

North Korea and Libya allowed Red Army members to land hijacked Japan Air Lines jets in 1970 and 1973. Captured members of the terrorist group, which vows to foment revolution in Japan, have told authorities they received training in Yemen and Lebanon.

House gives Carter OK to fund neutron bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is giving President Carter approval to produce the neutron bomb, a new atomic weapon that opponents fear will greatly increase the risk of all-out nuclear war.

The House of Representatives on Thursday approved an authorization bill to enable the President to spend money for the neutron bomb if he chooses to do so. The Senate previously approved a similar bill.

The neutron bomb is a small warhead that would be placed on Lance missiles and artillery shells. It produces twice the deadly radiation of a conventional nuclear bomb but less than a tenth as much explosive power, heat and fallout. This means the bomb can kill people while causing little damage to buildings.

The warhead is designed to replace the approximately 7,000 nuclear warheads now deployed in Europe.

Carter has not announced whether he intends to approve production of the controversial weapon, but he did ask for the authorization that both houses have now granted.

The key House vote came on an amendment by Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y. The amendment would have blocked Energy Research and Development Administration money from being used for the neutron bomb. But the amendment was defeated 297 to 109.

Weiss and his supporters said the neutron bomb would "lower the threshold" to nuclear war. They said military leaders might feel less inhibited about using the neutron bomb since it has less destructive power than large-scale nuclear weapons. That could make it easier to introduce nuclear weapons into an altercation that could touch off a nuclear holocaust, opponents said.

"I am frightened to death of this weapon," said Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif. "Once you start down the road to a nuclear war, there is no turning back. Once we make nuclear war thinkable, we make it possible, and once we make it possible we make it inevitable."

Stewardess wounded as lone gunman hijacks French jet

PARIS (AP) — A hijacker shot and wounded a stewardess and commandeered a French jetliner with 107 persons aboard today, forcing it to return to Paris' Orly airport, where he demanded to broadcast a message to France, authorities said.

The gunman — described as about 45 years old, big, blond and blue-eyed — quickly freed the wounded stewardess and six passengers from the Air Inter Caravelle, which had been bound for Lyon on a domestic flight. Officials said the stewardess was not badly hurt.

The pilot radioed the control tower that the hijacker, said to be armed with a grenade and pistol, wanted to broadcast a message over Radio Europe No. 1 and Radio Monte Carlo and threatened to execute a passenger if the request was not granted.

Newsmen from the two private stations, which direct their broadcasts principally at France, were standing by to make the recording.

But it was reported that local officials negotiating with the hijacker insisted on first knowing the contents of the 12-minute message and the hijacker replied that everything he had to say was in the message, including the fate of the passengers and the destination he hoped to reach.

Potice and firemen took up positions 600 yards from the Air Inter Caravelle after it was parked at the end of a runway 500 yards from the terminal, but they made no move toward it.

There were reports at Orly that the gunman had called for the plane to be given a maximum fuel supply.

Drought blamed

Thirsty rats and ants bug Bay Area homes

ORINDA, Calif. (AP) — Thirsty rats and ants are slipping into many San Francisco Bay area homes looking for water made scarce during California's two-year drought.

"We've had more calls about rats, and they've been looking for water, definitely," said Peter Davidson, service manager for Corky's Pest Control here.

Homes in the bay area have been under orders to ration water for about a year.

Exterminators say calls to rid homes of rats and ants have gone up by as much as 40 per cent in the past three or four months.

Davidson said the pests have prompted calls from homeowners who never had problems before. Many of them have creeks near their homes that have dried up, he said.

"And they've stopped watering their lawns, so there was no water out there the rats could get and no puddles, either," Davidson said.

"They're looking for dripping faucets, anything like that," he said. "And the calls aren't from slum areas, but from nice neighborhoods like Walnut Creek, Concord and Moraga," all suburbs east of Oakland.

There has been no indication from health officials as to whether the pests pose a health hazard.

Bill Wallace, chief deputy agricultural commissioner of Contra Costa County, said reports of the pest invasion are "not horror stories, exactly, but it's really something of a nuisance this year."

Restaurant chain pays $25,000

Specialty Restaurants Inc., of Long Beach, which operates a chain of Southern California restaurants including the Castaway in Pomona, has paid $25,000 in civil fees and court costs, settling a suit filed against it by the consumer protection division of the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office.

The action, a stipulated judgement in Los Angeles Superior Court, which did not include any admission of wrongdoing, settled the case involving six of the chain's restaurants, including the local one.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Judith Gelfand said that since the charges were originated by the county health department earlier this year, all the restaurants have been brought up to department standards.

Chlorine gas fumes rout residents

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Deadly chlorine gas spread through the East Falls section of Philadelphia early today after a steel cylinder began leaking at a water treatment plant, police said. More than 190 persons had to be treated at hospitals.

"I thought I was a goner," said George Pell, who had fled half-dressed with his wife from their home directly across from the water treatment plant.

"My wife and I were actually rolling on the floor. You feel like you're choking to death. That burning sensation — I never experienced anything like that in my life," he said moments after returning to his home, where the strong chlorine odor still lingered.

According to officials, the leak started when a treatment plant employe of 23 years, Wayne Fowler, was switching the chlorine flow into the huge reservoir, which serves about a third of the city.

As Fowler was switching from one set of four, one-ton steel, chlorine tanks to another, he smelled chlorine and tried to tighten a nut where he thought the leak was originating, Water Commissioner Carmen Guarino said.

"The leak sprang," Guarino said. A green liquid and a green haze and vapor started escaping from the pipe, he said. Fowler, who then ran, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

"It was very panicky in the beginning, but I'll tell you, I'm very, very glad how it turned out," Guarino said. "This is something you think about, something you dread."

Brown's bill-signing ranges from prisons to pornography

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed a series of bills on subjects ranging from mandatory prison sentences and child pornography to unemployment benefits for parolees and redlining.

During the first part of a ceremony Thursday, Brown signed a measure which prohibited all state-licensed financial institutions from redlining, refusing mortgage and home-improvement loans to otherwise credit-worthy persons simply because the home is in a poor neighborhood.

"We're not saying 'make a bad loan,' but we are saying 'give a loan to decent people no matter where they live,'" Brown said as he signed SB 7, sponsored by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City.

The bill, intended to encourage rehabilitation in inner-city areas, applies to both owner-occupants and landlords who purchase homes with the intention of making improvements.

Redlining, which got its name from the banking practice of marking redlines on maps around areas for which housing loans were denied, was outlawed in 1976 for state-licensed savings and loan associations.

Two of the law-and-order bills extend the practice of mandatory sentencing first introduced by Brown two years ago for persons convicted of crimes committed with a gun and heroin sellers.

SB 370 by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, requires a prison term for assault of an elderly, blind or handicapped person, and SB 518, by Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Castro Valley, applies to parolees who commit violent crimes while on parole.

SB 683, another bill introduced by Deukmejian, provides $1.5 million to set up special units in district attorney offices to fight "career criminals," those who make a livelihood of crime.

"We need a few prisons to house all the new clients," Brown commented wryly as he signed the three bills.

Parolees who have worked in prison industries or training programs will be eligible for unemployment benefits of up to $59 a week for up to 26 weeks under SB 224 by Sen. Peter Behr, R-Tiburon.

The child pornography bill, SB 817 by Sen. Robert Presley, D-Riverside, makes it a felony to use persons aged 16 or less in films, photographs or live performances of real or simulated sex acts.

Two bills, AB 1206 by Assemblyman Michael Gage, D-Napa, and SB 725 by Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, require criminals to assume the burden of compensating their victims.

SB 923 by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, outlaws threats to any individual of death or serious injury in order to achieve social or political goals. Previously only public officials had this protection.

Another bill, AB 38 by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, aims at reducing auto theft by barring manufacture of burglars' tools or master keys with intent to steal a motor vehicle.

A bill seeking to reduce delays in the courts, AB 513 by Ronald Cordova, D-El Toro, bars continuances unless good cause is shown.

Shuttle success challenged

LOMPOC (AP) — The space shuttle is doing nearly perfectly in its flight tests. But environmentalists are far from convinced that the craft is problem-free.

Critics claimed that a preliminary environmental impact report left unanswered such questions as whether the shuttle would cause unnatural rainstorms or would startle the endangered brown pelican on its nesting ground.

And members of the Chumash Indian tribe said burial sites located on land owned by the tribe which might be affected by construction of shuttle facilities, were another issue raised.

Paul Kelly, a member of the public, complained at the Wednesday night hearings that the impact statement dealt only slightly with the shuttle's effect on wildlife.

Signing of nuclear power bill doesn't change Brown's stand

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says his approval of a bill sought by backers of nuclear power doesn't mean he's changing a very cautious position on the subject.

The Democratic governor announced Thursday he signed AB 1852 by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, which sets a procedure that could lead to an act of the Legislature next spring to authorize construction of the Sundesert nuclear power plant.

San Diego Gas & Electric Co. wants to build the $2.3-billion plant near Blythe, but complains that the nuclear safety laws Brown signed in 1976 pose too much uncertainty.

The laws ban new nuclear power plant construction until the Legislature accepts state Energy Commission findings that methods exist to reprocess nuclear fuel and permanently store radioactive wastes.

Neither decision is possible as long as the Carter administration remains opposed to reprocessing because of the hazard that resultant plutonium could spread nuclear weapons.

Brown said in a telephone interview that his signing of the bill did not compromise his conviction that the state should minimize dependence on nuclear power.

"It requires the Energy Commission, in timely fashion, to make a recommendation to the Legislature," the governor said.

The bill requires the Energy Commission, which has been studying the Sundesert proposal for nearly 18 months, to report to the Legislature by Jan. 16 on whether the nuclear plant is needed to meet energy demands and no alternatives are feasible.

The Legislature would have 90 days to act on the recommendation.

"This is not an exemption. It calls on the Energy Commission to evaluate supply and demand, including conservation, with particular reference to Sundesert," Brown said.

"It doesn't prejudge the case. It sets a priority for the Energy Commission to supply the Legislature with the information it does not now possess."

Brown said it would be "premature" to say whether he would approve a bill from the Legislature granting Sundesert an exemption.

He said the estimates for electricity requirements in the future are so far apart that it is "certainly very appropriate for the Energy Commission to refine estimates to determine whether this nuclear plant is necessary for the economy and well-being of the state."

Brown said his administration is "making a decided effort to explore alternative energy sources and expand conservation." Through this effort, "it may be possible to substantially minimize" the number of nuclear power plants.

"The question is timing," he added, on whether a combination of other energy supplies, such as coal and geothermal, could be used in time to meet the need for Sundesert's electricity."

SDG&E plans to start generating electricity from the first of two 950-megawatt reactors in 1984.

Brown said that plutonium from reprocessing "is frought with risks and difficulties and to the extent that we can maintain a healthy economic climate, I would like to see the state minimize dependency on nuclear energy.

"We have the strong regulatory controls. We have a number of alternatives. Consistent with a sound economy, I support an energy path that is responsible" now and "for future generations."

The bill applies only to Sundesert.

State briefs

Hearst prosecutor to resign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The easygoing prosecutor who bested famed defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey in the trial that convicted heiress Patricia Hearst of bank robbery is expected to resign Friday as U.S. attorney after eight years in the post.

James Louis Browning Jr., 43, called a morning news conference in the federal building where the sensational trial held world attention last year. Miss Hearst drew a seven-year prison term which was appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals. No decision has been made yet.

During the trial, Browning conceded in an interview that his opponent from Boston was a "another good lawyer," but added: "...Unless you have the facts on your side; it doesn't mean much."

The facts, said the slim, mustached counselor, were on his side. The jury agreed.

Browning has been mentioned prominently as a candidate for the Republican nomination for California attorney general and has been awaiting the nomination of a replacement by President Jimmy Carter. Browning's current term expires next May 21, but U.S. attorneys serve at the pleasure of the President.

U.S. government sued

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The city attorney's office is suing the U.S. government to block the threatened cut off of $58.2 million in federal funds that could mean an end to 5,000 federally financed jobs by mid-November.

Attorneys for the San Diego Regional Employment and Training Consortium filed the suit Wednesday. U.S. District Court Judge Gordon Thompson has scheduled a hearing for 10:30 a.m.Monday.

The funds were for federal officials to finance jobs for the fiscal year beginning Saturday, under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

U.S. Department of Labor officials have refused to allocate the money to keep the jobs going, contending the consortium, the local agency that administers the funds, has violated federal rules.

Labor boss' trial resumes

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Testimony was scheduled to resume today in the trial of Louisiana labor boss Edward Grady Partin, accused of three counts of obstruction of justice in connection with an alleged threat against the life of a former Teamsters Union official.

Court records show prosecution witness Richard Baker, who testified Thursday, told conflicting stories to federal agents, attorneys and two federal grand juries about whether he overheard Partin threaten the life of a former Teamsters official William McClanahan.

Baker was to continue direct examination from the prosecution today.

New LNG locations sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has taken under submission petitions from the Southern California Gas Co. and the Sierra Club to consider a new location for its proposed facility to import liquefied natural gas.

A gas company spokeswoman said the company petitioned the FPC on Wednesday to consider a site at Point Conception, Calif., instead of the Oxnard, Calif., location previously proposed.

The Sierra Club has asked the FPC to reopen the case and consider the alternative of locating the LNG terminal offshore — isolating the LNG tankers and their hazardous cargo from any land areas.

MOOSE ON THE LOOSE

State Game Warden Vincent F. Caracciolo creeps up on a tranquilized 900-pound bull moose in Worcester, Mass., Thursday, and then, with rope in hand lassoes the beast. The animal, described as obviously confused and perhaps sick, was apprehended by roaming through a residential area of town after a chase of several blocks.

Another broker, $300,000 in gems missing

Diamond mystery: episode 2

CHICAGO (AP) — A broker is reported missing with up to $300,000 in gems from New York's diamond district where police are investigating the murder of another merchant and the disappearance of a fortune in diamonds.

Abraham Shafizadeh has been missing since since July 28, the day before he left for Puerto Rico on business, his relatives said, and they fear he may have been killed.

They say police have suggested that the disappearance is linked to organized crime.

The diamond broker's brother, Dr. Farokh Shafizadeh-Hakimi, told The Associated Press in an interview Thursday night that Shafizadeh may have been carrying diamonds worth between $250,000 and $300,000.

The Manhattan Missing Persons Bureau confirmed it was investigating the 31-year-old Shafizadeh's disappearance, but released no details.

New York police would not comment.

Hakimi and his wife, Dayla, who are Shafizadeh's only living relatives in the United States, have been to New York and San Juan in search of the missing man.

"Each day we have less hope," said Hakimi, an electrical engineer for Standard Oil in Chicago. "All I want is to find his body and give him a decent burial."

The couple said they thought the New York City police had not devoted enough attention to the case.

"He was over 18, single and, therefore, it was not illegal to leave home. He is just a missing person," they said New York police told them.

"They said he flew to Puerto Rico so it is the problem of police there," Hakimi said. But he said New York police never determined that Shafizadeh definitely was aboard an American Airlines flight to Puerto Rico for which he had a ticket.

The couple said they held off calling the disappearance to the attention of news media because in New York's diamond business, if "they (brokers) get publicity, that's the worst thing for them."

The body of 25-year-old Pinchos Jaroslawicz, a diamond broker who vanished last week with up to $1 million in gems, was discovered Wednesday in the Manhattan office of diamond cutter Shlomo Tal, who led police to it.

Tal, 31, told police he was present on the eve of Yom Kippur, when, he said, two gunmen beat Jaroslawicz unconscious and left him. Police quoted Tal as saying the robbers let him go but later called him at home and ordered him back to the Manhattan office "to tie the body in a plastic bag and hide it ..."

Five days later, Tal said, he was kidnaped by the same two gunmen. Police found Tal asleep in his car in the borough of Queens.

After a hearing Thursday, Tal was being held under $75,000 as a material witness to Jaroslawicz' murder.

A grand jury reportedly is investigating the murder.

Shafizadeh, like Jaroslawicz and many of the men working in the diamond industry in New York, is an Orthodox Jew.

The Hakimis said police in San Juan "told us that a Chicago man, a diamond dealer, and a New York woman diamond dealer were murdered there in the last year." They said Puerto Rican police "said the Mafia was actively involved."

The Hakimis said that they, his partner and three witnesses were allowed into Shafizadeh's safety deposit box at his diamond trade association, and that he reportedly left $150,000 to $200,000 in diamonds.

The partner could not be reached for comment Thursday night.

They said Shafizadeh had been living in the United States since 1968 and had been a diamond broker since 1974.

21 who died in Viet war on way home

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — In the glare and sweltering heat of Vietnam's afternoon sun American soldiers and sailors today lifted the remains of 21 American servicemen and a civilian into the belly of a military cargo plane that would take them home for the last time.

The servicemen had died during the Vietnam war that ended in April 1975 and their remains were being turned over to the United States after long negotiation by the Vietnamese Communists.

After the brief ceremony, Vu Hoang of the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said: "We have cooperated closely on these humanitarian matters. We need to settle the past perfectly, so we can have good and sound basis for establishing normal relations between the two countries."

Panel OKs 'workfare' program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee agreed today to require that the federal minimum wage be paid under state programs designed to force welfare recipients to earn their benefits.

In approving the "workfare" provision Thursday on an 8-3 vote, the committee had agreed to allow either the local prevailing wage or the state minimum wage, whichever is higher.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the panel, proposed today that the federal minimum wage be paid.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., objected, contending that state officials who operate the welfare job programs are not inhuman.

"Well, I don't like to be called inhuman myself," Long replied, and the committee approved his proposed change.

Report Treasury Dept. recommends tax cut

NEW YORK (AP) — The Treasury Department has recommended tax reform measures to President Carter which include a one-shot cut in personal income taxes next year, The New York Times reported today.

Quoting a confidential memorandum to Carter, The Times said the Treasury Department feels the tax cut should be implemented immediately because of fears of an economic slowdown in the latter half of 1978.

A Treasury Department spokesman declined to comment on The Times story, saying such memoranda are confidential.

The Times said Carter's overall strategy is to "sugarcoat" some tax reforms affecting business and the wealthy by calling for a cut in individual and corporate tax rates.

The tax proposal, according to The Times, will recommend varying tax cuts, depending on income bracket, for persons making less than $100,000. Persons making $100,000 to $200,000 would be taxed slightly more, and persons making more $200,000 would be hit with a 6 per cent increase.

Corporate tax rates on income of more than $50,000 would drop from 48 per cent to 46 per cent, The Times said.

The most controversial item Carter is considering, according to The Times, is a proposal to fully tax capital gains profits on land, securities and some other assets. Half of those profits are now generally tax exempt.

The tax proposals are expected to draw strong reactions from special interest groups. For example, restaurant, hotel and sports groups are expected to lobby vigorously against anticipated recommendations that only half the cost of business meals be deductible, and that no business entertainment expenses be deductible.

'Live' rocket found

A five-inch rocket shell found inside a lemon box at the Upland Lemon Growers Association, 392 E. A St. in Upland Thursday night is slated to be detonated by the Ontario Fire Department bomb squad.

Upland fire officials said the rocket was found in one of the lemon boxes by workers about 5:30 p.m. The workers called police and firemen to the scene. Upland firemen, suspecting the shell to be "live," called on the Ontario bomb squad to remove it. The Ontario bomb squad confirmed that the rocket shell was loaded with explosives and could have been detonated if dropped or struck with a hard object.

2 hurt in crash

Two persons were injured in the collision of two autos at Indian Hill Boulevard near the eastbound onramp of the San Bernardino Freeway Thursday afternoon.

One driver, Larae J. Zawodney, 28, of Ontario, was unhurt, but the other, Gloria J. Madison, 31, of Ontario, and her passenger, 16-year-old Richard S. Deem, required treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Nothing to hide, will disclose all—Graham

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Graham says his evangelistic association has nothing to hide, has done nothing illegal or immoral and will begin issuing annual reports disclosing how it spends up to $25 million in yearly contributions.

Graham, whose organization is headquartered in Minneapolis, told a news conference Thursday that the question of disclosure for religious organizations had not really come up until this year.

"And no churches or church-related organizations are required by law to do so," Graham said. "But the mood of the country is moving in that direction, and I think we will gladly conform to it."

The Graham organization recently has been criticized by the Better Business Bureau for failing to provide prospective contributors with information on how money is spent.

"At the proper time, we will be fully cooperative," Graham said at the news conference.

"My job is to do the spiritual, ministry," Graham added."I give myself to preaching and writing."

He said the association's board and executive committee have handled financial details and the board will decide, at a weekend meeting, what to disclose. A Graham aide said an announcement is expected next week.

"When people give to our association, they trust that it's being handled properly and wisely and invested for the advancement of the Kingdom of God, which all of it is," Graham said.

Bethlehem cuts 2,500 more jobs

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. said today it will cut 2,500 salaried jobs to reflect the company's reduced production amid sagging profits and sluggish demand.

It was the second major cutback for the nation's second-largest producer in seven weeks, and came amid a general retrenchment which has cost over 18,000 steel industry jobs since July.

Bethlehem announced in August that it would eliminate 7,300 jobs at Lackawanna, N.Y. and Johnstown, Pa.

The new layoffs are to be corporatewide and include salaried positions eliminated at Johnstown and Lackawanna.

Man shot from passing auto

A young Pomona man was wounded in the shoulder and back Thursday night when he was struck by shotgun pellets fired from a passing car.

The victim, Levi D. Prendiz, 18, said he was walking at Grand and San Antonio avenues just before 6 p.m. when he was shot by an occupant of a slowly-passing auto.

Prendiz, who lives nearby, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Fight on to down B1 bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said today a strategy is in the works that could overturn House committee action forcing President Carter to build two more B1 strategic bombers.

But O'Neill said "it is going to be a tough fight" in the House.

The President told O'Neill in a letter Thursday, "I hope that you will personally help me to prevent a serious mistake."

Congress has approved Carter's decision to halt production of the proposed bomber, but the House Appropriations Committee this week rejected Carter's request not to build two already funded.

The committee then went further and tabled the request to prevent it from even being considered by the full House.

But O'Neill said a plan has been worked out for the Senate to tack the request to scrap the two planes onto a different bill and give the full House a chance to approve that.

Carter told the speaker in his letter that "unless the Congress acts soon, over $1.5 billion will be wasted on unneeded defense purchases."

Carter said the House committee action would "force the Defense Department to produce weapons systems that the Congress has agreed are no longer needed."

O'Neill said he understands a feeling developed in the committee that there is still hope some sort of bomber will be developed to replace the B52s now flying, so the B1 should be kept in the running.

Carter and Congress agreed to halt future B1 production but to continue research and development for the plane.

Upland market robbed by 3 men

Upland police are seeking three men, one armed with a large revolver, who robbed the Circle K Market at 460 S. Campus Ave. of a small amount of cash Thursday afternoon.

Police said the vehicle the robbers are believed to have used in the robbery had been located, but not the robbers. Police said the robbers entered the store at 2:30 p.m. One produced the revolver and demanded the money.

They were all described as blacks in their 20s. The driver was described as being 5 feet 11, 150 pounds. He had a large blue handkerchief covering his hair. The second man weighed about 180 pounds. No further description was given of the third robber.

Oswald threat before killing told

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald threatened to kill John F. Kennedy during a visit to the Cuban embassy in Mexico City two months before the president was assassinated, former CBS newsman Daniel Schorr says.

Embassy officials threw Oswald out because they thought the threat was a provocation, Schorr reports in the current issue of The New York Review of Books.

Schorr said the Warren Commission, which investigated the Nov. 22, 1963 assassination, was told of Oswald's threat but did not follow it up.

The commission, Schorr said, did not "press the CIA for information about Oswald's Cuban association, this despite the fact — or perhaps because of the fact — that one of its members was former CIA Director Allen Dulles.

"The Cuban ambassador in Mexico City had reported the incident to Havana," Schorr wrote. "It had not been taken seriously at the time, but after Kennedy's assassination, Castro had come to suspect that the effort to get Oswald into Cuba was part of a right-wing conspiracy.

"Oswald would return from Cuba, then assassinate the President, and it would look as though Castro had been responsible," Schorr said.

Schorr speculated that Oswald may, however, have been acting alone, and his desire to kill the President could have been triggered by publication of a Sept. 9, 1963, interview with The Associated Press in which Castro said U.S. leaders would be in danger if they attempted to eliminate Cuban leaders.

"The possibility that Oswald acted on his own, inspired by Castro's statement, cannot today be proved, but it has the elements of the fortuitous and the lunatic that sometimes govern history," Schorr wrote.

"The 'conspiracy,' then, would have been a conspiracy of interlocking events — the incessant CIA plots to kill Castro, touching off a Castro warning, touching off something in the fevered mind of Lee Harvey Oswald," the former reporter said.

$35 million awarded in building collapse

MIAMI (AP) — A circuit court jury has awarded a total of $35.5 million in punitive damages to 23 persons injured and the estates of eight killed when a federal government building collasped in 1974 in downtown Miami.

"Let your verdict ring out across the country like a bell of truth," attorney Duane Anderson told jurors. "You have got to tell engineers, builders and renovators of old buildings that when they work they do it knowing the lives of good Americans will be at stake."

The jury made the award Thursday as a result of the collapse of the Drug Enforcement Administration office.

The court ordered $31 million from National Properties Inc. and Ungar Building Inc., owners of the building; $2 million from Burns and McDonnel Engineering Inc., and $500,000 from Ray Prieto Jr., a structural engineer once employed by another codefendant, the Kunde, Driver, Spooner and Associates consulting firm, which was assessed $2 million.

The four and the City of Miami were found to be negligent by the same jury Wednesday after authorities testified that the defendants, their agents or employes had doubts about the structural soundness of the 50-year-old building as far back as 1971 but did nothing about it.

Although the City of Miami was found negligent, it cannot by law be assessed punitive damages. However, the 31 plaintiffs can seek compensatory damages from the city and attorneys said that "probably many will."

Circuit Judge Richard Fuller said it would probably be some time before the money is divided among the 31 plaintiffs, whose damage suits were consolidated into one. Fuller said the money would be held in trust until any compensatory damage suits are settled.

He said the money will be distributed by the plaintiffs committee, composed of four lawyers. They said a guide to distributing the money has not been established.

Life support ordered removed

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Dane County Judge Robert Pekowsky today ordered that life-support systems be removed from a brain-damaged teen-ager as requested by the youth's parents.

Lawyers for the Madison couple said doctors would remove the equipment later in the day from the 18-year-old and no further comment would be forthcoming from the family.

The parents, whose identities were not released, made the request after doctors at the University of Wisconsin Hospitals testified Thursday that the young man's brain showed no life signs.

Pekowsky issued a temporary injunction last week preventing removal of the equipment, but said he would consider the request today.

The patient suffered an apparent heart attack at a state mental institution. He was brought to the UW Hospitals' Trauma and Life Support Unit.

Hope for his recovery faded two days after he was admitted when his eyes became fixed and dilated, said Dr. Marvin Birnbaum, director of the unit. Tests failed to detect brain activity, he added.

Birnbaum said the patient's biological functions could be artifically maintained indefinitely.

"There is no question in my mind that there is no chance of recovery of this man's brain function," Birnbaum said.

Birnbaum and Dr. Manucher Javid, the hospital's chief neurosurgeon, said physicians must have the ultimate responsibility for determining whether an individual is dead or alive.

Javid said the Karen Ann Quinlan case differs from the Madison case.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — A brighter outlook for the economy and interest rates spurred investors to push stocks higher early Friday in active trading. But Bethlehem Steel's decision to lay off 2,500 salaried employes cooled investor enthusiasm.

Prior to Bethlehem's announcement, investors continued to hail the government's report of a better-than-expected 0.8 per cent jump in its August index of leading economic indicators.

Early buying also was sparked by the Federal Reserve Board's report late Thursday that the nation's basic money supply fell $1.1 billion in the latest week, easing pressures on interest rates.

Trendsetting Citibank left its prime lending rate at 7¼ per cent, when its commercialpaper-based formula called for 7½ per cent.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average, ahead nearly five points at the outset, was ahead 2.52 points to 842.61 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched average, which fell to a 21-month low earlier this month, rose 5.37 points Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines, 797 to 326, among the 1,589 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 9,900,000 shares, compared with 9,330,000 traded during the same period Thursday.

Sony Corp. was the most active NYSE issue, up ⅛ to 8¼ following two block trades of 100,000 each at 8⅛. Boeing Corp. was second, off ⅛ to 25⅛ in trading that included a block of 140,000 shares at 25.

U.S. Steel was third, up ⅛ to 28. Bethlehem was ahead ⅛ to 19 in moderate trading.

American Medicorp, trading for the first time since Tuesday, was ahead 2⅜ in active turnover. Humana has filed a tender for up to 75 per cent of American's stock. American Medicorp directors, who are opposed to the deal, raised their firm's dividend payout to 12½ cents a share from 7½ cents. Humana stock was down ⅜.

Savin Business Machines, which plunged 6¼ points Thursday, was off another 4½ before trading was halted because of an influx of orders. The stock has been weak following published reports that its Japanese supplier of copiers may become a Savin competitor.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Hanover Shoe was ahead 2⅜ after a delayed opening. The company said it may sell its shares to an unidentified party for $18.50 a share.

Homework attitudes changing

Tenth in a series
By JOHN DOUGLAS

Attitudes toward homework are changing. Some secondary schools have experimented with abolishing it altogether, but found that the change did not have much effect on overall achievement. Some teachers have concluded from such experiences that homework really isn't necessary. But another explanation seems more logical: the homework previously given probably wan't appropriate. A student who works more learns more. The problem is to assign homework that will sustain interest, develop good study habits, and provide a student with experiences not available in the classroom.

We already know that many students are bored in school, but now the problem becomes critical. If a student has spent all day staring out the window or counting the number of times a teacher fumbles with pocket change, he will hardly be motivated to study in a more relaxed home atmosphere.

Too often, homework has been merely a stultifying repetition of dull class exercises. This busywork is hated by advanced students, unheeded by average students, and unhelpful to poor students. Homework should have certain clear objectives that set it apart from studying done at school. Teachers should guide students enough so they know exactly what is expected. Most of all, homework should encourage independent study, so a child learns how to discipline himself and how to pursue answers to problems on his own.

To see whether these goals are being met, talk with your child about homework. Ask particularly about how it compares to class work, keeping the following points in mind:

—How much time is the child expected to spend on homework? How closely does this correspond to the time actually spent? Generally recommended times range from only a few minutes each night in the early grades — mostly to establish the habit — to roughly two hours a night in senior high school.

—Is the student encouraged to learn on her own, or is the homework just a repetition of exercises already explained in class? Remember, the most important aspect of homework is to develop study habits and ability to accomplish independent work.

—Is the homework obviously too hard or too easy? Work that is too difficult only feeds the "anxiety cycle" and frustrates the student. Work that is too easy is useless from the start and only bores a student.

—Is homework tailored to a student's individual needs or is it the result of a class assignment? Assignments should be different for advanced as well as slower students. Fast learners should be encouraged to strike out on their own to study interesting related material. Slow learners should be given exercises aimed at helping them overcome specific difficulties.

—Does your child understand the difference between "copying" and "working together" on homework? Children learn well from each other, and properly conducted, studying together can be profitable. Simple copying is a waste of time.

—Is extra homework being assigned as punishment? This regrettable procedure only leads a student to identify study with pain and is grounds for an immediate complaint to the teacher.

Boy, 10, dies from wounds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 10-year-old boy has died from head wounds received when his older brother accidentally shot him, officials said.

Abel Vargas, of Los Angeles, died Monday at County-USC Medical Center. The shooting occurred when the boy's brother mistakenly fired the gun as he put it away, officials said.

Auxiliary lists award winners

Awards were presented and officers installed when the Foothill Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary met this week at Griswold's, Claremont.

Peter Schabarum, supervisor of the First District, presented awards issued by the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, to Jane E. Tessitor, FPH public relations coordinator, and to the hospital auxiliary in appreciation for outstanding volunteer services during the flu clinics at the hospital last fall.

Recognition was also given to auxilians for service hours earned and special spotlight awards went to other deserving volunteers, according to Mrs. William T. Daly, outgoing president.

New officers installed are Mmes. Stephen Foley, president; Eugene Blackwood, president-elect; Alfred Ohrmund, first vice president; Alfred Hays, second vice president; John Kistler, third vice president; George Dawald, fourth vice president; John Boewe, recording secretary; and Karl Hoff, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Tom Robertson was installing officer.

HEIH sets Monday meeting

The Pomona Valley Home Economists in Homemaking (HEIH) will meet on Monday at the home of Lynn Sampson, 5319 Mountain Springs Ranch Road, La Verne, at 7:30 p.m.

This year, HEIH will meet the first week of each month on different nights of the week so that members having duties on a definite night may be able to attend most of the meetings.

The October meeting will offer ideas for Christmas gifts to make, and prepare for the sale at the Claremont Village Venture 4 on Oct. 15, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. which is sponsored by the Claremont Civic Association. The funds from the sale will be a major contribution to the scholarship fund. This year a scholarship was given to Julie Thompson, a senior at Cal Poly Pomona.

All graduates in home economics are invited to become members of the group. For further information, call Dorothy Karlson, 624-5148 or Bea Kelleher, days, (213) 339-3707.

Square dance scheduled tonight

The Calico Rompers Square Dance Club has scheduled a "Pom Pon" dance this evening from 8 to 11 at Serrano Junior High School, 4725 San Jose Ave., Montclair. Ross Quast will be guest caller.

The round of the month will be taught between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

Joyce Brothers

Care of baby?

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My 17-year-old daughter is pregnant and too far along to even consider abortion. She's very immature and her boyfriend refuses to marry her. We've discussed this problem so often, we're all sick from worry. She says she won't give up the baby under any circumstances. She says she's always wanted something that belongs just to her. She doesn't want to share it with anyone, even with the father. I'm taking her to see our priest hoping he can convince her. I can't take care of the baby and I know it will come to this after the novelty wears off. What can I do? — W.W.

Dear W.W.: Try to talk with your priest beforehand and tell him all the problems.

I agree, this is a serious and potentially tragic matter. If you can reach your daughter at all, try to get her to act out of love for the child, rather than from her own selfish needs. Remind her that having this child will restrict her social life, that when she wants to date boys or relax during the days or the evenings, the needs of her infant will demand her attention. Her friends will soon realize the restrictions on her life and will probably stop extending invitations.

She will have no chance to continue her education or even pursue hobbies or talents until the baby is 4 or 5. Even then, she will have to think of the child first.

Unfortunately, psychological studies suggest that among unwed mothers, it is the most unstable who keep their babies. Often, they are lonely and expect their infants to give them a love they're incapable of giving. Remind your daughter that babies need to receive love. Even a puppy is more capable of giving the love your daughter is looking for. It is the mother who gives. The child only receives — at least for the first few years.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I feel very sorry for my older brother, but I can't seem to help him in his problems with women. He's been taken by cold-hearted, ruthless women more times than I can say and yet he never learns. I can't understand how men can be such innocents when it comes to love. They seem to have endless faith and trust when they think they're in love. Because of his gullibility, my brother's always hurt. What can I do for him? — H.M.

Dear H.M.: I'm afraid there isn't much you can do, other than to encourage him to try to analyze why he's attracted to this particular kind of woman. If he's constantly rejected, and it's not anything that he's doing, then I suspect he's unconsciously drawn to women who are hostile to men. He would probably find professional therapy beneficial.

It is true that men are usually much more trusting than women in matters of the heart. A survey disclosed that almost 50 percent of the women questioned thought men would not remain faithful to their wives, while only 28 percent of the men expressed doubts about women's fidelity.

There are some people who simply can't love. They can accept, but they're unable to give, usually because of some deep emotional block. However, if your brother is consistently drawn to this kind of woman, then something's definitely wrong.

It's possible that you are getting only one side of the story. Your brother may make demands that are unfair or that no woman could meet. Usually, when there are problems in relationships, both parties involved bear some responsibility.

On campus

The Department of Business Administration at AZUSA PACIFIC COLLEGE is sponsoring a College Day for junior college students on Saturday to begin at 9 a.m.

The purpose is to introduce junior college business students planning to continue their education in business with Azusa Pacific's business administration and accounting program.

Students will be provided information regarding courses and degrees offered, financial aid available, and a tour of the campus. In addition, they will be the guests of the college at a luncheon featuring a person in business. Students may also meet each individual business administration faculty member to discuss their future careers. The activities will conclude at 1 p.m.

For more information, persons may call the Department of Business Administration, (213) 969-3434, ext. 139 or 189.

The assorted shapes and colors of gas nebulae from exploded stars will be presented in the Daniel B. Milliken Planetarium at CHAFFEY COLLEGE on Tuesday and on Oct. 11.

Explained with a slide presentation at 7:15 p.m. will be how astronomers measure time and distance by the character of these light sources.

The luminous clouds range in configuration from rings to streamers; their individual colors run the gamut of the rainbow.

There will be no admission charge. Seating will be on a first-come basis. The planetarium seating capacity is 78.

As a community service, CHAFFEY COLLEGE has arranged for a mobile unit of the Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside counties to be on campus from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Thursday.

The unit will be set up at the staff lounge to accept blood donations from residents of the college district, the Chaffey staff and students.

A blood bank representative reported the two-county facility disbursed 314 pints of blood to area hospitals during the Labor Day weekend.

Some 400 parents, alumni and friends of CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE are expected on campus Saturday at the annual Parents Day, combined this year with Alumni Homecoming. Day-long activities are scheduled.

After a 9:30 a.m. registration and coffee reception in Bauer Common Room, Dr. John R. Snortum will present a film and speak on "Cops and College Students: The Police Department as a Public Affairs Laboratory."

Also during the assembly will be reports on the Mothers Club activities by new president, Mrs. Thomas W. Kunkel of Long Beach, and a report on the students by senior Samuel Kagan, student body president.

Coach John Zinda will offer a pre-game "Chalk Talk," explaining certain new tactics the Stags will perform later at 1:30 p.m. during their first home football game of the season. Their opponents will be Cal Lutheran.

Conquistadors

The Spanish Conquistadors had set up colonies in Cuba and Mexico by the 1520s. They founded the first permanent settlements west of the Mississippi, beginning with Santa Fe in 1610.

ROBERT MITTELSTADT

Poly names new design chairman

Robert Mittelstadt of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pomona has accepted the chairmanship of the Cal Poly Pomona school of environmental design department of architecture.

He leads his own architectural firm in San Francisco and has been associate professor and director of the Stanford University program in architecture since 1973.

Mittelstadt believes teaching architecture must be more than technical and professional training.

His educational ideal would be a six-year block, or a triad, of courses — two years in the liberal arts, two years of design, theory and technical courses and two years of highly professional graduate-level work.

He is a registered architect in New York, California and Washington. And in additon to Stanford, he has taught at UC Berkeley. His commissions include private residences, city halls, municipal buildings, apartments and townhouses, banks and stores.

His awards include first prize for the Fremont Civic-Cultural Center Architectural Competition; the Prix de Rome Fellowship, American Academy in Rome; and Fulbright Fellowship to the University of Rome.

Supervisory techniques to be taught

Men and women preparing for or are in a supervisory position in business or industry may develop the techniques of effective organizational and personnel management this semester at Mt. San Antonio College.

The college is offering "Elements of Supervision" at Valley Light Industries, Inc., 822 N. Grand Ave., Covina.

Registration will continue to Tuesday with students enrolling in the classroom.

The class is open to persons who would like to gain a broader understanding of basic human attitudes and methods of meeting administrative and labor relations problems.

There are no prerequisites for the three-unit course. Regular meetings will be held each Tuesday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through Jan. 24.

Further information may be obtained by calling the MSAC office of Continuing Education, at 598-2811, ext. 321.

Former valley physician defends UC policy

Discusses the need for more family practice physicians

DR. SMILKSTEIN

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

"Because we played the game honestly, we got into trouble," said a former valley physician who served on a task force and admissions committee at UC Davis School of Medicine.

"We were not attempting to set a specific number of minority students so much as we were attempting to select students who would return to their own communities as family practice physicians," said Dr. Gabriel Smilkstein, who practiced in Claremont and Pomona for many years.

The university's medical school has been charged with "reverse discrimination" in the courts by two white students who were denied admission because of a "minority quota system."

The Supreme Court will begin hearings on an appeal of the first case, arising when a man was denied admission in 1973 and won his case in the state courts. In the second case, a young woman sued and won the right to be admitted this fall.

Dr. Smilkstein joined the medical school faculty at UC Davis in 1973 and has now become a member of the faculty at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

The physician, who served on the task force on discrimination at the Davis campus, recently spoke to the medical staff at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He discussed the need for more family practice physicians and how some medical schools are attempting to fill the void.

"There are pockets of the country which are medically underserved," said Dr. Smilkstein. "These are in rural areas and where the people are from minority groups or disadvantaged.

"The UC Davis program is designed to allow students from these minority areas to attend the medical school because we've learned that, in most cases, students will return to the area they came from to practice medicine."

Dr. Smilkstein said the school was not seeking minority students who were from advantaged families or with top-ranking preparatory school backgrounds.

He added that being from a minority group was just one of the criteria considered. More important was the commitment of the student to serve as family practice physicians in areas where doctors are vitally needed.

Dr. Smilkstein said at Davis, the stress on family practice physicians is further encouraged by providing medical students with an opportunity to practice in poorer areas of Sacramento.

"Family practice is a discipline which is still trying to find itself," continued the doctor. "But it is starting to make a distinct contribution to medicine."

Since World War II, most doctors have received their education in university hospitals where the patients they see represent only 1 percent of the ill population.

"When these doctors enter family practice, they see a different type of patient with different symptoms or types of illnesses.

"Some medical schools are incorporating new concepts of training which stress less formal lecturing and more problem-solving by students," Dr. Smilkstein reported.

The medical school instructor said that family practice doctors are now being taught to learn to recognize the family in crisis.

"Many physical problems are directly correlated to events within the family — life events," added Dr. Smilkstein. If the family is basically functioning well, a crisis can be faced and solved. If the family is already functioning poorly, a crisis — even a minor one — can be devastating."

He named five components which a physician could use to score a family.

These are the ability of a family to adapt to a situation and adjust; the sharing of decision-making and encouraging responsibility; growth and self-sulfillment; affection among members; and a commitment to sharing time, space and resources with family.

"The doctor needs to know where the patient is coming from," he added.

Dr. Smilkstein said that the need for family physicians is critical both in the United States and in Southeast Asia where he recently visited medical schools.

At least the Smilkstein family is helping to solve the shortage of doctors. Two sons are now attending UC Davis School of Medicine.

Who owns the sun?

With the tremendous degree of promotion being given to the use of solar energy in Southern California of late, the question simply had to come up soon: Who owns the sunlight?

Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn contends there is no point in installing solar equipment if those who use it cannot be guaranteed a right to sunshine.

Accordingly, he asked County Counsel John Larson for a legal opinion on how homeowners can protect their share of the sun.

For the most part, it will take county ordinances to restrict interference with it, according to Deputy County Counsel Melissa Taubman.

This means the county would have to limit the height of a tree a neighbor can grow and the size of a building a builder can put up.

Or, if the sun lover prefers, he can buy an easement from his neighbor that guarantees him more sun.

Ideal weekend weather expected

If the weather has anything to do with it, fair attendance will set a record this weekend.

The sun is expected to burn away early morning clouds long before noon, and the weatherman predicts temperatures in the upper 70s in the afternoons through Sunday.

MSAC instructor's twin brother one of hijack victims

The twin brother of a Mt. San Antonio College swimming instructor was among the eight Americans and 159 passengers aboard a Japan Air Lines DC8 hijacked earlier this week by Japanese terrorists and at last report still on the ground in Dacca, Bangladesh with 151 passengers still held hostage.

Kurt Krueger, whose brother Ken teaches at MSAC and in the Charter Oak Unified School District, was released about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday by the terrorists who vowed to still carry out their threats to murder the remaining passengers if their demands for the release of nine political prisoners and some $6 million.

Krueger's brother said Thursday he had a couple of conversations with representatives of the U.S. State Department in Washington D.C. informing him that his brother was all right, had been examined by a physician and was being housed in the American embassy in Bangladesh.

Krueger said his brother is a former Junior College All American swimmer and swimmer at the University of Colorado. He said Krueger was formerly a teacher of history and yoga in the Los Angeles City Schools and had gone to India about a year and a half ago to teach and continue his study of yoga.

"Aside from conversations with State Department workers in Washington D.C., I've had no personal word from my brother," said Krueger.

OUT OF REACH

This tiny visitor to the Los Angeles County Fair is kept amused by a balloon attached to the stroller. The fair, expected to receive its millionth visitor Saturday, will close on Sunday.

Crowing contest set today

With the Los Angeles County Fair scheduling its first national cock crowing contest today at 6:30, it might be appropriate for fair officials to crow this weekend if the world's largest county fair tops its all-time attendance record.

Fair attendance through Thursday totaled 929,426, with 44,991 going through the gates Thursday. The 1976 fair attendance figure for the same number of days was 819,115.

Fair officials hope to welcome the 1 millionth visitor to the 1977 fair sometime Saturday morning.

The all-time record for the fair is 1,268,446, set in 1972.

To top that record, 339,021 people would have to visit the fair today, Saturday and Sunday.

Mental health center slated for La Puente area

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A regional mental health center that would serve parts of the valley and have a first-year budget of nearly $2 million is scheduled to be established this fall in the La Puente area.

Funds for the project will come from state and federal mental health allocations.

The proposal will be submitted Tuesday to Los Angeles County supervisors. But since the project will not cost the county any money, approval is expected.

Jess Ramirez, deputy regional director for the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Department, said the proposal is so new the project is still looking for a home.

Under the proposal, the county would be willing to spend $150,000 a year for quotas in the vicinity of 20,000 to 28,000 square feet of floor space in the La Puente-Industry area, he added.

Ramirez reported the county could guarantee an eight-year lease since the program is to be funded for that long.

First preference would be given to a builder willing to construct such a building to the county's specifications. But lacking that, the county would be willing to view other suitable alternatives.

The center's target area will extend from Bassett and Azusa east to La Puente, Rowland Heights, Valinda, Walnut and sections of Diamond Bar. This has a population of about 200,000 persons.

The area, particularly in La Puente, Bassett and Rowland Heights, has been identified as a "severely poor" section of the state.

In fact, said Ramirez, the La Puente catchment area ranks seventh in priority of 152 impoverished areas in California.

About one-half the area's population is under 18 years of age, nearly one-third have Spanish surnames, about one-quarter are poor as defined by county standards, and one-third live in overcrowded housing.

According to the report, the community has expressed concerns over such problems as poverty, blighted neighborhoods, deteriorating housing and poor sanitation.

Ramirez said child abuse, neglect, wife beating and rapes are common complaints. Gang rapes and gang fights are reportedly common, unemployment is high, and suicides are more frequent than in the county as a whole, he added.

The project's purpose will be twofold: to reduce hospital care in other county facilities by early treatment of potential patients; and provide alternatives to inpatient services such as guidance, psychological area, effective anti-drug and alcohol programs, and rehabilitation.

Morrison E. Chamberlin, acting director of the county's health services, said the county would save money by accepting the proposal by diverting some of its patients from other facilities. This would cut back on workers.

At present, there is an existing health center in La Puente with a staff of seven.

The new proposal calls for a staff of 91 and a budget of $1,970,000. By the eighth year, the budget will increase to $3.5 million.

At the end of the eighth-year period, county supervisors will have the option of continuing the program with county funds or dropping it.

The project's fiscal year began last July 1, but delays have pushed the opening to possibly November or December, said Ramirez.

Since the first year's operation is cut in half, he hopes what funds are left over this fiscal year can be carried over to the next year.

Water proposal endorsed by former state official

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A controversial $26 million bond proposal designed to bring Northern California water to the valley was endorsed Thursday by a former state water official.

Despite opposition to his comments from the Claremont League of Women Voters, William R. Gianelli, a former director of the state Department of Water Resources, gave the bond issue a ringing endorsement.

The Pomona Valley Municipal Water District proposal, which will be on the Nov. 8 ballot, has been strongly opposed by the league. Officials of the group claim it is uncertain whether Northern California water would be available due to the drought and to future supply and energy problems.

The league also states the bonds are an "extravagant proposal" that would place another burden on the "already overburdened property tax."

Gianelli was attacked by the league in a press release issued after his speech as a "paid consultant" hired by the PVMWD to "make their outdated project sound reasonable."

While Gianelli noted he was paid $2,000 to prepare a seven-page report for the water district, he said, "I'm not about to prostitute myself for $2,000."

Now a consulting civil engineer, Gianelli said he would be glad to debate his facts with other engineers.

Gianelli, who presented his report Thursday to the water district at a luncheon meeting at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona, emphasized the proposed PVMWD projects were "logical" approaches.

He endorsed both the Northern and Southern California water projects proposed by PVMWD if the bond issue passes. "What the PVMWD is proposing makes a lot of sense," he stated.

In answer to a question, Gianelli said the proposed general obligation bond approach is the "best way to go" because taxes are used to make the payments. Revenue bonds are more uncertain as they are based only on the sale of water, he noted.

Gianelli disputed a claim by league members — who asked him various questions following his report — that Northern California water would not be available. "I feel it will be available," he said, although adding that state legislation is needed to increase present supplies.

Gianelli's seven-page report answered various questions posed by the water district relative to its proposed projects, with most questions centered on Northern California water.

He said it was a wise planning assumption by PVMWD that present water supplies coming from the Colorado River will have to be reduced upon completion of the Central Arizona Project, which will divert more river water to Arizona.

When this occurs, the PVMWD will become much more dependent on water from Northern California, said Gianelli.

He noted the district's statement "seems reasonable" that Northern California water will be available in future years, as contracted for with the state.

While pumping costs of Northern California water will increase markedly in future years, those costs would not be prohibitive for Southern California, Gianelli said.

The former state water official who served in the Reagan administration agreed with a PVMWD preference for pure Northern water compared to poorer quality Colorado River water. Hard water from the river creates problems for consumers, he added, including increased household operating costs.

In answer to another PVMWD question, Gianelli agreed with the district's phased approach to solving water problems in the valley. He endorsed the Northern California Miramar Plant project and the Tonner Canyon plan for Southern California.

Although the district has various alternatives for solving its water problems locally, Gianelli indicated the phased approach was a "logical first step."

The water project, if approved by voters, would involve construction of new treatment, storage and transmission facilities, plus the purchase of land in Tonner Canyon.

A larger — but similar — $35 million water bond proposal by the PVMWD was turned down by voters in 1975.

More flexibility is necessary

The current classroom shortage in the Pomona Unified School District is typical of what is happening in public education.

The Pomona school board and other boards of education throughout California are not calling the shots any more because they have signed contracts with teacher groups giving the teachers union the upper hand in many school district decisions. Therefore, the public no longer controls the schools it supports.

For instance, the Pomona school board signed a contract with the Associated Pomona Teachers last year which, among other things, established maximum class sizes. Pomona was one of the few school districts in the state to establish maximum class sizes.

Consequently, it was not totally unexpected that there would be a shortage of classroom space in some schools when classes resumed this fall.

The situation is not totally intolerable, however, and before the end of the calendar year there will be 31 new portable classrooms, now under construction, ready for occupancy.

Older hands in the school district can recall when in days of tremendous growth some years ago classroom space was at a premium and double sessions were not unusual. The current situation has not come to that, however, and is not likely to.

While the district is waiting for the new classrooms to be finished, there is no necessity for recriminations on the part of either the school district or the teachers union.

What is needed in the future is less rigidity in limiting class sizes so that when a student bulge occurs larger classes can be arranged temporarily so as to avoid such classroom inconveniences as are currently being experienced.

It hurts but it works

A lot of criticisms can be levelled against our crazy-quilt income tax system; but the claim that the burden falls disproportionately on lower-income people while the rich escape almost entirely simply doesn't stand up to inspection.

Total personal income taxes collected by the federal government came to $125 billion in 1975. Computations by the Tax Foundation, based on the Treasury Department's latest "statistics of income" report, show that 72 per cent of that total was accounted for by only 25 per cent of all taxpayers — those earning $15,898 or more.

The top 10 per cent of taxpayers—those with Adjusted Gross Incomes of $23,420 or more — picked up the tab for nearly half the total personal income tax bill; and 5 per cent of the taxpayers — those with AGI of $29,272 or more — paid more than one-third of the total.

At the extreme top, 1,149 taxpayers who reported incomes of $1 million or more in 1975 paid an average tax of $1,011,317, says the Treasury, or a total of $1.5 billion.

By contrast, the bottom 50 per cent of taxpayers — those earning $8,930 or less — accounted for only 7 per cent of total personal income tax collections, and the lowest 25 per cent — those with AGI of $4,044 or less — paid less than 1 per cent.

Also significant is the fact that the relative share of the income-tax burden on upper-income taxpayers has been increasing while the share paid by lower-income taxpayers has been shrinking. In fact, several million taxpayers disappeared from the tax rolls altogether between 1970 and 1975 because of changes in the law benefitting those with lower incomes.

The federal income tax is called a progressive tax, meaning that the more you earn the more you are supposed to pay. All in all, it seems to be working the way it was designed to work.

Honor where due

In a speech in New Delhi the other day, Indira Gandhi, the former and repudiated prime minister of India, sharply criticized the new People's party government for "lack of vision and direction" and dared it to arrest her.

Unlike in other countries, she pointed out, "going to jail in India is an honor."

Mrs. Gandhi ought to know. She "honored" thousands of her countrymen during the last few years of her 11-year-rule, when she turned dictator.

We hope, however, that reports from India that the government is looking for an excuse to arrest Mrs. Gandhi are unfounded. Otherwise, it would be embarking on the same fateful course she did when she threw the first dissenter behind bars to keep him quiet.

The tax-free college myth

Dear Editor:

The other day I recognized a familiar ogre that I hoped had faded away. A letter to the editor said the "tax-exempt status of seven colleges including all the undeveloped land they own . . . causes the rest of us to carry the would-be taxation on their properties as well as our own."

I can tell you about six colleges — The Claremont Colleges — and taxes. They paid property taxes of $442,825 in the 1976-77 fiscal year, and $351,102 of that was in Los Angeles County.

The myth of "the tax-free college clique" arises from the long-standing American practice of exempting from property taxes certain institutions that are making special contributions to society. Colleges are among them, but the tax exemption applies only to those portions of their properties that are actually used for educational purposes. They pay full tax on everything else they own, and it mounts up, as you can see.

There are a couple of other considerations. One is the money spent in the area by students, faculty and staff which generates considerable revenues for the city as well as profits for its businesses. In 1976, for instance, the colleges paid wages and fringe benefits totaling $21,780,000. Another consideration is what the tax consequences would be if houses instead of colleges covered these campuses. The cost of required services notoriously outweighs taxes derived from typical residences. I'll resist the urge to talk about cultural assets.

Certainly a broad tax base is a financial boon for any city, and industry can make significant contributions. So do The Claremont Colleges.

Remark misinterpreted

Dear Editor:

In regards to the article, "City ordinance limiting play opposed by backer of three games a week," in the Tuesday, Sept. 20, edition of the newspaper, apparently my explanation of the reasons for allowing bingo playing in the city were misinterpreted. I stated that the original intent was to quote "keep little old ladies off the streets," and that it was getting out of hand.

This quotation was used by the original backers of the groups asking for bingo to be allowed. At that time, I was and am still personally in favor of bingo being allowed for church and non-profit organizations on a one-night-a-week basis, and expressed my own displeasure at the "sweet little old ladies statement" to some of the people that expressed it.

I would like to apologize to anyone that was offended by this statement. I do not in any way wish to offend anyone.

More on Somoza

WASHINGTON — Of all the dictators Uncle Sam has embraced, he has hugged no one more tightly to his bosom than Nicaragua's Anastasio Somoza. The United States has showered blessings upon him to ensure, presumably, that Nicaragua's military might well remain safely on the U.S. side.

Somoza has one of the world's most decorated chests, adorned with medals he and his family have bestowed upon him. We are now presenting him with a new award to add to his collection.

We have decided after a five-month investigation of his qualifications to give Somoza our Idi Amin award. For Somoza, like the madcap Ugandan strongman, is a gluttonous caricature of a dictator.

Somoza has stuffed his bank accounts with money and his belly with food and booze. Much of the money has come, at least indirectly, from the U.S. taxpayers. The dictator has developed dozens of ways to divert economic aid, intended for his impoverished people, into his own pockets.

The Pentagon heavily subsidizes his small military force. And the Central Intelligence Agency left behind in Nicaragua about $1 million worth of arms from the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion, which had been launched against Cuba from Somoza's shores.

The dictator uses his national guard, which he maintains largely at U.S. expense, to protect himself and to control his people. He is obsessed with the fear that he, like his dictator father, will be bumped off.

His urban ranch, El Retiro, is barricaded and patrolled by guards. Several tanks stand by to repel any invading force. When he goes out for dinner, his own mess steward prepares his food beforehand and totes it along in insulated containers.

Somoza also employs a decoy, as beer-bellied as himself, to lead astray any assassins who might be laying for him. A few minutes before Somoza departs, the decoy climbs into an armored limousine just like the dictator's and takes off in the wrong direction.

Any area Somoza visits is literally placed under military siege several hours before his arrival. Two or three acres may be cleared of traffic to make room for the potentate and all entrances or exits are manned by guards.

Then Big Daddy's caravan arrives. He is accompanied by 30 or 40 aides, including the general in charge of national security and several fierce colonels. One of them, Col. Victorino Lara, always armed with a .44-calibre pistol and a ferocious frown, is the epitome of a dictator's lackey.

Arrayed around the presidential party in concentric circles are some 200 bodyguards, armed with Belgian automatics. An outer ring is under military command. The second ring, carrying knives in addition to guns, is under the command of the intelligence service.

An inner ring of five or six hand-picked goons, many of whom were hardened criminals, completely surround and shield Somoza. When he moves, they all move en masse. Watching them shuffle along, said one witness, "is a ludicrous sight."

Somoza's personal goons accompany him wherever he goes. At fancy functions, they try to remain inconspicuous and pass themselves off as guests. But they are so unkempt and so patently predictable that they are rarely successful.

In Washington

Playing the percentages

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

DETROIT (NEA) — Forced to abandon a clumsily managed effort to thwart opposition to President Carter in the 1980 Democratic primary elections, White House aides have devised a face-saving substitute of equally dubious value.

The stage for that still-unfolding political drama is the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Presidential Nomination and Party Structure, mandated to refine and recommend reforms or modifications of party rules.

The leading actors are the key Carter agents among the commission's 58 members: Richard O. (Rick) Hutcheson III and Mark A. Siegel, both members of the White House staff, and Patrick H. Caddell, the President's political pollster.

Current party rules, designed to guarantee the broadest representation of grass-roots voter sentiment, require that any presidential contender who receives at least 15 per cent of the votes in a state's primary or caucus must be given a proportional share of that state's delegates to the national convention.

When the commission met in Washington during the second week in August, Hutcheson proposed raising that threshold from 15 to 25 per cent, arguing that such a "consensus-building" mechanism was needed to establish a broad base of support around the leading candidate or candidates.

But that proposed change, first disclosed in this column, also would mean that any challenger to Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination would have to capture 25 per cent of a state's primary or caucus vote before qualifying for a single delegate vote from that state at the national convention.

Carter loyalists clearly control a majority of the commission, but by the time the panel convened here in the second week of September the President's operatives apparently decided that continued pressure to adopt the scheme would be too costly in terms of perpetuating the adverse publicity and political hostility the plan generated in recent weeks.

On the other hand, one of the unwritten rules of politics is that the White House, presumed to be a reservoir of unlimited political clout, must never display weakness by surrendering or allowing itself to be defeated in an intra-party fight.

Emerging from total obscurity to resolve that dilemma was Sarah Shuptrine, a commission member and Carter supporter from Columbia, S.C. who offered the meeting here a two-element compromise plan:

First, all caucuses and primaries would be confined by new party rules to a three-month period, from the second Tuesday in March to the second Tuesday in June.

Second, the threshold-level would gradually increase, from 15 per cent in the first month, to 20 per cent in the second month and 25 per cent in the third month.

Shuptrine claimed sole authorship of the compromise, but that's difficult to accept in light of her role as a commission wallflower who played virtually no role in earlier proceedings.

Siegel, in a more logical explanation, acknowledged that he was heavily involved in drafting the plan. But he disingenuously claimed to have been inspired by a speech Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., made to the commission.

Caddell, in the most believable version of all, acknowledged that he and Siegel discussed the compromise plan in a telephone conversation several days before the commission convened in Detroit.

If the compromise is eventually incorporated in the party rules, it could influence state legislatures to arbitrarily set primary dates based on the threshold percentages they prefer, thus upsetting the current precarious balance in the timing of primary elections.

The more likely prospect, however, is that the plan will quietly disappear from sight in the coming months — after serving its primary purpose of providing a smoke screen for the Carter forces while they beat a hasty retreat from the ill-conceived power-grab they tried to foist off on the Democratic party.

Just in jest

For all too long we men have been getting the short end on this thing called equal rights. But finally it appears our lawmakers have summoned up enough courage to rule that equality of the sexes is not necessarily a one-way street. Give our California assemblymen credit for having legislated this amazing breakthrough. Though well aware of the female reprisals they will undoubtedly face, they have voted approval of a bill that makes it a felony for a wife to beat up on her husband.

Initiatives to halt taxes

By EARL G. WATERS

Is the initiative process the only means by which homeowners will find property tax relief? Remarking on the failure of the 1977 Legislature to come to grips with the problem, Assembly Republican leader Paul Priolo observed the solution to be beyond the capacity of the Legislature.

Undoubtedly in anticipation of such a failure on the part of the lawmakers, two separate groups had already commenced circulation of petitions to place the property tax issue on the ballot.

One, sponsored by Wiley Davis of El Cajon, freezes assessments on homes at the value in effect at the time of passage of the measure and reduces tax rates 50 percent over a two-year period following its adoption. It also would exempt all homes of senior citizens which are valued at $40,000 or less. A further provision grants renters a maximum of $75-a-year credit on income taxes.

The second proposition, sponsored by Howard Jarvis of Los Angeles and Paul Gann of Carmichael, is even more direct. It freezes assessed values at the 1975-76 levels and limits ad valorem taxes to 1 percent. It would permit an increase of the tax rate of up to 2 percent a year to meet inflation. It would also restrict local government from imposing other taxes without a two-thirds approval of the electorate.

Both measures provide for changes in valuation for new construction or when property is sold.

The beauty of both propositions is their simplicity. Neither exceeds 500 words. One is barely more than 200 words. The voters will have no trouble understanding them.

The attorney general's staff has estimated the loss of property tax revenues to local government under either measure as ranging from $4.5 billion to $8 billion annually. Whether the proponents agree with those figures or not, they seem to be content to let the Legislature wrestle with the problems of making up the losses from other sources.

What the proponents are offering is a chance for the homeowners to call a halt to oppressive property taxes and, in effect, tell the state and local governments to either cut back on costs or find other chickens to pluck.

Since both measures are constitutional amendments, the sponsors must secure 499,846 qualified signatures no later than Dec. 2. If either or both are successful the initiatives would go on the June ballot. If both are on the ballot and both are approved, the one with the most votes would prevail.

The question at the moment is whether the failure of the Legislature to act on the tax issue will spur the success of signature gathering. No doubt Gov. Jerry Brown had such thoughts in his mind when he indicated he might call the Legislature back before its scheduled return in January.

However, even if he did, is there any prospect that the lawmakers can find the agreement in a few short weeks that eluded them for nearly eight months before recess? And, if the lawmakers do come up with something in special session or early next year, will it be enough to satisfy the homeowners and forestall passage of the initiative proposals?

It would seem the best way to head off the initiatives would be for the Legislature to adopt something close to that proposed by the citizens' propositions. That would be a simple, concise measure dealing solely with property tax relief for homeowners, leaving the multitude of other problems which they had woven into the defeated tax bill to be considered in separate measures.

Into hock

Consumers will make 1977 a banner year for credit, the Conference Board predicts. One reason: consumer bank accounts grew by $105 billion last year. Another: repayments of installment debt are amounting to only 14.5 per cent of disposable personal income after running at about 17 per cent in recent years.

Ann Landers

Shaw had words about women

Dear Ann: I wasn't too crazy about your correspondents who referred to themselves as "The Girls." May I share with you a delightful quote from George Bernard Shaw, written a generation ago? It proves that nothing has changed.

Shaw noticed that the most tyrannical females are strongly opposed to women's rights. He said this:

"No fascinating woman ever wants to emancipate her sex. Her object is to gather power into the hands of Man, because she knows that she can govern him. She is no more jealous of his nominal supremacy that he himself is jealous of the strength and speed of his horse. Women disguise their strength as womanly weakness, their audacity as womanly timidity, their unscrupulousness as womanly innocence, their impunities as womanly defenselessness; simple men are duped by them, and subtle ones disarmed and intimidated. It is only the proud, straighforward women who wish, not to govern, but to be free . . ."

G.B.S. sure used a lot of two-bit words, didn't he? — Proud Woman

Dear Woman: He sure did — and if he were around today, he'd have to wear a crash helmet and a bullet-proof vest.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have not been getting along worth a damn for two years. I tried counseling (Sam wouldn't go) and was told by my doctor, my minister and my therapist to finish this marriage before it finishes me.

We have two children, five and seven years of age. We also have a German shepherd. Last night we were discussing the division of household goods. Many of the things we have belonged to Sam's mother and grandmother and he wants them — which is all right with me. Out of the blue — and in the presence of the children — he blurted out, "I want to make it clear that I am keeping Gupper (the dog) and you can have the kids."

I always knew Sam was an insensitive clod but this really got to me. The children looked so rejected I broke down and bawled. Of course I planned on taking the children, but hearing him put it so bluntly right in front of them was too much. Comment, please. — Tears In The Valley

Dear Val: What's there to say except good riddance? On Father's Day I hope Gupper sends Sam a nice card.

Dear Ann Landers: Since when is school supposed to be entertainment? Who decided school is only for football and driver training? As a teacher with 27 years of experience, I maintain that school is for learning.

Parents must teach their children to work. It cannot be done by teachers. It is appalling that so many high school graduates are functionally illiterate and unemployable.

Thanks for letting me express an opinion. Your column is about the only place left where one can do it. — D.M., Muskegon, Michigan

Dear D.M.: I agree school is not supposed to be entertainment, but I always learned more and worked harder when I had teachers who were lively, tuned-in and turned-on. Long after I forget the date of the Battle of Hastings, I'll remember the philosophy and inspiration provided by my most insightful and interesting teachers.

Dr. Miller

Vegetable diet for cats? uh! uh!

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since you commented that "it's hard to find a healthy vegetarian cat," I thought you might be interested in Snowball. I raised her from a kitten and she, like myself, hasn't had a sniff of fish, fowl or meat in seven years. You never saw a healthier cat. — B.B.

DEAR B.B.: Congratulations. Snowball still remains a feline minority member. Vegetarian cats who do not eventually suffer some nutritional deficiency are hard to find. Unfortunately, devising a complete, palatable, vegetable diet is difficult for even the most dedicated feline friends.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My sister's male dog had a bladder infection and now my female just got over one. These dogs have never been together. I'm just wondering where the bacteria which cause a bladder infection come from? — A.C.

DEAR A.C.: The bacteria travel from outside up the urethra (against the stream, so to speak) into the bladder. Many of the infections now are caused by the bacteria, E. Coli, or Proteus. And those infections migrating in from the skin are usually staph and strep bacteria.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Sly, my lovebird, is very stubborn. I'm having trouble switching him over to a natural food mixture that would be a lot better for him than the poor-quality seed I have to buy around here. I think the only why I'm going to get him to switch is to starve him into it by taking away his old crummy seeds. Will that work? — H.A.

DEAR H.A.: Don't try it. Starving Sly could be dangerous to his health — within a very few days, it could actually be fatal. While it's true a hungry bird is more likely to try something new than one who isn't hungry, it's also true many birds will literally starve themselves to death before trying an unfamiliar food. New offerings may eventually be tried if fresh samples are repeatedly placed in a familiar seed cup. Sometimes, though, it will be weeks before any sampling occurs, and sometimes it never happens. Acceptance can occasionally be accelerated by placing a small amount of the new food in with the old, but be sure this doesn't cause a hunger strike. Birds who are trained young to accept a variety of offerings, may do just that throughout their lives and can be easily introduced to something new. For birds without such exposure, it may be difficult or even impossible to even add to their diet, let alone switch it completely.

Hold nature up to a mirror

Drama, according to Shakespeare or Bacon or Marlowe or whoever it was that wrote "Hamlet" (or "Macbeth") should hold a mirror up to nature. If it truly did, the show would have the lowest rating on the Nielsen register.

SCENE — A lavish apartment in Malibu. Door bursts open, handsome chap rushes in and seizes beautiful doll in his arms. They munch each other's faces for a few torrid minutes — and then? "Wait a second, honey," she says, breaking away. "The potatoes are burning."

I have never seen this happen, but presumably even residents of Malibu must eat from time to time. Does life go on for these gorgeous, improbable people between assignations, rumbles and the like?

"Tonight!" wheezes the hero, inflamed with lust, "Tonight we live! Alone, you and I, only stars above you to know I love you, just — "

"Darling, you know I'd love to," she says, stiff-arming him, "but I have to go to the PTA meeting. I'm chairperson of the Ways and Means Committee."

This, I submit, is Real Life Drama. This is the true mirror of nature. Can't you see the astonished lover falling back on the couch? The husband doesn't matter — but what's with this PTA bit?

"Which is more important to you," he demands frostily, "me or the Ways and Means Committee?" She says, "Oh, Raoul, you're such a child." (Classic line to mollify an outraged lover. Classic, that is, if his name happens to be Raoul.) "Don't you see I MUST go — they're counting on me. How about tomorrow night?"

There can be few characters more irate, crestfallen, perplexed and disillusioned than an importunate lover who has been given the mitten for a PTA meeting.

Daphne and Jeff have finally eluded her rich, elderly husband (or his sick, embittered wife — exfiancee of his brother who was killed in the war and whom she married out of loyalty, etc.) and are speeding off in their Porsche to a hideaway at Cannes. And he has a flat tire. Never in novel, movie, play or television. It happens in real life but not in reel life. But lovers in fiction never have blowouts when there are more urgent ends in view, as it were.

Then they get to the quaint pension on the Cote d'Azur, all giggly with anticipation and warm champagne, and scurry in — No Vacancy. Or the Gallic equivalent. This would be a moving drama, a crisis to which all audiences could relate, but it never happens on stage or screen. It isn't on a heroic scale, somehow. Hotel burns down, sure. This seldom happens, but it would at least have that epic quality that film makers and novelists (think we) require.

So actually Shakespeare, or whoever it was, was wrong. Drama does not hold a mirror up to nature. Are we a lot of Othellos and Lady Macbeths running around the suburbs with candles and daggers? I don't even OWN a dagger.

The Bard was a lot nearer the mark with the puckish "What fools these mortals be." Let him stick to calling names and belay that mirror bit if he wants his option renewed.

Dr. Lamb

Drawing blood a problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am ashamed to complain about what is routinely a painless, quick and easy process of drawing blood, but it isn't true in my case.

Twice a year for six years I have endured painful and always futile efforts of two supposedly trained technicians trying to get blood for thyroid and potassium tests. Finally, the doctor has to do it himself, using veins other than those inside my elbows. By that time I am a nervous wreck.

It never gets any better. Is there a solution for me?

DEAR READER — Veins that have been used frequently often scar or undergo so much thickening and inflammation that they are no longer useful. In the course of time the inflammation subsides and some of them open again, but some never do. When a vein undergoes these changes blood has to be drawn from some other location. In severe problems when drawing blood or inserting a needle to supply fluids or medicine is essential it may be necessary to do a "cut down," meaning cutting the skin and surgically exposing the vein to be used.

The pain of a needle puncture can be minimized or abolished by spraying the skin with one of the coolants that evaporate on the skin and deadens the sensation momentarily in that area. The veins can be made more prominent by using a blood pressure cuff around the upper arm rather than just a piece of rubber tubing. The pressure on the cuff can be adjusted high enough to impede flow through the veins, causing them to stand out but not high enough to block the arterial flow into the arm. Warm soaks over the skin also helps in some cases.

Despite all of these efforts if a vein is scarred or obstructed it is not likely that anyone will be successful using that vein.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there a home remedy you can take that will prevent the formation of kidney stones? I have heard that one teaspoon of honey with a tablespoon of vinegar daily would do this or a can of beer daily was recommended by a doctor. My husband has had surgery for kidney stones.

DEAR READER — The best home remedy in the world for kidney stones is to drink enough water. Because sweating and other factors affect how much water you need the rule is to drink enough liquids to form two liters (about two quarts) and even better, three quarts of urine a day.

The increased urine flow should be maintained evenly over the 24 hour period. That means drinking water around the clock and a reasonable amount before going to bed.

Specifically using vinegar or honey will not prevent a kidney stone. Depending upon the type of stone — what it is made of — the doctor may wish to give medicine to acidify the urine. Beer is worse than useless. It contains oxalate which is often a factor in the formation of some types of kidney stones.

What people say

"As a writer, I used to think I was outside politics, that I was, by definition, an observer. But I have come to see that every time we put two words together, it is a political act. Politicians may think they are planning things, but it is the unheard masses, the powerless people, who will bring great changes in history."

THICK-SHELLED EGGS

Q. "Why is it a frightened hen lays eggs with particularly thick shells?"

A. Nervous tension delays the laying process, thus permits the egg to remain longer where shell secretions build up. That's the report from an authority on tense hens.

Q. "How long does it take to apply the average tatoo?"

A. About 20 minutes. The needle goes only one sixty-fourth of an inch into the skin, moving up and down 50 times a second.

Q. "What four kinds of trees are mentioned in the old song 'Sweet Adeline'?"

A. "Fir. Yew. Eye (buckeye). Pine." Such be the humorist's reply.

A third of the high school students surveyed five years ago told pollsters they intended to make their homes in small towns. Not in the cities, not in the suburbs, not out on farms. Evidently, they meant what they said. Those scholars who study the mass movements of people say the small towns are filling up to overflowing in a rapid manner. For Saturday, Oct. 1, 1977
Your Birthday, Oct. 1, 1977

Involvements you have with progressive associates this year will come off well. Dealings with those who live in the past won't be as profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't overlook old obligations today. Take care of your end of the bargain without any attempt to pass it off. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pessimistic companions should be avoided today. Their crepe-hanging could put you in the doldrums, too, and you'll see mud instead of stars.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's possible you could turn the smallest task into a gigantic undertaking today. Unfortunately, it's all in your head.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A hidden fear could spoil your fun today. You should forget it, because it probably won't happen anyway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When things go wrong at home today, don't try to pin all the blame on your mate. He or she may not be entirely innocent, but then neither are you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use a soft-sell approach in trying to convince a helper to do what you want today. Your subject may not be in the mood for an ear-beating.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're making a purchase of any consequence today, be certain to get exactly what you want. Buyer's remorse can strike quickly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Any disagreement between you and your family today should be settled speedily. Otherwise a long-lasting chill could set in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you're not prone to hold grudges, you're down on someone you deal with on a regular basis. You could be the big loser there.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Review how much you're spending on nonessential things and activities. Your budget is taking a beating unnecessarily.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Goals you set are not easy to come by today. If you give your best you can attain the heights. If not, you're the big loser.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have too many self-doubts for your own good today. Being cautious is a virtue, but being negative is not in that category at all.

If West could see all the cards he would open a spade or heart against three notrump. Not being clairvoyant, he opened the four of diamonds.

South won with the king over East's 10 and led a club. West rose with the king and now saw that a second diamond lead would be a give up play, since South was marked with the ace and queen of that suit. He also saw a chance to shut that club suit out by leading a heart and he led the right one. He planked down the king of that suit.

This gave South an extra heart trick, but it cost him four club tricks and four for one is a pretty good trade.

South had to win with dummy's ace. Then he cleared the clubs.

West led a second diamond. South still had a chance for his contract. Maybe that queen of spades would be an entry to dummy. He led a slow spade and played dummy's queen. East produced the king and South was held to seven tricks. Three hearts, three diamonds and one spade.

Shavers didn't know he lost

NEW YORK (AP) — The way it looked on national television, it was all over after the 12th round. As many as 50 million people in the TV audience knew Earnie Shavers would lose. Muhammad Ali said he knew it.

Then, why didn't Shavers know it?

"I thought I was ahead. My corner told me I was ahead," Shavers said after losing his only shot at the world heavyweight title in a 15-round decision to Ali Thursday night at Madison Square Garden.

"I threw a couple of pretty good shots, but I didn't hit him real hard. I was trying to save myself," said Shavers. "I didn't go after him because I thought he might have been faking it."

The simple fact of the matter was that after the 12th, the TV audience had been informed by NBC — which was revealing the referee's and judges' decision round-by-round — that Ali had eight check-marks on his side of the card. Shavers' only chance was a knockout.

Scorecards

NEW YORK (AP) — The scorecards of the three officials, referee Johnny LoBianco and judges Eva Shain and Tony Castellano, of the Muhammad Ali-Earnie Shavers heavyweight championship fight Thursday night (A-Ali, S-Shavers, E-even).

LoBianco	ASA-AAS-ASE-AAA-SSA—9-5-1
Shain	ASA-SAS-SAA-AAA-SSA—9-6
Castellano	ASA-SAS-ASA-AAA-SSA—9-6

Over on Ali's side of the ring, they were keeping track. Trainer Angelo Dundee had arranged with Eddie Hrica, a Baltimore-area fight promoter, to shuttle between the dressing room TV set and ringside to keep tabs on how things were going.

No such arrangements had been made on Shavers' side of the ring, and no one in the Garden audience of 14,613 was aware of the cards. After some discussion, John F.X. Condon, head of Garden publicity, said it was decided not to transmit the NBC information to the live audience or to reporters. The New York State Athletic Commission had recommended against it as being possibly disruptive, Condon said.

"But we didn't tell Ali," Dundee said. "We didn't want him to know. He might have let up, and you can't do that against a guy like Shavers."

Ali, however, said he had been told at one point during the fight that he was ahead, and that he would have thought so anyway. He looked like a fighter trying to hang onto his lead in the 13th and 14th rounds, which went to Shavers on the cards of the two judges and the referee, Johnny LoBianco.

"I took some punches that would have knocked any man out," said Ali, his face swollen from the beating he had taken from Shavers, considered one of boxing's all-time hardest hitters.

"Hurt me? Yeah, he hurt me a couple of times," Ali said. "I was almost knocked out two or three times. I was out on my feet. But the experts told you right. I can take a punch ... I knew I had it won ... I am the greatest fighter of all time."

After the 12th round, the two judges' cards had Ali ahead 8-4, and LoBianco had it 8-3 with one even. That's when Shavers, who had never gone past 10 rounds in his career, came on strong.

Shavers won the 13th on four solid rights to Ali's head, while the champion danced, covered up and hardly threw a punch. The 14th went to Shavers in a more spectacular fashion.

Shavers came out swinging those lumberjack fists that have scored 19 first-round knockouts in 54 victories (52 knockouts in all). He caught Ali in the corner and a mighty right landed.

Ali's feet went out from under him, and the count on the auditorium loudspeaker went to "two" before LoBianco waved off the count, saying it was a slip. But Ali was in trouble.

Shavers continued to press, and he caught the champion with another right as Ali layed against the ropes.

"My corner told me I was three rounds ahead on points," said Shavers. "I knew Ali was hurt, but I couldn't tell whether he was faking it. He's good at that. He always fakes it when you hit him."

The 15th round — by which time Shavers was expected to have been showered, dressed and on his way back home to the farm in Warren, Ohio — was a slugfest. Not since Ali-Joe Frazier in Manila was there such a round in heavyweight boxing.

Ali had Shavers in the corner, pounding combinations, hooking off the jab, and Shavers was wobbling. Both fighters were exhausted. Shavers found one more punch, and it saved him from a knockout.

A last look at Dodgers, Angels

It has been a year of exact opposites for the Dodgers and Angels.

The Dodgers have wrapped up a division title and are preparing for the playoffs. The Angels, hands down winners of Flops of the Year Award, are sinking into oblivion again.

Looking ahead to the playoffs, the feeling here is that the Dodgers must win both games at Dodger Stadium Tuesday and Wednesday.

That means they must beat Steve Carlton in the opener.

If the Phils even split, it means the Dodgers will have to win two of three at Veterans Stadium where the Phils have been devastating

While the Phillies have sizzled since July 4, posting 55 wins against 28 losses, the Dodgers have won only five more than they have lost (42-37).

And, this may shock you, but the Dodgers, who had the best record in baseball for much of the season, will go into the playoffs with the WORST record among the four teams.

Kansas City already has won 100 games and Philadelphia and the Yankees need only one more victory to reach 100.

On the other hand, the Dodgers CAN'T reach the century mark even if they win their three remaining contests.

And, remember this also, the Dodgers are in the WEAKEST of the four divisions. For most of the season, only the Dodgers and Reds were above .500 in the National League West. Houston is one game over .500 now and was under .500 most of the year.

N.L. East stronger

In the East, the Pirates, Cardinals and Cubs have been over .500 almost from the outset.

In the American League West, Texas, Chicago and Minnesota have likewise been over .500 from the start. In the East, only three clubs are over .500. But the Red Sox and Orioles have made it a three-team dogfight for the pennant up until this week.

The Dodgers' relief pitching has not been consistent the second half.

Mike Garman, Lance Rautzhan and Elias Sosa all have had streaks But there have been games where NONE of them could stop the opposition and this has caused the Dodger brass great concern.

Ron Cey, one of the keys to the offense, has had a terrible time after a sensational April.

For the first month of the season, Cey averaged .403 on 31 hits in 77 at-bats with nine home runs and 29 runs batted in.

In the five months since then, the "Penguin" has averaged .223 (108 hits in 484 at-bats) while hitting 21 homers and batting in 81 runs.

That averages out to something like four home runs and 16 RBIs per month.

Let me repeat. The things mentioned are NOT meant to imply that I don't think the Dodgers can win. I mention them to support my contention that the Dodgers MUST win both games in Dodger Stadium.

If they do, I think they'll win the pennant and advance to the World Series. If they don't win both here, tab the Phils for the World Series.

Angels sad losers

As for the Angels, well, they look like the same, sad losers they have been during Harry Dalton's six-year regime.

Never once have they reached .500. What is even more depressing is the fact that they are WORSE this year than last.

On Sept. 30, 1976, the Halos had a 73-85 record, 12 games under .500 and 16½ out of first place.

Today, they have a 73-86 record, 13 games under .500 and a stunning 27 games out of first place!

And you can't blame it all on the injuries. They were not a winning ball club before all the injuries. With everybody healthy, they fell flat on their faces.

Remember how they lost 12 of their first 20 games against teams they should have cleaned up on?

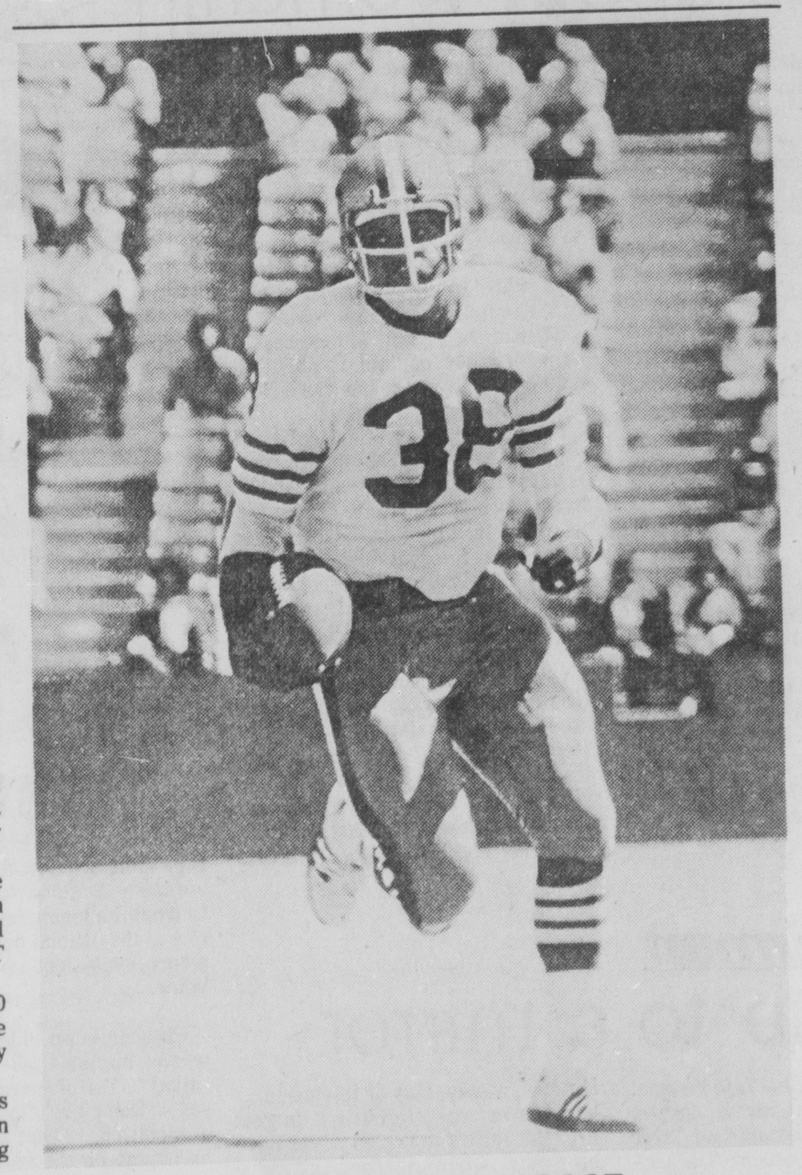
When Norm Sherry was fired July 11, the Angels were three games under .500 (and sinking fast in the throes of a five-game losing streak) and nine games out of first.

Under Dave Garcia, they are 10 games under .500 (34-44) and have dropped an additional 18 games out of first. Sherry was not a good manager. But Garcia hasn't proved he is any better. Like Sherry, he is far too low key.

The Halos need a fiery leader, someone who will build a fire under them. Neither Garcia nor Sherry can do that.

If, as rumored, Garcia is swept out after the season ends, Gene Autry, a very patient man, should take a long hard long at the LACK of progress under Dalton.

Wonder if Dalton can con Autry again as he has done the last six years?



RETURNING HOME

Running back Bob Ferrell, former Ganesha High star, will face the Rams Sunday at the Coliseum in a San Francisco 49er uniform. Ferrell got his big chance with the ill-fated Southern California Sun.

Faces Rams in 49er uniform

WFL gave Ferrell a chance

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Bob Ferrell was a high school sensation at Ganesha High but he was overshadowed in his own backyard by the exploits of Bonita's Allen Carter.

At the collegiate level, Ferrell went to the big time at UCLA but he never saw much action with the Bruins because of injuries, academic problems plus the problem of playing behind stars like Kermit Johnson and James McAllister.

But Ferrell is currently playing in the National Football League with the San Francisco 49ers which is more than Carter, Johnson or McAllister can say.

It's safe to say Ferrell is a late bloomer and he owes his present situation to the ill-fated World Football League.

"I twice thought my football career was over," Ferrell said by telephone from San Francisco as he prepares for Sunday's date against the Rams at the Coliseum.

"I didn't think I would play again when I left UCLA and I believed it was over again when the WFL folded," he said. "It's strange how things work out sometimes."

Ferrell, in his second season with the 49ers, is used as a kickoff return specialist and the second string fullback behind Wilbur Jackson.

In the 49ers' two games - losses to Pittsburgh and Miami - Ferrell hasn't run with the ball yet and has returned one kickoff for 17 yards.

"I may see some action on third down plays or late in the half to give Jackson a rest," Ferrell said.

He is just happy to be with the 49ers and is especially eager for the game in L.A.

"I always enjoy playing near home," Ferrell said. "We need a win right now and we always have a lot of incentive for the Rams because it's always a big game in our division."

Asked about the 49ers' problem generating much of an offense this season, Ferrell commented, "We're hurting ourselves a lot with mistakes. But it looks like we're starting to come. We could have easily scored 30 points (score was 19-15) against Miami except for mistakes. It's a matter of gaining consistency."

Ferrell will be remembered at Ganesha for his senior campaign (1970) when he rushed for 1,651 yards and 28 touchdowns. In one half against Montclair, he tallied five TDs.

But things weren't so good at UCLA.

Ferrell saw limited action in 1972 and 1974 for the Bruins. His combined statistics shows only 83 rushing yards on 26 carries.

Even though discouraged by his lack of action, Ferrell decided to try out with the new Southern California Sun in the WFL on the advice of a friend.

It turned out to be a big break for him.

With the Sun in 1975, Ferrell ran for 149 yards and two touchdowns and caught 11 passes for 61 yards.

"Playing for the Sun gave me good exposure and valuable game experience," Ferrell recalls about his days with the Anaheim-based team. "The Sun is the main reason I'm playing pro ball now."

Again, his football days looked over when the Sun folded with the rest of the WFL but a friend suggested he try to land with the 49ers.

After signing as a free agent, Ferrell made the club. He ran nine times for 28 yards and one TD, a three-yard plunge at New Orleans on the 49ers' final offensive play of the season, last year.

The 49ers like Ferrell because they feel he is especially effective running down under kicks. He is also considered an excellent blocker.

What about his off-season activities?

"I am getting into a lot of things," he said. "I have landed some bit parts in movies and TV spots and I am planning to finish my education at UCLA working on my Master's degree in business. I hope to get into public health administration."

Even though Ferrell now makes his home near the UCLA campus, his mother, father, sister and sixth grade brother still live in Pomona. Needless to say, they will be at the Coliseum Sunday.

"We'll be trying hard against the Rams and I will too," was Ferrell's final remark.

Trojans greet Jack Thompson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the nation's top quarterbacks is pitted against one of the country's best runners tonight to kick off a full weekend of college football clashes.

Quarterback Jack Thompson will lead the Washington State Cougars against speedy tailback Charles White and the second-ranked Southern California Trojans in a Pacific-8 game that shapes up as a wide-open offensive show tonight in the Coliseum.

The coaches are duly impressed by the opposition heading into the 8 p.m. PDT game.

"They always look good," said first-year Washington State Coach Warren Powers. "USC even looks good in their uniforms running out on the field."

"The Cougars are a good team both offensively and defensively, and you know they've got a great passing attack," said USC Coach John Robinson.

Southern Cal has whipped Washington State in the last 10 meetings, and has a 3-0 record this fall. The Trojans also own the longest winning streak in college football, 14 games stretching back to last season.

The Cougars, however, have proved they can play with anyone. They knocked off Nebraska 19-10 in their season opener, then bested Michigan State 23-21. WSU lost its first game last Saturday, falling to Kansas 14-12 when a 32-yard Cougars field goal attempt missed at the gun.

Robinson said that his Trojans have yet to face a stern test this fall, then added, "Our defense hasn't played a great offensive team yet, but the're going to get tested against Washington State."

The Trojans will remember Thompson from last year, when the WSU quarterback connected on 26 of 50 passes for 340 yards in the Cougars' 24-13 loss to USC. The 6-foot-3 junior from American Samoa currently ranks fourth in the nation in passing with 63 completions in 107 attempts for 831 yards and four touchdowns.

Flanker Brian Kelly, with 19 receptions this year, and split end Mike Levenseller, with 17 catches, provide Washington State with a pair of top-flight receivers.

White, the sophomore who was sensational while filling in for the injured Ricky Bell last season, has gained 466 yards on 87 carries this campaign, although he was used sparingly in the Trojans' 51-0 romp over TCU last Saturday.

Quarterback Rob Hertel adds balance to the USC offense. He has completed 28 of 50 passes for 439 yards and four touchdowns.

Saturday's feature games include top-ranked Oklahoma versus Kansas and No. 5 Texas A&M against third-ranked Michigan in Ann Arbor in a game that will be televised throughout most of the country.

Other day games involving Top 20 clubs include Kentucky at No. 4 Penn State, Rice at No. 8 Texas, Georgia at No. 10 Alabama, Indiana at No. 11 Nebraska, 12th-ranked Arkansas at Texas Christian, 13th-rated Texas Tech at North Carolina, Michigan State at No. 14 Notre Dame, 16th-ranked Pittsburgh at Boston College, San Jose State at No. 17 California and No. 18 Mississippi State at Kansas State.

John gets workout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy John can be excused if he did not have his mind solely on the Houston Astros Thursday night.

The Los Angeles left-hander was battered for 10 hits, one of them Bob Watson's 21st home run, in six innings. But, obviously, the Philadelphia Phillies were more on his mind than the Astros, who defeated the Dodgers 4-2.

"I was out there trying to win," said John, 20-7. "But at the same time, I wanted to work on a few pitches. I was trying to throw a lot of breaking pitches because against the Phillies you have to use everything in your arsenal. Tonight I just got behind and then made some bad pitches."

John's next start will be Tuesday evening in the National League playoff opener against Philadelphia.

"I have to think we are as evenly matched as two teams can be," John said of the playoffs. "It could be a series of breaks, taking advantage of a passed ball, a hit-and-run, an error.

"Philadelphia is smart and it's offensive unit is exceptional," continued John. "If Sutton or I don't win one of the games here, it's going to be awfully tough. I don't think we can sweep them in Philadelphia."

John gave up two runs in the fourth and Watson's two-run homer in the fifth, which gave the Houston first baseman 108 runs-batted-in, an Astro record.

Reggie Smith singled home Los Angeles' first run in the fourth inning, off winner Floyd Bannister, 8-9, and Steve Garvey hit his 33rd home run in the seventh off Gene Pentz.

The home run by Garvey set a Los Angeles Dodger record, breaking the mark previously shared by Garvey and Jimmy Wynn, who hit 32 in 1974. It's also the most homers by a Dodger in 20 years, since Duke Snider hit 40 in 1957.

Elias Sosa pitched the seventh and eighth innings for Los Angeles, testing his injured right wrist for the first time since he sprained it Sept. 20.

SAL, Hacienda play begins

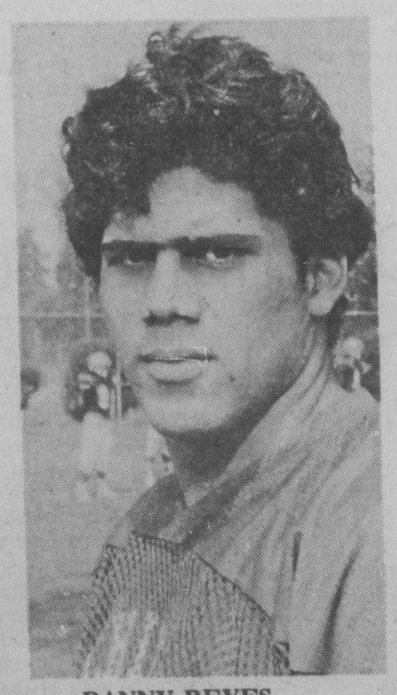
By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

It's only the first week of league play for most local high school football teams, but already there are some very important games on tonight's schedule.

Three in particular — Garey's game at Chino, the contest between Ganesha and Claremont at Citrus College and Chaffey's game at Fontana — figure to have considerable bearing on title races and playoff berths, even though there are six weeks of the regular season left after tonight.

Ganesha is ranked second and Chino seventh in the Southeastern Conference poll, but they will have to prove to talented Viking and Wolfpack squads that they deserve those positions.

Chaffey and Fontana have tied for the Citrus Belt League championship the last two years, so their tussle should be one of the best of the CBL season. Fontana is currently rated 10th in the prestigious Big Five Conference and the Tigers were No. 5 before being upset by Edgewood last week, so a CIF ranking is also at stake in tonight's game, which begins at 8 p.m. said coach Jim Rawls. "He runs the 100 in 10.2 and goes about 200 pounds, so he gives us another guy they (the opposition) has to worry about running the ball.



DANNY REYES . . .
Chino quarterback

"He's our team captain, so the guys have more confidence when he's in there."

Garey's defense appears quite sound again but coach Lawson Bush's offense hasn't got untracked yet. With bruisers like Elijah Turner and Doug Brissette and speedsters like Morris Cole and James Moore manning the running back spots, the Vikings are a threat to score on almost any play.

The defending SAL co-champs give away a lot of size, however, on the line.

Ganesha and Claremont, on the other hand, boast many of the league's more sizeable linemen.

"They look huge on defense," Claremont coach Esper Keiser said about Ganesha. "They look like the New York Giants, not the Ganesha Giants."

Garry Norvell's defensive line has a listed average of 205 pounds per man.

Tackle J.W. Melton tips the scale at 232, and tackle Randy Taylor and Kevin Jones are both over 200.

Claremont doesn't exactly have a group of lightweights on the defensive line, however, since three of the starting Wolfpack defenders — tackles Robert Villanueva and Neil Anderson and end Jeff Young — weigh 215 or better. Keiser's line averages 204 pounds.

"They'll be the biggest and most physical team we've seen," said Norvell. "They're bigger than South Hills."

Offensively, the 'Pack's down linemen average 198 pounds and the Giants' trenchmen average 197 — led by 235-pound tackle David Porter.

Claremont has allowed just 14 points in two games and Ganesha has surrendered 20 (only seven when the first string was in), but Keiser doesn't feel sure that tonight's game will be dominated by defense.

"Their two backs, (Bennie) Goodena and (Floyd) Williams, are awfully quick," he said. "You can contain them for a while, but sooner or later one of them says goodbye and he's gone."

Keiser finds himself thin at running back because of injuries to Grant Warhurst and Fred Flye. "We've got to get healthy so we can generate some 'O,'" he said.

Major sees local victors

By AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

The justly famous Hoople System this week foresees some of our local boys reverting to their former winning ways come Saturday. Your favorite forecastor also has a couple real stunners for you on the national scene, so let's hasten on — kaff-kaff — to my forecast.

Let us start, dear readers, with the local elevens. Three losers will return to the win column come Saturday. First off, Roland Ortmayer's Leopards will rebound by plucking Pomona-Pitzer's poor Sagehens to the tune of 49-7 in a game, shall we say, that won't be quite as close as even that score might indicate. Harrumph!

MSAC will return to the win column with a 30-21 victory at L.A. Harbor, while Citrus will post its first triumph of the year by downing host Rio Hondo 20-7.

Unfortunately, the outlook isn't quite as good for Cal Poly and Claremont-Mudd. Both figure to drop their home debuts to tough foes, Poly to UC Davis by a 22-14 count and C-M to Cal Lutheran by a 21-10 verdict.

Nationally, that big Pac-8 showdown at the L.A. Coliseum between USC and Washington State will be a exciting offensive shootout, won by the Trojans 33-21.

The Southeastern Conference also gets down to cases Saturday, as potent Alabama entertains defending champion Georgia, Florida meets Louisiana State at Baton Rouge and Auburn's Tigers host the Mississippi Rebels.

In the Alabama-Georgia fray, the Hoople nod goes to 'Bama's Crimson Tide by a 31-28 score. Florida's journey to Baton Rouge will be a profitable one as the Gators top LSU 32-21, while the tenacious Mississippi Rebels will hold off Auburn, 17-10.

Oklahoma's major powers will be in action at home as Oklahoma meets Kansas in a Big Eight affair and Oklahoma State takes on an improving Florida State club.

It will be a pleasant day — kaff-kaff — for the Sooners as they whip Kansas, 33-12, but a sad day for OSU as the Florida State Seminoles win, 20-19. Jove, that will be a close one!

Saving the best for last, we give you the Hoople Upset Special of the Week: Texas A&M 28, Michigan 25.

Yas, my loyal followers, the Aggies will shock the football world and stun 101,701 spectators at the huge Michigan Stadium by coming from behind to edge the powerful Wolverines behind the power running of George Woodward and Curtis Dickey. Har-rumph!

Now go on with my forecast:

Can Browns keep their dream alive?

By Associated Press

Okay, so the Cleveland Browns are for real—but do you really expect this fairy tale to go on forever?

Granted, they looked nothing short of spectacular last Monday night against New England.

Granted, the Pittsburgh Steelers looked less-than-sensational against the Oakland Raiders last Sunday.

But do you actually think the Browns can beat the Steelers?

We do ... so we're going with a National Football League Upset Special. We're picking Cleveland to find the slivers of space in Pittsburgh's defense, nose out the Steelers and take command of the American Conference's Central Division.

Maybe the fairy tale won't go on forever. Midnight is fast approaching, in the form of the silver and black of Oakland. But for now, the white mice are stallions, the pumpkin really is a coach—and the coach (Forrest Gregg, of course) is a genius.

Last week's 10-4 mark put the season record at 18-10, .643. This week's picks:

Browns 17, Steelers 13

Maybe we're impressed by the extra bit of inventiveness, of daring, of spirit that the Browns have exhibited—and the Steelers haven't. Maybe we're just caught up in emotionalism and blind to statistical reality. Maybe Brian Sipe isn't better than Terry Bradshaw. And maybe Cleveland won't be able to cope with the Steel Curtain.

But, like the Browns, we can dream, can't we?

Raiders 35, Chiefs 10

Remember when an Oakland - Kansas City meeting meant allout war? The only thing it'll mean Monday night is a lot of channel-changing by halftime.

Redskins 20, Cardinals 16

You could call this an upset. You could call it a toss-up. Call it whatever you wish. If you're looking for a reason why Washington's the pick, look somewhere else.

Vikings 24, Packers 13

Minnesota's getting awfully bad awfully quick, but not bad enough to let Green Bay get away with anything.

Bears 23, Saints 14

Hank Stram learns for the third straight week how meaningless a great preseason really is.

Lions 20, Eagles 13

Bill Bergey can't make every tackle for the Eagles, especially when the guy he's got to try and tackle is Dexter Bussey of Detroit. The Lions' offense is beginning to move a bit, unlike Philadelphia's.

Falcons 19, Giants 14

It won't be a defensive struggle, it'll be a lack-of-offense battle. Atlanta lacks less offense. That is, it has more. In other words ... oh, never mind.

Rams 27, 49ers 16

San Francisco's the team that made Los Angeles' offensive line look so pitiful a year ago. With any kind of protection, Joe Namath will do the same to the 49ers' secondary.

Cowboys 48, Bucs 10

It's the battle of two top running backs, Tampa Bay's Ricky Bell vs. Dallas' Tony Dorsett. Bell may have been No. 1 in the draft, but you know the Cowboys will have his number.

Patriots 34, Jets 17

The Jets are coming along slowly, which is not the way to play defense against a lightning offense like New England's.

Dolphins 21, Oilers 14

Miami is not very flashy, but it does just what it has to do to win. What it has to do this time is a little less than usual.

Bengals 31, Chargers 19

The only reason the Chargers will be running the wrong way this week is that there'll be a whole bunch of Bengals waiting for them in the opposite direction.

Colts 38, Bills 17

Baltimore's banged up, but it still has enough people to run, throw, catch, block and tackle. Once you stop O.J. Simpson's running for the Bills, there's nothing else to worry about.

Broncos 30, Seahawks 21

Defense. Denver's got it. Seattle's gonna get it ... right in the teeth!

Sports briefs

Draw at Olympic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bantamweights Santiago Hernandez and Oscar Muniz fought to a draw Thursday night when their scheduled 10-round bout was stopped because of a cut suffered by Hernandez in the eighth round.

Hernandez, of San Padre de Las Banos, Mexico, was unintentionally cut over the right eye. After referee Marty Denkin called the doctor into the ring to examine Hernandez, the bout was halted.

There were no knockdowns in the fight, which was even when the end came.

Hernandez, who weighed 122½ pounds, is now 17-6,. Muniz, of Los Angeles, is 9-1-1. Muniz, who weighed 120 pounds, is a cousin of welterweight contender Mando Muniz.

Patriots must report

WASHINGTON — Offensive linemen John Hannah and Leon Gray were ordered to report to the New England Patriots by next Tuesday or be delcared ineligible for the remainder of the 1977 season.

The NFL Player-Club Relations Committee, after 12 hours of testimony and deliberation on a grievance brought by the league on behalf of the Patriots, found that there is "a binding, legally enforceable contract" between the players and the team. The two had left camp in the last week of the preseason in a dispute that started in 1974.

The committee, consisting of two owners and two players, denied the Patriots' claim for a return of the signing and reporting bonus paid to the players. The committee also ordered the club not to assess fines on the players for leaving the team in the last week of the preseason.

Roberts found dead

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Clifford Roberts, co-founder of the Masters Golf Tournament, was found dead at the Augusta National Golf Club, the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Roberts, 84, was discovered by club officials in a creek bed behind the cabin once owned by the late Prsident Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Red Sox sold

BOSTON — Haywood Sullivan, a former major league catcher, and Edward G. "Buddy" LeRoux, a former trainer, purchased the Boston Red Sox after months of neogotiations.

It was reported thet LeRoux and Sullivan, with a group of limited partners, were awarded the club for $16 million.

Douglass leads

NAPA, Calif. — Dale Douglass, whose last tournament title came in 1970, shot an opening round 66 for the first round lead in Napa's annual pro golf tour event and was pursued closely Larry Ziegler and Mac McLendon, with 67s. All three played on Silverado's South course, in the opening round of the $200,000 tournament.

Wade triumphs

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — Britain's Virginia Wade outlasted Evonne Goolagong 6-4, 6-7, 6-3 to capture the women's singles title of the World Invitational Tennis Classic.

In the final set Miss Goolagong, serving at 3-4, made four straight unforced errors that allowed Ms. Wade to serve out for the match.

In the men's doubles finals, Roscoe Tanner and Bjorn Borg defeated John Newcombe and Vitas Gerulaitis 7-6, 4-6, 6-4.

In mixed doubles Ms. Wade teamed with Gerulaitis to beat Dianne Fromholtz and Newcombe 6-2, 6-2.

Pakistan sweeps

RAWPALPINDI, Pakistan — Pakistan swept two singles matches and took a 2-0 lead against Malaysia in a best-of-five Eastern Zone Davis Cup tennis match.

'Pack runners sharp

Claremont High established itself as a definite San Antonio League title contender in cross country Thursday afternoon with a impressive 15-50 win over undermanned Ganesha.

Defending SAL champ Upland had things a bit tougher, but still prevailed over host Montclair 17-43. Other SAL winners Thursday were Garey, 24-32 over Chino, and Pomona, 27-28 over Damien.

In a Hacienda League match, Walnut bounced Bonita 15-50.

Top prep time locally Thursday was turned in by Garey's Joe Ramirez, who raced around the Chino High three-mile course in a fast 14:58.

Claremont's Locke Breaux recorded a 15:34 clocking at Claremont, while Pomona's Ed Allen was the only other prep under 16 minutes (15:54) Thursday.

Claremont thoroughly dominated Ganesha, winning the varsity, junior varsity, frosh-soph and girls races.

Pomona, running without Duane Keys and Jimmy Rodriguez, just did nip Damien. Keys is out with the flu while Rodriguez has a minor injury. Both will be back next week.

Upland and Montclair, along with several other local squads, will be in action Saturday at the Chaffey District Invitational at Alta Loma High.

Claremont, Pomona and Walnut are slated to see action Saturday in the Yucaipa Invitational.

CHS girls take 1st

Claremont High's girls volleyball team has first place all to itself after Thursday's San Antonio League action.

The Wolfpack (2-0) defeated Pomona (0-2), 15-5 and 15-1, at Claremont.

In other games, Garey (1-1) defeated Montclair (0-1), 15-5 and 15-9 at Montclair in the Cavaliers' conference opener. Chino (1-1) beat Upland (1-1),15-6 and 15-3, at Chino.

Claremont, 8-2 overall, visits second place Ganesha (1-0) Tuesday. Montclair hosts Chino and Pomona hosts Upland. Garey has a bye.

In jayvee competition, Pomona won two of three games from Claremont, 15-12 and 15-12, after the Wolfpack won the first game, 15-6. Chino defeated Upland, 15-9 and 15-6.

There was no Montclair-Garey jayvee score because Garey has no jayvee coach and, hence, is unable to field a jayvee team.

La Verne LL seeks helpers

The La Verne Little League is looking for several adult volunteers to serve as chairpersons or members of various committees now being formed for the 1978 season.

These committees will be responsible for planning, organizating and directing functions such as facilities maintenance, snack bar operations, candy sales, picture day, dances, publicity, etc. Husband and wife teams are encouraged.

All interested persons are invited to call either Jerry Jordan, president, at 596-1353 or Vel McOmber, secretary, at 593-4696. A special meeting for committee volunteers will be held Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings building at Bonita and "D" streets in La Verne.

Saints beaten at home, 3-0

The Diamond Bar-Walnut Saints lost their home opener to the South Bay Gunners, 3-0, last week and now are 1-1 for the season.

Only outstanding goal tending by goalie Kevin Kaufman kept the score as close as it was. The Saints had 13 shots on the Gunners' goal, but none got in.

Midfielder Brian Berrie was credited with eight headers and nine super kicks and was named Saints' Outstanding Player.

The Saints have a bye this Saturday but resume action October 8 against the South Bay Vikings in Torrance.

Pan-Am Games move to July

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 1979 Pan-American Games at San Juan, P.R., have been moved up one month, the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union announced Tuesday.

Ollan Cassell, executive director of the AAU, received a telegram from Amadel Francis, a member of the Pan-Am Games Organizing Committee, advising him of the change.

The Games will be moved up to July 8-22, 1979, instead of the previously announced Aug. 4-18.

Kickers play to 2-2 deadlock

The Diamond Bar Kickers, frustrated by a 2-2 tie last week against the Palos Verdes Mariners, return home to host the Palos Verdes Panthers in an 1 p.m. contest Saturday at Diamond Bar's Chaparral Intermediate School.

Diamond Bar took a 2-0 lead in the Pacific Soccer League game at Palos Verdes but the Mariners were able to catch up to gain a tie.

Rocky Crisp and Mike Brocki scored the Kickers' goals with Paul Caligiuri getting an assist on the second goal.

Suns' record is still perfect

The Claremont Suns of the Pop Warner Midget division put their perfect 2-0 record on the line Sunday against undefeated Fontana, also 2-0.

Last week the Suns rolled over the Diamond Bar Dons, 28-0 and now have not lost since 1975. This year they have outscored the opposition, 62-6.

Mark Pruitt gained 125 yards and scored two touchdowns. Gary Williams gained 114 yards and score one TD and quarterback Trac Simms completed two of four passes for 42 yards and ran four yards for a touchdown.

Royals first to win 100

Yankees remain in holding position

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Larry Gura and Doug Bird combined on a seven-hitter and the Kansas City Royals pounded out 14 hits to down the California Angels 6-3 Thursday night.

Gura, 8-5, gave up six hits, struck out four and walked none before needing ninth-inning relief help from Bird.

The Royals, with every starter in the lineup getting a hit, became the first team in the majors to win 100 games and tied the New York Mets' record for victories by an expansion team.

The Royals strung together five singles in the first inning for a 3-0 lead. Rookie Clint Hurdle touched off a two-run inning in the fifth with his second home run of the year, then made it 6-0 with a run-scoring single in the sixth.

Wayne Simpson, 6-12, took the loss.

The save was the 14th for Bird this season.

By Associated Press

The New York Yankees are in a holding position ... and Earl Weaver is in a hoping position.

"People can still say Billy Martin hasn't won two championships in a row," says the manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Weaver's reference is an obvious needle aimed at the New York Yankees manager, who has laid claim to the American League East title, when in truth it is not officially his yet.

The Yankees lost a chance to lock it up Thursday night, dropping a 4-1 decision to the Cleveland Indians while Weaver's Orioles and the Boston Red Sox stayed mathematically alive by winning their games. The Red Sox defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 7-3 while the Orioles stopped the Detroit Tigers 6-3.

"That was a funny quote," said Weaver, referring to a statement by Martin that is getting more notoriety by the day. After the Yankees clinched a tie for the East title with a victory over Cleveland Wednesday night, the New York manager said that he could now be credited with two consecutive division titles in the same city. The Yankees won the AL East last year and Martin had won two others, with Minnesota and Detroit.

"To tell the truth," said Weaver, "that's the way I used to think. When the other team could do no better than a tie, I always thought it was ours."

But now that Weaver is on the other end, he doesn't see things quite the same way. Joking that a local undertaker was creeping around the Orioles' ballpark during the game Thursday night, Weaver noted:

"When they flashed that New York score on the board, he made reservations for Boston."

Weaver's reference was to the opening of tonight's three-game series with the Red Sox. Each team must hope for a sweep, and for the Yankees to lose their three-game set with Detroit, otherwise Martin's premature announcement will be a reality before the weekend is over.

In other AL games Thursday night, the Kansas City Royals defeated the California Angels 6-3 and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Texas Rangers 2-1.

Wayne Garland's six-hitter led Cleveland's victory over New York. Garland, one of last winter's free agents who signed a 10-year contract with Cleveland, posted his 13th triumph in 32 decisions and took some solace after a disastrous campaign by averting a 20th setback.

"Foremost in my mind was pride," said Garland after his overpowering performance. "I always have and I always will have pride. It probably would have been the biggest letdown of my life if I had lost, because I know I'm not a 20-game loser.

Upland softball team to compete

SAN BERNARDINO — The Upland Majestics will be one of 10 teams in action here this weekend as the First Annual Herald Examiner Women's Invitational Fast Pitch Softball Tournament gets underway.

The tourney field includes the top women's fast pitch squads in the state, including California champion San Fernando Valley Royals and state runnerup Glendale Blazers. Host team for the tourney will be the Southern California Dawns of Riverside.

The tourney begins today at 5 p.m. The Majestics will play their opening round game at 8:45 a.m. Saturday morning.

The tourney is being held at Little League Stadium, located six miles north of San Bernardino. Tourney finals are set for Sunday.

Tickets prices per day are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students, senior citizens and military. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Girls AYSO signups set

Chino AYSO signups for girls ages 8-16 will reopen due to a shortage of players for the girls teams.

The signups will be held Saturday at Chino High from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and at Ramona Junior High from 10 a.m. until noon. Girls should bring their birth certificates. Fees for applicants will be $10.

This week's trout plants

Barring adverse weather, water or road conditions, the following lakes and streams, listed by county, will be restocked this week with catchable-size rainbow trout from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries:

LOS ANGELES — Pyramid Reservoir, San Gabriel River (east and west forks), Upper Piru Creek (Frenchman's Flat).

SAN BERNARDINO — Gregory Lake, Lytle Creek (middle and north forks), Santa Ana River (South Fork).

RIVERSIDE — Fulmor Lake, Hemet Lake.

SAN DIEGO — Cuyamaca Reservoir, Doane Pond.

MADERA — San Joaquin River (Middle Fork), Starkweather Lake, Sotcher Lake.

INYO — Baker Creek, Big Pine Creek, Bishop Creek (lower, middle, south and intake II), Goodale Creek, Independence Creek, Lone Pine Creek, North Lake, Oak Creek (North Fork), Owens River (5 Bridges downstream to Stewart Lake), Pleasant Valley Reservoir, Sabrina Lake, South Lake, Taboose Creek, Tinemaha Creek.

MONO — Buckye Creek, NONVICTek, Convic olmake, tiery Lake, Oeorge Take, GrantLake, Green Creek, Gull Lake, Hilton Creek, Hot Creek, June Lake, Lee Vining Creek, Lee Vining Creek (South Fork), Little Walker Lake, Little Waler Walker River, Lundy Lake, Mamie Lake, Mary Lake, McGee Creek, Owens River (Benton Crossing and Big Springs), Reverse Creek, Robinson Creek, Rock Creek (Paradise Camp to Tom's Place, Tom's Place to Rock Creek Lake, Rock Creek Lake to the end of the road), Rock Creek Lake, Rush Creek, Saddlebag Creek and Lake, Silver Lake, Swauger Creek, Tioga Lake, Twin Lakes Bridgeport (Upper and Lower), Trumbull Lake, Twin Lakes (Mammoth), Walker River (Chris Flat Campground to town of Walker, Leavitt Meadows Campground to Sonora Bridge), Virginia Creek, Virginia Lakes (Upper and Lower).

Note: The water level at Castaic Lake is dropping, the launching ramp is down to four lanes and there is usually a waiting period before launching. There are no launching problems at Pyramid and Perris, the two other California Aqueduct lakes scheduled to be drawn down. Water levels are low but launching facilities are operational at lakes Cachuma, Casitas and Piru.

NOTICE OF HEARING
NOTICE OF THE PROPOSED ANNEXATION OF PARCELS
248-77 TO 268-77
TO THE CONSOLIDATED
SEWER MAINTENANCE DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 20th day of September, 1977, adopted a Resolution of Intention wherein it found and determined that lateral and/or collecting sanitary sewers have been installed within or for the benefit of the hereinafter described territory in the County of Los Angeles; that no other provision has been made for the maintenance and repair of such sewers; that no part of said area is now included within a sewer maintenance district; that said area is in need of sewer maintenance, and should be included in a sewer maintenance district; and, declared its intention to order, in accordance with Chapter 4, Part 3, Division 5 of the Health and Safety Code, as amended, of the State of California, that the hereinafter described territory in the County of Los Angeles be annexed to, included within, and known as the Consolidated Sewer Maintenance District of said County, formed June 3, 1929.

Said territory shall consist of that portion of said County included within the following described exterior boundary lines:

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

DWIGHT TWILLEY BAND: "Twilley Don't Mind" (Arista AB 4140).

Twilley scored in 1975 with "I'm on Fire," a fine recreation of the Sun sound, but the debut album foundered in the same sort of imitation. "Twilley Don't Mind," the group's second LP, is also highly derivative, but this time, the roots are much more well-integrated, less obviously plagiarized. The reference point this time is Southern California rock, after the heyday of the Beach Boys, before the hegemony of the Eagles: the Byrds, Love, West Coast folk-rock in general. But even in a song as blatantly Byrds-ish as "Sleeping," which evokes "Goin' Back" beautifully, Twilley adds a shade of its own personality. At the very least, this is a sign of increased maturity. On "That I Remember," it amounts to something for which no references are needed: an excellent pop-rock record. Next time out, Twilley may be able to come up with an entire album of that sort. Until then, this ranks with the very best late-summer releases.

JOHNNIE TAYLOR: "Reflections" (RCA APL 1-2527).

Taylor and producer Don Davis are the same combination who produced one of the Bicentennial's largest selling singles, "Disco Lady." "Reflections," however, is much more heavily influenced by the Memphis Stax sound where both began their careers, although oddly enough the album was recorded in Detroit and Muscle Shoals, Ala., R&B hotbeds of a slightly different stripe. The key is the excellence of the material and arrangements, and the suitability for Taylor's Wilson Pickett-derived style. Davis's arrangements are harder-edged, and stand out over Wade Marcus's, but despite the presence of a mini-classic like "Stop Half Lovin' These Women," there is no song as distinctive as "Disco Lady" here. Which is unfortunate, because this is neo-classic soul music of a very high order.

PIPER: "Can't Wait" (A&M SP-4654).

This Boston band is involved with classic Anglo-American hard rock — derived principally from the Who and Rolling Stones. The title cut is the major standout; co-written by Boston Phoenix columnist James Isaacs, it might be an out-take from the Who's "Sell Out" or "Happy Jack" LPs. The rest, despite the improvement in Bill Squier's vocals and Richie Fontana's much more forceful, Keith Moon-style drumming, suffers from a bit of the same sluggishness that was the bane of the group's debut. Nonetheless, a promising effort in a generally abused genre.

* * *

EDDIE KENDRICKS: "Slick" (Tamla T6-356S1).

This is Kendricks' final album for the Motown organization, but oddly enough it contains his best singing since the heyday of the Temptations. He dominates the arrangements completely, rather than being buried in rhythm tracks as on so many of his hits, even while essaying such unlikely material as Seals' & Crofts' "Diamond Girl."

HIGH KICKERS

Under the watchful eye of Patricia Ziegfeld Stevenson, these four lovelies kick high in Los Angeles Tuesday after being selected as dancers in the "new" Ziegfeld Follies which will appear in a three-hour NBC television special, "Ziegfeld: The Man and His Women." Mrs. Stevenson is Ziegfeld's daughter by his marriage to actress Billie Burke.

CBS plans TV drama on Oswald

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Stuart is a rangy man with gold-frame glasses, long greying hair that is growing thin, and what seems to be an obsession with those four days in November.

"Fourteen years have passed and I think people should get an idea of what happened," says Stuart, a movie director who produced and directed "The Making of the President" series.

"Do you realize that one quarter of this nation is too young to remember what happened on Nov. 22, 1963? Even those people old enough to remember have no real idea of what happened."

Stuart first told of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in the 1965 feature documentary "Four Days in November," which was nominated for an Academy Award.

Now he has completed directing "Ruby and Oswald," a three-hour television movie billed as an authentic recreation that follows Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby from Thursday, the day of the assassination, to Sunday, the day Ruby shot Oswald in the Dallas police station.

Emmy-winning screenwriter John McGreevey and his son Michael wrote the script, adhering closely to the Warren Report, for Alan Landsburg Productions. CBS is expected to air it in November.

Michael Lerner plays Ruby and Frederick Forrest is Oswald. Some scenes were filmed in Dallas, some using actual sites. President Kennedy appears only in newsreels.

Stuart ducked comment on ABC's "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a speculative movie on what might have happened had Oswald lived to face trial, because he hasn't seen it. But he is emphatic that "Ruby and Oswald" avoids any element of "what might have been."

"My film is based on sworn testimony and the facts that are known," he says.

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television has reached an age where it wants to go back and relive its past.

NBC looked at its first 50 years. Charles Kuralt toured the nostalgic early days for CBS. Lucille Ball and Bob Hope revived old skits. Dobie Gillis tried to update his show, to indifferent results.

"Father Knows Best" had better luck and a second sequel is in the works. "Laugh-In" is back and "Star Trek" is heading into production. The Brady Bunch came back and the Addams Family is coming back.

Now comes a revisit to "Peyton Place," and, as you might guess, things are still not going smoothly in that hotbed of passion. It's called "Murder in Peyton Place" and will be seen Monday night on NBC.

Five of the original major cast members are back for the reunion. Two others who went from "Peyton Place" to movie stardom are also back, in a manner of speaking.

Ryan O'Neal, who was Rodney Harrington, and Mia Farrow, who was Allison McKenzie, are there in body if not in spirit. It is the murders of Rodney and Allison that is the occasion for the movie.

Christopher Connelly is back as Norman Harrington, Rodney's brother; Dorothy Malone as Constance McKenzie, Allison's mother; Ed Nelson as Dr. Michael Rossi; Tim O'Connor as Elliot, and Joyce Jillson as Jill.

The producers felt it would be a waste of time to ask O'Neal or Miss Farrow to the reunion. Lee Grant and James Douglas had other commitments and Barbara Parkins declined.

Connelly admits he wasn't happy about returning to Peyton Place, but, as often happens to an actor, he was otherwise unoccupied.

"It was like going back while everyone else was moving on," he said. "Like Ryan and Mia and Lee. It was like going back and doing your first job over again.

"But I wasn't busy. It can only really do me good, which it has."

Connelly said that while making the movie he made contacts that landed him the role of Mark Twain in another NBC movie. It's "The Incredible Race," and in it he and Forrest Tucker are pitted against each other in a race from St. Joseph, Mo., to the Pacific Ocean.

Nor was he overjoyed about reviving the character of Norman, who began "Peyton Place" as a "misguided youth" and ended it "happily married at the age of 19."

"Peyton Place" ran for 514 half-hour episodes on ABC between September 1964 and June 1969. For a time it was on twice a week and then later three times a week in prime time.

The series was adapted from the 1956 novel by Grace Metalious and two movies. At the time it was on the air it was regarded as "controversial." Read that sexy. By today's standards it would be considered tame, if ABC's new series "Soap," is any comparison.

Lee Delano

Hollywood's pigeonholes annoy character actor

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — To most of the world, Hollywood is still a magical place. That is especially true for anyone who acts or wants to act. For them, Hollywood is the only place in the world worth working.

But, if you are one of those with Hollywood dreams, be warned that this town has some very strange foibles. Even after you are established as a working actor, Hollywood's peculiarities can be a source of annoyance.

Which brings us to Lee Delano. He is established as a working actor. In fact, he works all the time, one of the premiere character actors around today. You may not know his name, but you surely would recognize his face. You've seen it dozens of times, in movies, on TV.

Yet, even though he works and makes a comfortable living, he has a few gripes, mostly directed at those Hollywood foibles.

One, and perhaps his loudest gripe, is with Hollywood's age-old tendency to pigeonhole people.

"I do comedy and I do straight drama," he says. "But the problem is that when I do comedy, they think of me only as a comedian and I can't get a part in a drama. Then I get lucky and get a straight part, and then for a few years I never get a shot at a comedy part."

For three years, Delano worked with Sid Caesar. He was his modern-day Carl Reiner, whenever Caesar worked, on TV, in clubs, on the stage. So, for the next couple of years, producers and casting people would say, "Lee Delano? He's a comic." and Lee never got a chance to do anything else.

Before that, Lee Delano worked in New York. For some years, he was one of the most active of off-Broadway actors. He was in 17 off-Broadway plays, all heavy dramatic roles. If he went out for a comedy part, they scoffed. (Obviously, it's not just Hollywood that pigeonholes people.)

At the moment, he's in one of those dramatic pigeonholes. Lately he's done lead roles on Police Story and Charlie's Angels and so, for now, he is considered only a dramatic actor around town.

Another gripe:

"In this town, as opposed to, say, England, an actor can only take a certain kind of part, that pays a certain salary and that carries a certain billing. If you do a job for less money or for smaller billing, then they put you in that lesser category."

And so an actor here strives to get ahead, to become established at a higher price and a better billing. But, when he is established there, he can no longer take anything less, or else he is automatically put again in that lower strata.

"It's a bad situation," Delano says, "but that's the way it is and nothing can be done about it."

Still, he really isn't complaining. He has that other gripe, that every actor has — what to do between parts. He has solved the problem in two ways. First, he and two partners are trying to produce their own movies, and they have acquired some properties to do just that.

And, second, he and some other people have come up with a recipe for a Fat Albert cookie. They have Bill Cosby's OK to market it, and that's currently in the oven.

What he'd really like is a comedy series of his own. He thinks comedy is his forte, that he can do the things Sellers and Matthau do.

"I'd prefer a feature movie, of course," he says, "although not for my ego, but for the ego of the industry. The industry still respects movies more than TV and actors in movies more than actors in TV shows."

Guest stars on 'Five-O'

HONOLULU (AP) — Two major guest stars have been signed for appearances on CBS' "Hawaii Five-0."

Eleanor Parker has come out of retirement to play an aristocratic matriarch of a pioneer Hawaiian family. Miss Parker has been inactive in television for about six years and has not made a movie in 12 years.

Italian film star Rossano Brazzi will play a wealthy shipping magnate who has a freighter hijacked on the high seas.

Broadway digs revivals

By NORMAN NADEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Looking forward to the 1977-78 theater season bears an eerie resemblance to looking backwards. Continuing a trend of recent years, revivals of past hits (musicals in particular), or new adaptations of old successes, will abound.

The reasons? Most of them have to do with money. These days it is difficult — some producers would say impossible — to open a new musical on Broadway for under $1 million. As for a genuinely new stage work, there is no guarantee that it will earn back its costs, much less make a profit.

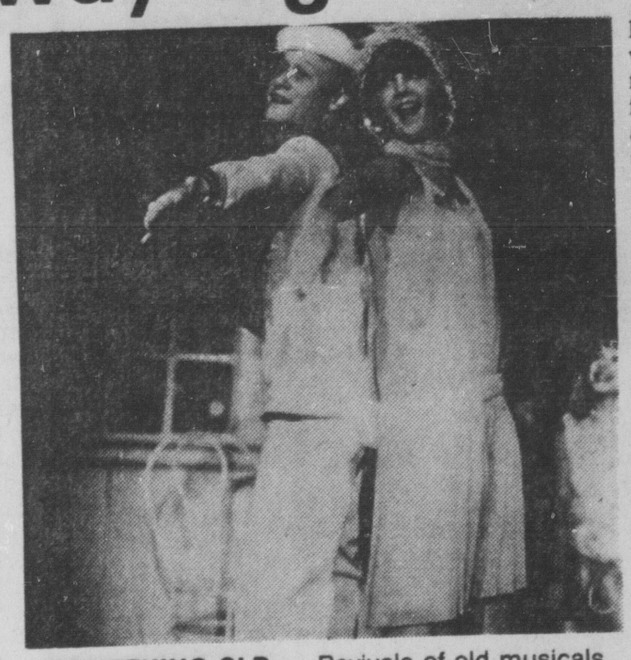
By contrast, a revival involves considerably less risk, although even it is not a sure thing. In the theater, nothing is a sure thing. But the show that has been around before, and has made money, will be easier to finance; angels will feel less shaky. As far as the public is concerned, an older show is already pre-sold by its earlier success.

Apart from money, there is the sensible reason that an entertaining and meaningful play or musical should be returned to public view as often as the demand warrants. Wouldn't it be a shame to shelve the plays of Shakespeare, Moliere, Ibsen, Strindberg, Chekhov, O'Neill and so many others just because they're not new?

At the same time, too many revivals make dedicated theater folk uneasy, because every time an old play is restaged, it means that a new play is not being staged.

"Hair!" already has returned to the Biltmore theater, just off Times Square, where it played 1,750 performances starting in the spring of 1968. The musical actually had three premieres its first season: off-Broadway as a modest and quite charming entertainment about the generation gap in the fall of 1967; at a mid-Manhattan discotheque in director Tom O'Horgan's much noisier version that winter, and again in the spring, with more cast, more songs, more noise, and nudity. Book by Jerome Ragni and James Rado, music by Galt MacDermot.

The Dale Wasserman-Mitch Leigh-Joe Darion "Man of La Mancha" inaugurated its second revival run in New York, on Sept. 15 the first having been in 1972, with the original production dating from a memorable November night in 1965. Once again, Richard Kiley will act and sing the role of Don Quixote, but Joan Diener, who created the stage Aldonza and returned in the part five years ago, has been replaced by Emily Yancy. In December the show will quit Broadway to visit Philadelphia, Chicago, San Diego, San Francisco and Los Angeles.



SOMETHING OLD — Revivals of old musicals have been doing well for the past several seasons. This summer's hit at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Conn., was "Hit the Deck," starring David Eric and Tudi Roach. The Vincent Youmans 1927 musical is headed for Broadway.

Moliere's corrosive comedy "Tartuffe" has been around even longer than the above two, dating from 1664 or 1669, depending on whether you stand by the original or the revised version. Anyway, the Circle In The Square stirs it up again in a new English translation of the French classic, by poet-playwright Richard Wilbur. Strong cast: John Wood, Tammy Grimes, Mildred Dunnock, Patricia Elliott, other able players.

Not to be out-Moliered, Joe Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival will mount the French satirist's "The Minanthrope," also translated by Wilbur, in a musical version with a score by Margaret Pine. Announced for Oct. 4.

"Dracula," Bram Stoker's shocker which first was adapted from novel to playscript in 1927, has been adapted again with a Broadway bow set for Oct. 20. Another stage treatment of the Dracula fable also is on the books for later this season.

Lynn Redgrave will undertake one of the most challenging women's roles in theater — and potentially one of the most rewarding — in Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," which the British actress' husband, John Clark, will direct. Dec. 15. Also Shaw, and also at the Circle In The Square, will be "Man and Superman," co-starring Rosemary Harris and Ellis Rabb, repeating their roles in a 1964 revival of the turn-of-the-century play. Tentative date is March 16, 1978.

Prior to that, however, "Hello, Dolly!" will steam back into New York for a February opening, with Carol Channing in the role she created for this musical adaptation, by Jerry Herman and Michael Stewart, of Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker."

Wilder, who never gave up on a book or a script, wrote "The Merchant of Yonkers" for a 1938 premiere in which Jane Cowl starred, but it ran only 39 performances. At the 1954 Edinburgh Festival he offered the play again, but with a new title, "The Matchmaker," and with Ruth Gordon as Dolly Levi. It made a hit with the Scots, and repeated in New York the following spring, enjoying a long run and later a screen adaptation. Set to music a few years later it became one of the greatest all-time musical popular successes, and has been playing somewhere ever since.

The current "Hello, Dolly!" run started in Houston in June and will have hit a dozen cities before it returns to Broadway, then will tour another dozen after it leaves here.

The Houston Grand Opera, which is producing "Dolly!", also is responsible for a new musical by Carlisle Floyd based on John Steinbeck's novel (1937) and play (1938), "Of Mice and Men." It played Washington early this summer, after Houston, and might travel elsewhere.

Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington will precede New York in seeing a new production of Eugene O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet," which premiered here in 1959. Jason Robards will portray the tavern keeper played 18 years ago by Eric Portman.

Those aren't all the revivals or adaptations, but they should give you an idea. Though no date has been set, a possibility for this year is James Montgomery's 1916 comedy success, "Nothing But The Truth," which in turn was taken from a novel by Fred Isham. It was musicalized in 1927 as "Yes, Yes, Yvette" (that was in the wake of "No, No, Nanette," as you might have guessed), and again in 1932 as "Tell Her The Truth." Several films, including Bob Hope's "Nothing But The Truth" in 1941, were made from this hardy perennial. Plot: a young man accepts a $10,000 bet that he will tell nothing but the truth for 24 hours.

Don't despair. There also will be new plays and musicals during the 1977-78 season. That's another story.

Buck Rogers to bow on TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Buck Rogers will make his debut as a weekly television series on NBC this season. . .

Viewers of ABC's "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald" will be asked to vote on Oswald's guilt or innocence after the second segment is aired Sunday, Oct. 2. Mail-in ballots will be published in TV Guide.

FAIR HELEN — Singer Helen Reddy will star in station KMPC's eighth annual Show of the World at the Forum in Inglewood at 8 p.m. Saturday. She will join Lou Rawls, Vikki Carr, Johnny Mathis and others in the benefit show.

Golden Days set at Azusa

Crooner Rudy Vallee will be grand marshal of the Azusa Golden Days Parade starting at 11 a.m. Oct. 8. The theme of the parade is "Happiness Is Music."

Fifty thousand spectators are expected to line the parade route along Foothill Boulevard. Equestrian grand marshals will be Kaptain Kool and The Kongs, popular Saturday morning television song-and-comedy group.

Theme marshals will include Billy Barty, of Little People of America, and Jim Mc Ewan, popular entertainer at Azusa's El Encanto restaurant.

Also representing the parade theme will be Helaine Lembeck, better known as Judy Borden on television's "Let's Make a Deal;" Don Pedro Colley, star of television and theater; Aldo Ray, known to millions for a quarter of a century as the movie tough guy with the big heart; and Will Walter Scholz, television actor. Also in the parade will be Michael D. Roberts, known as "Rooster" on the "Baretta" show, and singer-entertainer Phil Thomas, a 1967 graduate of Azusa High School whose new records, "Easy Lady" and "When I'm Down," are currently being played on area radio stations.

Novelty entries will be led by the Wizard and Troll from Magic Mountain and Ronald McDonald.

In addition to the 23 floats depicting the music theme, 14 bands will compete for trophies in their divisions and 20 equestrian units will present their animals in flashing regalia. The Al Malaikah Silver Mounted Patrol will be featured.

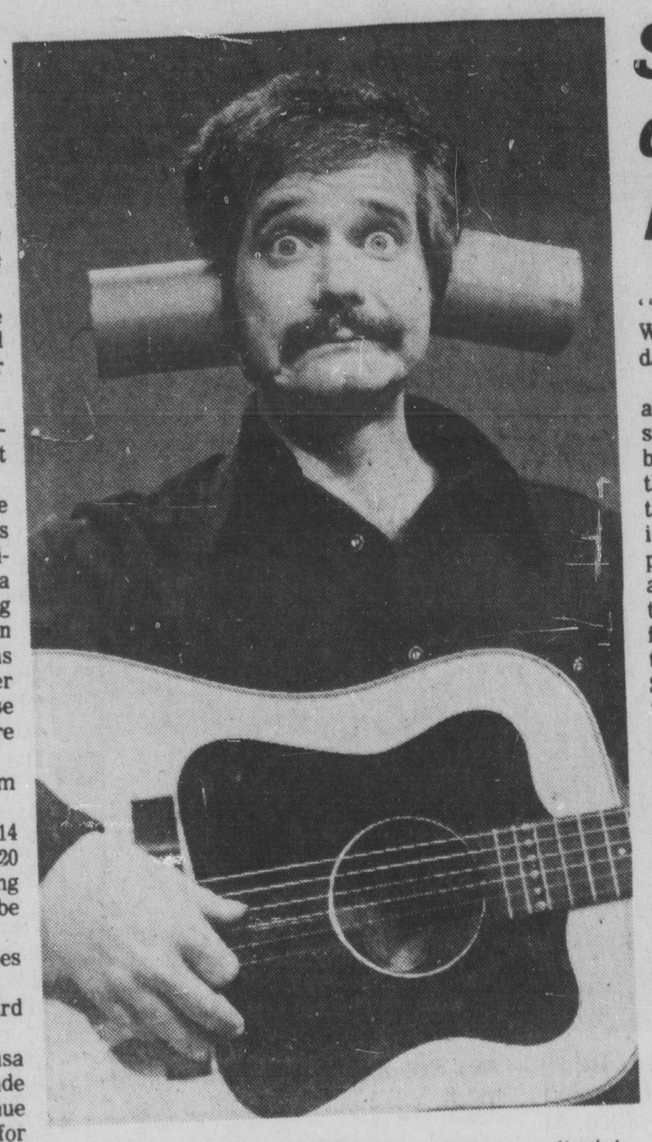
Antique cars, vans, clowns and animal-drawn vehicles round out the entries.

The two-hour long parade will be followed by an award ceremonies in Civic Center Park, behind City Hall.

A community pancake breakfast sponsored by Azusa High School Athletic Boosters will precede the parade from 6 to 10 a.m., at the recreation center, Third Avenue and Orange Place. The charge is $1.50 for adults, $1 for children under 12.

The day's activities include an arts and crafts fair on City Hall lawn from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The show and sale will feature artistry in many media as well as demonstrations of oil and sand painting.

A carnival and food and game booths sponsored by local organizations will operate until midnight in Civic Center Park, Dalton and Alameda streets.



BANGUP PERFORMANCE — Comic guitarist Ron Coden will perform in "Ice House Revue" at Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The show is sponsored by the Assistance League of Pomona Valley. Also on the program are Duncan Tuck and the L.A. Cabaret.

Senior days at D'land

Disneyland will hold "Senior Fun Days" Wednesday through Friday.

People 50 years of age and older may purchase specially priced $6 ticket books for themselves and their families during the three-day period. The offer includes admission to the park and 10 tickets good for any of Disneyland's 57 attractions, including such favorites as the "Pirates of the Caribbean," "It's a Small World" and the "Jungle Cruise."

On-stage performances by the popular Mickey Finn Ragtime Band and the Hoosier Hot Shots will complement the regular musical lineup.

Renowned for its enthusiastic way of playing Dixieland favorites, the Mickey Finn Racktime Band will be featured in three daily performances from Tomorrowland's new "Space Stage." The Hoosier Hot Shots, offering a style of entertainment they have dubbed "musical corn," will perform three times each day from Disneyland's Plaza Gardens stage.

Disneyland will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for the three-day celebration.

Fourth annual

Oktoberfest slated at Old School House

Griswold's Old School House in Claremont will stage the fourth annual Oktoberfest next Friday through Sunday and the following weekend. Admission is $1 in advance, $1.50 at the door. Children under 12 are admitted free.

The program will include polka dancing, a beer drinking contest, a pretzel eating contest for children and the traditional beer stein carrying competition. (Last year's winner carried 10 full steins without spilling.)

Huge kegs of German beer will be ready, and food will include knackwurst, German potato salad, sauerkraut, glazed pretzels and German chocolate cake from Griswold's bakery.

Folk dancer Harve Edwards will conduct polka contests for children and adults and give instruction in German dances. Several civic and youth groups will have booths on the GOSH patio to raise money and publicize their programs. Musical groups performing will be the Bavarian Beer Garden Band, The Villagers, The Winstrup Olesen Band, The Mlakar Brothers, Blue Max and The Tyroleans.

Since this is Claremont's 70th anniversary, the city will be saluted by Oktoberfest with a plaque to be presented to Mayor Bertye Smith next Friday. Oktoberfest will also honor Pomona College, which observes its 90th anniversary on Founders Day Oct. 15. The festival salute will be Oct. 14.

Griswold staffers expect 10,000 visitors during the two-weekend run of Oktoberfest.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

What do Frickadellers and Ableskivers have in common? Well, they are both Danish and they are both round, and they've been going together for years at The Danish Kitchen in Claremont.

I was wandering around last Tuesday night, looking for an interesting place to eat when I spotted Soup's On and realized it had been some time since I had eaten there. Besides, the pies at this little restaurant with the big title of Soup's On at The Danish Kitchen are marvelous, and I was almost drooling in anticipation by the time I got to the front door.

But as soon as I looked at the menu I knew I had a hard choice to make. A hamburger would do the job, I thought, and leave room for pie, too. On the other hand, who could resist at least finding out something about the Tuesday night special with the funny name . . . Frickadellers and Ableskivers?

I found that the F & A combo has been a staple at Soup's On for 30 years, and that Rick Byrket has featured this Danish dish for the 15 years he's owned the restaurant.

So, many of you are probably acquainted with this Tuesday night offering. But for the benefit of the uninitiated, Frickadellers are Danish meatballs, mild and very tasty. Ableskivers are round rolls, slightly sweet, doughy, slightly deep-fried. Ableskivers reminded me of the gobs of dough my mother used to deep fry and sprinkle with sugar, calling her concoction, appropriately, "dough gobs."

Soup's On is open from 11:30 A.M. to 8:00 Tuesday through Saturday. If my meal Tuesday night was any indication, take a healthy appetite with you when you visit. My F & A dinner included mashed potato & gravy, a vegetable, soup and salad and coffee . . . for $3.75. 560 E. Foothill, Claremont.

Have you met the new faces and the people behind them at Elli's Lounge yet? I stopped in last Friday night to meet the new owners, Ronnie Holmes and Bette Hertzog, and found them both very personable and friendly.

They know a number of people on the restaurant nightclub circuit and seem to be shooting some new life into this business. I hesitate to use the name because they are planning to change it soon . . . to The Back Door. Other changes are in store for this Pomona club as Bette and Ronnie are finding that their decision to go into business was a profitable one.

"Second Childhood" plays there on weekends and provides good listening or dancing music. Thursday night's Gong Nite Contest is growing in popularity, and now the girls have installed two TV sets for the sporting crowd on Monday nights. Elli's is located at 1250 E. Mission in Pomona.

Larry Buster and Denis White have announced new hours for their Old Montclair Peanut Co. This is one of our newest Valley restaurants, and if you haven't been there yet, you're missing out on a neat experience.

Since they opened the restaurant, they have opened for business at 5 P.M. on weekdays. But so many people are waiting at the door at that time, they've decided to open an hour earlier. So now their hours are 4 to 10 Monday thru Thursday, 4 to 11 on Fridays and Saturdays, and 12 to 9 on Sundays. Holt Blvd., Montclair.

AROUND 'N ABOUT

. . . Betsy Ross restaurants are sporting a new menu these days. New owner of the long-time Valley restaurant and ice cream stores is Gary McArthur, who also owns Marie Callendar restaurants in the West Covina area. To introduce their new menu, Betsy Ross is offering a free ice cream sundae with any item you purchase from the new menu this week. Also, as you'll notice when you read their ad in this section, you can save almost a buck on a half-gallon of Betsy Ross Ice Cream. Both are coupon deals, so cut 'em out and redeem them by next Thursday at any Betsy Ross restaurant.

. . . John and Louise Spellman have introduced some variety for customers to their Taco Kitchen, 2911 Bonita, La Verne. They've mixed art, Albondi-

Q. "WHAT IS A KILLER WHALE?"

JIM DIETRICH WILSON, NY

A. KILLER WHALES ARE THE LARGEST MEMBERS OF THE DOLPHIN FAMILY, SO-CALLED BECAUSE OF THEIR REPUTATION OF BEING ONE OF THE MOST SAVAGE PREDATORS IN THE SEA

© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. DICK Romero 9/30

The largest of all dolphins is the killer whale. These huge black-and-white creatures often measure 30 feet in length and weigh several tons.

Killer whales aren't fish. They are mammals and breathe air. Like their dolphin cousins, they breathe through a single blowhole high in the head.

One of the most intelligent of all animals, the killer whale has a fearsome reputation because it preys on such warm-blooded animals as porpoises, dolphins, and seals, and will readily attack the great whales as well.

Its mighty jaws are equipped with rows of cone-shaped teeth and its throat is large enough to swallow a seal whole.

Despite its savage reputation, the killer whale has never been known to attack a human.

In captivity it is a friendly animal, and because of its intelligence and learning ability it is usually one of the star performers in oceanariums.

The large variety of paints on the market is the result of a continuing effort by manufacturers to supply the widely divergent demands of the public. People are no more in agreement on the kinds of paints they want than they are on anything else in life.

Years ago, kitchen and bathroom walls were finished with a paint that had a high gloss, simply because this type of paint had a high resistance to food stains, grease, finger marks and spots in general. Flat paints were reserved for the other rooms in the house.

These days, the new acrylic latex satin enamels are getting more and more use in kitchens, bathrooms, laundry and playrooms where good resistance to moisture, stains and hard knocks is needed. These new low gloss finishes have a satiny luster and are easy to clean when soiled. Paint manufacturers use various designations for these finishes, such as eggshell, velvet, satin latex or simply low luster. Seen head-on, these coatings appear to be flat with little or no gloss. But when viewed at an angle, they have a definite sparkle without the glare that some people find objectionable in a high gloss finish. They dry quickly, are practically odor-free during application and are easy to use.

As with finishing materials of all kind, pigmented or clear, they are most effective when time is taken to prepare the surface properly. It is especially important to wash kitchen walls, ceilings and trim with detergent and water to remove the greasy film deposited by cooking. Finger marks, mildew and dirt should also be washed off. Traces of detergent must be removed by wiping the surface with a damp cloth.

Once the surface is clean, cracks, nail holes and other indentations should be filled with a latex crack-filling compound, using a putty knife to smooth the patch. After the filler has dried, sand the surface lightly. When a crack or opening is very deep, it may be necessary to use a second coat of filler where shrinkage has taken place.

When dry, sand the surface smooth and apply a latex primer to all bare areas. The latex satin enamel then can be applied with a roller or brush. If the color selected for the top coat is not too different from the original color, a single coat usually will be sufficient. Rollers and brushes must be washed promptly with water after painting, since the acrylic coatings dry quickly to form tough, water-resistant films.

Many paint manufacturers also offer low luster acrylic latex paints for outdoor use. These coatings can be used on almost any exterior surface, including wood, stucco, concrete and cement asbestos shingle. The exterior grades have sheen properties similar to the interior coatings. They chalk slowly so that there is little chalk rundown to disfigure trim or brick walls and have good resistance to peeling, cracking and fading. But remember that the time and attention you give to the proper preparation of the old surface will be reflected in the quality of the result.

(If you do things around the house, you'll find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J., 07888.)

Gardeners check list

—Spring blooming bulbs like Daffodils, Hyacinths and Crocus go into the ground this month.

—Fall spraying to combat diseases that develop in spring is recommended. Remember coverage is important and is only as good as your equipment.

—Loosen up soil with a spade or shovel to increase air and water penetration to the root zone.

—Fall is an ideal time to plant ground covers, shrubs and trees or rake in wild flower seeds.

—Re-seeded lawns or newly seeded ones should be kept moist until the lawn is well established.

—Let the tops of Dahlias die back before cutting them back when bloom is gone.

Philodendron

Heartleaf is hearty greenery

If you were to simply ask for a house plant at your local nursery, chances are you would receive a Philodendron. Not only is it the most popular of all indoor foliage plants but it almost literally thrives on neglect.

The varieties and sizes range from the small Heartleaf Philodendron (or Philodendron cordatum, the commercial name) which is the Living Plant Growers Association "Plant of the Month" for September, to the Philodendron selloum, often seen in indoor planting areas of modern office buildings.

The Heartleaf is also referred to as oxycardium, which is the botanical name, and is native to Brazil. Young plants have small, bright green leaves. Because the Heartleaf is a vining Philodendron, it can be trained in a number of ways — as a hanging basket or a table plant; or if the objective is to attain size, as a climber on a large moisture-retentive totem pole.

Interestingly, when allowed to grow upright, the leaves will increase in size as the plant matures. You may see some Heartleafs in greenhouses with leaves up to a foot in length. So if you are not attracted to such large-leafed Philodendrons as the Split-Leaf, Fiddle-Leaf or Lacy Tree, the Heartleaf lets you tailor the size to your needs.

Medium or high levels of light are recommended for best growth. If the light is on the low side, the leaves may lose some of their character. Also, they will tend to grow smaller. But like all Philodendrons, the Heartleaf can adapt to almost any indoor living condition.

Moisture is needed to maintain the Heartleaf but avoid overwatering. Root rot is not uncommon with Philodendrons. However, don't wait for the soil to dry out completely between waterings. Temperatures in the 65 to 80 degree F. range are best. They can take brief cool spells despite their tropical ancestry.

As with all glossy-leafed plants, the Heartleaf should be kept dust-free. Larger-leafed Philodendrons will retain their attractiveness if leaf polish is used occasionally.

Propagating the Heartleaf can be done by terminal cuttings or by air layering. Long runners can be pinched off and will live and grow for some time in a jar of water. Any good packaged potting mix will do for re-potting with the addition of a little peat and sand for good drainage. Re-pot about once a year or when the plant outgrows its container. Fertilizing should be done every two or three months with a water-soluble type but hold off for four to six months with a plant that has just been brought home from the nursery.

If the popular Heartleaf arouses your interest in the more exotic Philodendrons, there are some highly attractive hybrids — such as "Red Emerald" which is self-heading (not a climber but will adapt to a support) and has large leaves. The stem is red as are the leaf petioles.

You will find the September "Plant of the Month" Heartleaf along with many other popular varieties of Philodendrons in the greenhouses and nurseries of members of the Living Plant Growers Association throughout Southern California.

HEARTLEAF — (Or Philodendron Cordatum) is a native of Brazil and makes a hearty indoor foliage plant.

Here's the answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We had vinyl gutters put around our house several months ago. Everything was fine until recently when, during a heavy rainstorm, the water poured over the top of the gutter at one point. It has happened twice since then, each time at the same spot. What is causing this and how can it be fixed?

A. — If the work was done by a professional installer, it is possible he might be willing to fix it for you without charge. If not, examine the gutter where the trouble is occurring. You will find that the gutter is held in place with brackets. The chances are that one of these brackets has come loose. Was a ladder ever placed against the gutter at that point? In any event, if a bracket is bent or loose, you will have to figure out whether it can be straightened out or retightened or must be replaced.

Q. — You told a reader what the initials DFPA stood for on the back of a sheet of plywood. Now perhaps you can help me with something similar. I bought considerable lumber for a project that probably will be started by the time I know your answer, but I'd like the answer to satisfy my curiosity. There is a circle stamped on the wood with the letters WWP inside it, followed by a lot of numbers and symbols. What do they mean?

A. — The stamped circle means that the lumber has been graded according to quality control standards of the Western Wood Products Association, thus giving the specifier a dependable measure for determining the value of the lumber. The other markings tell which mill the lumber came from, its official grade name, the kind of wood it is and its moisture content at the time of the surfacing.

Q. — Please settle an argument. When making a fire in the fireplace, is it better to leave the old ashes in the fireplace or remove them?

A. — Leaving about an inch of ashes on the floor of the fireplace helps the fire to burn steadily.

Q. — I know that spar varnish can be used outdoors, but is it good for furniture that is kept outside all year round in both hot and cold weather? Also, how did it get its name?

A. — The traditional spar varnish got its name because it was, and still is, used on the spars that supported the rigging on ships. It is sometimes called marine varnish. While it is very durable, it is not meant for furniture, inside or out.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY 11743.)

Laziness a part of the therapy for heart attack

By Dick Kleiner
(Last of Two Parts)

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Life in the intensive care unit of a hospital is governed by routine. It doesn't take you, as a patient, long to recognize this and adapt to it.

I had had what, later, they called a mild heart attack. They had put me in the coronary care unit at Midway Hospital and, within a few hours, I began to fit into the system.

The medical routine began right after breakfast. An orderly wheeled in an EKG — electrocardiograph — machine. Another orderly came to take a blood sample. There might be an X ray or some other test.

Every few hours, day and night, one of the nurses would take my temperature, check my pulse, measure my blood pressure. Every few hours, night and day, another nurse would wheel a small cart to the door of my room, dole out a few pills in a paper cup, make sure that I swallowed them.

For hours, between ministrations, you are alone, trapped with your fears and doubts. Suddenly, you have been confronted with the positive fact that you are mortal. You could die in this place. People did.

On the wall behind me, if I twisted around, I could see the monitor and the cheerful green line that indicated my heart was beating away. It was comforting.

A few times, the loudspeaker voice would say, "Code 5 Blue, Room 242" and everybody would rush to that room. That was the code for a cardiac emergency.

I was the center of one emergency of my own. Trying to sleep, I apparently tossed and turned so vigorously that the wires hooking up to my monitor became unhooked. The monitor went wild — red lights flashing, buzzers buzzing. Nurses came running. It was reassuring.

As it turned out, I was in the intensive care for a shade longer than 48 hours. On the second day, they wheeled me to the next phase — COU, or Coronary Observation Unit. It was like being released from prison. The intravenous bottle was removed, the monitor disconnected (for several more days I would be monitored, but by a wireless device) and I found I could move a little without worrying about disconnecting myself.

They rolled me into a room that was equipped with two wonderful inventions — a bathroom and a television set. You cannot imagine how great it is to go to the bathroom on your own until you aren't allowed to.

In intensive care, you don't even brush your teeth — they give you a basin and some mouthwash. But now I could not only brush my teeth, I could shave. I toyed with the idea of letting my beard grow — it seemed to be coming in grey, which might be interesting — but realized that was laziness talking.

And laziness is part of your life. You are encouraged and urged to be lazy. It's part of your therapy as a heart patient. And then you find that you are actually enjoying it.

The longer you do it, the more the thought of getting out and going back to your work and your worries is not as alluring a prospect as it once was. The lazy life begins to capture you.

And you bask in the glory of your illness. People call you up, send you cards, books, flowers, fruit. Everybody rallies around to help you and wish you well. There is a certain status to your condition.

And yet, fortunately, the restlessness proves stronger than the laziness. You feel guilty about not doing your job, about the burden your illness is placing on your family. They tell you to think of this as a vacation, but you know better.

So you welcome every sign that you are being readied for the outside world. One day, the doctor says you can sit up in a chair a few hours a day. The next step is being labelled "ambulatory," which means you can walk through the hospital corridors. Another great moment is when you receive shower privileges. When they say you will be going home tomorrow, you feel like jumping for joy.

The doctor explains carefully what I can and cannot do. For the next two weeks, at least, I must continue to rest. Lie down two hours every afternoon. Go up the stairs only twice a day. No writing yet. After those two weeks, we'll see.

Heart disease is the number one killer in America. The American Heart Assn. estimates that 52 per cent of all deaths in 1977 will be from some form of cardiovascular disease (CVD). Three times as many people will die from CVD as from cancer; 10 times as many from CVD as from accidents. What had happened to me was hardly uncommon. Actually, I was lucky. I got there in time. Even so, I had delayed and procrastinated much too long.

The Heart Association has a booklet called, "Some People Would Rather Die Than Admit They're Having a Heart Attack."

The booklet advises: "Recognize the earliest danger signals. The most important signal is a steady pressure on the center of the chest lasting two minutes or more. The discomfort may spread to the arms, neck or jaw, but don't wait for this to occur. Remember, the victim may look completely well and may deny that the symptoms are serious."

That had been me. I had denied the seriousness of my symptoms for several months. I was flirting with death, but I honestly wasn't sure that what I had been feeling were really heart disease symptoms. Next time — God forbid — I'll know.

One thing I will say for a heart attack is that it's a dandy way to quit smoking. By the time I was out of the hospital, I hadn't smoked for two weeks and I'd heard several dozen lectures to the effect that I had smoked my last cigarette.

They all added that I was lucky in one respect — that I wasn't overweight. Smoking is bad enough, but being overweight is probably worse.

Later, perhaps in two months, I'll have to go in for some serious tests to determine exactly how much damage has been done to my heart and what, if anything, can be done to repair it. Maybe the heart will have repaired itself. Let's hope so.

But now I'm going home. The nurse brings a wheelchair to my room, and I get dressed in regular clothes and they wheel me down to the outside. The cars seem to be faster and louder and scarier than I remember.

Supervisors for Boys Full Time

If you have had any experience running a magazine crew, or newspaper experience operating with carrier boys, if you have had any experience in any direct sales, such as cookware, photos, books, etc., then don't pass this ad up.

I have taken the sting out of sales work; no collecting or delivering.

Let me introduce you to a program in newspaper circulation promotion. If you believe you can supervise teenage boys and have a good running sedan, station wagon or van, then I want to talk to you.

Our company secures new readers for a leading newspaper in this area.

Speak to our people on the job, ride with them, before you decide.

Our incentive and commission structure will earn you a better than average earning. Watch our operation in the field, then you be the judge. Call Mr. Julian, (213) 967-2069, between 9 a.m. & 11:30 a.m. for interview.

WHEN YOU COOK

SAVE GAS ENERGY WITH THESE CONSERVATION TIPS

- Don't preheat gas oven, it is unnecessary
- Keep pots and pans covered
- Adjust top burner flame to fit pans
- Reduce burner flame to simmer after cooking starts
- When replacing your gas range consider one with an ignition system which eliminates the constant burning pilots

Businessmen detail ambitious plans for revitalization of Pomona's Mall

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Ambitious plans to revitalize the Pomona Mall and to give it a regional shopping center status were detailed today by a coalition of local business leaders.

Frank G. Summers Jr., spokesman for the group which has bought various properties along the largely deserted mall, announced that it will be possible for new lessees to open up their businesses in the "Pomona Shoppers Park" in time for the Christmas season.

Details of the group's plans were announced at a morning press conference at 295 Pomona Mall West, Summers' new offices in the former Fireside Thrift location.

No dollar value was placed on the project immediately because of the diversity of the renewal programs involved, but Summers estimated that renovation costs could total $500,000.

Summers is also president of California Park Development Co., Inc. which will renovate buildings along the mall for prospective retailers.

Immediate plans call for the refurbishing of the S. H. Kress building on Locust Street, the John Evans block on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and the re-opening of Nash's as Walker's Department Store.

"Our objectives are to restore the prominence and economic viability of the downtown area and re-establish its status as a major regional shopping center," Summers said.

He noted that his firm has space ranging from 200 square feet to 70,000 square feet for lease.

Summers said that he will ask the Pomona City Council Oct. 10 to change the Pomona Mall back to two-way traffic as it was before the mall was constructed in 1962.

"We need the two-way traffic to bring the shoppers back into the area," he said.

He stressed that the artwork on the mall will not be disturbed.

Summers will ask the city to install traffic signals to facilitate traffic north and south from the mall on streets cul-de-saced when the mall was built.

The Pomona City Council in November 1975 had approved an experimental plan of allowing one-way traffic westbound between Garey and Park avenues.

Summers said that parking still would not be allowed on the mall because there is ample parking north and south of the street.

Summers said that the S. H. Kress building will become an "international village" with up to 35 small retail businesses on the three floors. A mezzanine will be added when the building is modernized.

The businesses will include 15 artisans who will sell the products they make in their stalls.

. Summers said that his group has bought the John Evans block on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and will renovate the burned-out Woolworth building into a fashion arcade of ready-to-wear clothing stores.

The basement will be converted, he said, for rental as dry storage, and the second floor will become the offices of California Park Development Co., Inc.

He said that John A. Evans will continue to operate the John P. Evans store, and will be encouraged to expand his operation.

Nash's, which closed its doors this month after 20 years in Pomona, will re-open at the same location under the firm's new name: Walker's Department Store.

Summers said the Alfred Gray building on the northeast corner of the mall at Garey Avenue will open as the Pomona Bookstore with new best sellers.

He added that the C. H. Baker building across Locust Street from the Kress building will become Baker's TruValue Hardware sometime in October.

"It's been many years since we had a hardware store downtown," he said.

Summers said that other plans will be revealed as they reach fruition.

"Our area has 350,000 people living here, and we can draw them to the new Pomona Shoppers Park through the redevelopment of the mall," Summers said.

Summers said that a shoppers park is a new approach to retailing where the best of several worlds is at the customers' fingertips.

"The concept is proven," he concluded.

Hijackers release four more hostages, while Japan collects money, prisoners

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — Hijackers holding a Japan Air Lines DC8 jet released four more hostages today as Japanese officials rounded up prisoners in Japan and $6 million to meet the terrorists' ransom demands.

Bangladesh Foreign Secretary Dobraki Hussain said negotiations

were going well. But other officials said the five gunmen were growing irritable and short-tempered in the third day of the siege and were communicating less with the outside.

These officials also said the terrorists had not been told that one of their demands would not be fully met — three of the nine prisoners in Japanese jails whose freedom the hijackers demanded have refused the offer to leave.

Japanese officials said the ransom flight Saturday would arrive here more than seven hours after the hijackers' latest deadline and would carry no more than six of the prisoners.

The Bangladesh officials said it was not known whether the hijackers, said to be members of the ultraleftist Japanese Red Army, were willing to extend their deadline once again.

The latest hostage release brought to nine the number of passengers freed since the plane was seized Wednesday. All four passengers freed today — a Japanese woman, an Indonesian woman and an Egyptian couple — were ill.

The five masked terrorists, who hijacked the Japan Air Lines DC8 jet Wednesday, have repeatedly threatened to kill the hostages unless their demands are met but have twice extended their deadline.

There were indications the hijackers wanted to leave Dacca after the prisoners and money arrive.

Tokyo's Asahi Evening News, in an unattributed report, said the hijackers indicated plans to free all women, children and Indian and Pakistani men among the 132 passengers and 14 crew members in exchange for the ransom and keep the others — including nine American men — until arriving at their final destination. An American woman is also aboard.

Sources here said Japanese officials were contacting other governments in search of a country willing to accept the hijackers.

North Korea and Libya allowed Red Army members to land hijacked Japan Air Lines jets in 1970 and 1973. Captured members of the terrorist group, which vows to foment revolution in Japan, have told authorities they received training in Yemen and Lebanon.

House gives Carter OK to fund neutron bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is giving President Carter approval to produce the neutron bomb, a new atomic weapon that opponents fear will greatly increase the risk of all-out nuclear war.

The House of Representatives on Thursday approved an authorization bill to enable the President to spend money for the neutron bomb if he chooses to do so. The Senate previously approved a similar bill.

The neutron bomb is a small warhead that would be placed on Lance missiles and artillery shells. It produces twice the deadly radiation of a conventional nuclear bomb but less than a tenth as much explosive power, heat and fallout. This means the bomb can kill people while causing little damage to buildings.

The warhead is designed to replace the approximately 7,000 nuclear warheads now deployed in Europe.

Carter has not announced whether he intends to approve production of the controversial weapon, but he did ask for the authorization that both houses have now granted.

The key House vote came on an amendment by Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y. The amendment would have blocked Energy Research and Development Administration money from being used for the neutron bomb. But the amendment was defeated 297 to 109.

Weiss and his supporters said the neutron bomb would "lower the threshold" to nuclear war. They said military leaders might feel less inhibited about using the neutron bomb since it has less destructive power than large-scale nuclear weapons. That could make it easier to introduce nuclear weapons into an altercation that could touch off a nuclear holocaust, opponents said.

"I am frightened to death of this weapon," said Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif. "Once you start down the road to a nuclear war, there is no turning back. Once we make nuclear war thinkable, we make it possible, and once we make it possible we make it inevitable."

Stewardess wounded as lone gunman hijacks French jet

PARIS (AP) — A hijacker shot and wounded a stewardess and commandeered a French jetliner with 107 persons aboard today, forcing it to return to Paris' Orly airport, where he demanded to broadcast a message to France, authorities said.

The gunman — described as about 45 years old, big, blond and blue-eyed — quickly freed the wounded stewardess and six passengers from the Air Inter Caravelle, which had been bound for Lyon on a domestic flight. Officials said the stewardess was not badly hurt.

The pilot radioed the control tower that the hijacker, said to be armed with a grenade and pistol, wanted to broadcast a message over Radio Europe No. 1 and Radio Monte Carlo and threatened to execute a passenger if the request was not granted.

Newsmen from the two private stations, which direct their broadcasts principally at France, were standing by to make the recording.

But it was reported that local officials negotiating with the hijacker insisted on first knowing the contents of the 12-minute message and the hijacker replied that everything he had to say was in the message, including the fate of the passengers and the destination he hoped to reach.

Potice and firemen took up positions 600 yards from the Air Inter Caravelle after it was parked at the end of a runway 500 yards from the terminal, but they made no move toward it.

There were reports at Orly that the gunman had called for the plane to be given a maximum fuel supply.

Drought blamed

Thirsty rats and ants bug Bay Area homes

ORINDA, Calif. (AP) — Thirsty rats and ants are slipping into many San Francisco Bay area homes looking for water made scarce during California's two-year drought.

"We've had more calls about rats, and they've been looking for water, definitely," said Peter Davidson, service manager for Corky's Pest Control here.

Homes in the bay area have been under orders to ration water for about a year.

Exterminators say calls to rid homes of rats and ants have gone up by as much as 40 per cent in the past three or four months.

Davidson said the pests have prompted calls from homeowners who never had problems before. Many of them have creeks near their homes that have dried up, he said.

"And they've stopped watering their lawns, so there was no water out there the rats could get and no puddles, either," Davidson said.

"They're looking for dripping faucets, anything like that," he said. "And the calls aren't from slum areas, but from nice neighborhoods like Walnut Creek, Concord and Moraga," all suburbs east of Oakland.

There has been no indication from health officials as to whether the pests pose a health hazard.

Bill Wallace, chief deputy agricultural commissioner of Contra Costa County, said reports of the pest invasion are "not horror stories, exactly, but it's really something of a nuisance this year."

Restaurant chain pays $25,000

Specialty Restaurants Inc., of Long Beach, which operates a chain of Southern California restaurants including the Castaway in Pomona, has paid $25,000 in civil fees and court costs, settling a suit filed against it by the consumer protection division of the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office.

The action, a stipulated judgement in Los Angeles Superior Court, which did not include any admission of wrongdoing, settled the case involving six of the chain's restaurants, including the local one.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Judith Gelfand said that since the charges were originated by the county health department earlier this year, all the restaurants have been brought up to department standards.

Chlorine gas fumes rout residents

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Deadly chlorine gas spread through the East Falls section of Philadelphia early today after a steel cylinder began leaking at a water treatment plant, police said. More than 190 persons had to be treated at hospitals.

"I thought I was a goner," said George Pell, who had fled half-dressed with his wife from their home directly across from the water treatment plant.

"My wife and I were actually rolling on the floor. You feel like you're choking to death. That burning sensation — I never experienced anything like that in my life," he said moments after returning to his home, where the strong chlorine odor still lingered.

According to officials, the leak started when a treatment plant employe of 23 years, Wayne Fowler, was switching the chlorine flow into the huge reservoir, which serves about a third of the city.

As Fowler was switching from one set of four, one-ton steel, chlorine tanks to another, he smelled chlorine and tried to tighten a nut where he thought the leak was originating, Water Commissioner Carmen Guarino said.

"The leak sprang," Guarino said. A green liquid and a green haze and vapor started escaping from the pipe, he said. Fowler, who then ran, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

"It was very panicky in the beginning, but I'll tell you, I'm very, very glad how it turned out," Guarino said. "This is something you think about, something you dread."

Brown's bill-signing ranges from prisons to pornography

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed a series of bills on subjects ranging from mandatory prison sentences and child pornography to unemployment benefits for parolees and redlining.

During the first part of a ceremony Thursday, Brown signed a measure which prohibited all state-licensed financial institutions from redlining, refusing mortgage and home-improvement loans to otherwise credit-worthy persons simply because the home is in a poor neighborhood.

"We're not saying 'make a bad loan,' but we are saying 'give a loan to decent people no matter where they live,'" Brown said as he signed SB 7, sponsored by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City.

The bill, intended to encourage rehabilitation in inner-city areas, applies to both owner-occupants and landlords who purchase homes with the intention of making improvements.

Redlining, which got its name from the banking practice of marking redlines on maps around areas for which housing loans were denied, was outlawed in 1976 for state-licensed savings and loan associations.

Two of the law-and-order bills extend the practice of mandatory sentencing first introduced by Brown two years ago for persons convicted of crimes committed with a gun and heroin sellers.

SB 370 by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, requires a prison term for assault of an elderly, blind or handicapped person, and SB 518, by Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Castro Valley, applies to parolees who commit violent crimes while on parole.

SB 683, another bill introduced by Deukmejian, provides $1.5 million to set up special units in district attorney offices to fight "career criminals," those who make a livelihood of crime.

"We need a few prisons to house all the new clients," Brown commented wryly as he signed the three bills.

Parolees who have worked in prison industries or training programs will be eligible for unemployment benefits of up to $59 a week for up to 26 weeks under SB 224 by Sen. Peter Behr, R-Tiburon.

The child pornography bill, SB 817 by Sen. Robert Presley, D-Riverside, makes it a felony to use persons aged 16 or less in films, photographs or live performances of real or simulated sex acts.

Two bills, AB 1206 by Assemblyman Michael Gage, D-Napa, and SB 725 by Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, require criminals to assume the burden of compensating their victims.

SB 923 by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, outlaws threats to any individual of death or serious injury in order to achieve social or political goals. Previously only public officials had this protection.

Another bill, AB 38 by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, aims at reducing auto theft by barring manufacture of burglars' tools or master keys with intent to steal a motor vehicle.

A bill seeking to reduce delays in the courts, AB 513 by Ronald Cordova, D-El Toro, bars continuances unless good cause is shown.

State briefs

Hearst prosecutor to resign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The easygoing prosecutor who bested famed defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey in the trial that convicted heiress Patricia Hearst of bank robbery is expected to resign Friday as U.S. attorney after eight years in the post.

James Louis Browning Jr., 43, called a morning news conference in the federal building where the sensational trial held world attention last year. Miss Hearst drew a seven-year prison term which was appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals. No decision has been made yet.

During the trial, Browning conceded in an interview that his opponent from Boston was a "another good lawyer," but added: "...Unless you have the facts on your side; it doesn't mean much."

The facts, said the slim, mustached counselor, were on his side. The jury agreed.

Browning has been mentioned prominently as a candidate for the Republican nomination for California attorney general and has been awaiting the nomination of a replacement by President Jimmy Carter. Browning's current term expires next May 21, but U.S. attorneys serve at the pleasure of the President.

U.S. government sued

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The city attorney's office is suing the U.S. government to block the threatened cut off of $58.2 million in federal funds that could mean an end to 5,000 federally financed jobs by mid-November.

Attorneys for the San Diego Regional Employment and Training Consortium filed the suit Wednesday. U.S. District Court Judge Gordon Thompson has scheduled a hearing for 10:30 a.m.Monday.

The funds were for federal officials to finance jobs for the fiscal year beginning Saturday, under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

U.S. Department of Labor officials have refused to allocate the money to keep the jobs going, contending the consortium, the local agency that administers the funds, has violated federal rules.

Labor boss' trial resumes

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Testimony was scheduled to resume today in the trial of Louisiana labor boss Edward Grady Partin, accused of three counts of obstruction of justice in connection with an alleged threat against the life of a former Teamsters Union official.

Court records show prosecution witness Richard Baker, who testified Thursday, told conflicting stories to federal agents, attorneys and two federal grand juries about whether he overheard Partin threaten the life of a former Teamsters official William McClanahan.

Baker was to continue direct examination from the prosecution today.

New LNG locations sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has taken under submission petitions from the Southern California Gas Co. and the Sierra Club to consider a new location for its proposed facility to import liquefied natural gas.

A gas company spokeswoman said the company petitioned the FPC on Wednesday to consider a site at Point Conception, Calif., instead of the Oxnard, Calif., location previously proposed.

The Sierra Club has asked the FPC to reopen the case and consider the alternative of locating the LNG terminal offshore — isolating the LNG tankers and their hazardous cargo from any land areas.

Shuttle success challenged

LOMPOC (AP) — The space shuttle is doing nearly perfectly in its flight tests. But environmentalists are far from convinced that the craft is problem-free.

Critics claimed that a preliminary environmental impact report left unanswered such questions as whether the shuttle would cause unnatural rainstorms or would startle the endangered brown pelican on its nesting ground.

And members of the Chumash Indian tribe said burial sites located on land owned by the tribe which might be affected by construction of shuttle facilities, were another issue raised.

Paul Kelly, a member of the public, complained at the Wednesday night hearings that the impact statement dealt only slightly with the shuttle's effect on wildlife.

Signing of nuclear power bill doesn't change Brown's stand

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says his approval of a bill sought by backers of nuclear power doesn't mean he's changing a very cautious position on the subject.

The Democratic governor announced Thursday he signed AB 1852 by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, which sets a procedure that could lead to an act of the Legislature next spring to authorize construction of the Sundesert nuclear power plant.

San Diego Gas & Electric Co. wants to build the $2.3-billion plant near Blythe, but complains that the nuclear safety laws Brown signed in 1976 pose too much uncertainty.

The laws ban new nuclear power plant construction until the Legislature accepts state Energy Commission findings that methods exist to reprocess nuclear fuel and permanently store radioactive wastes.

Neither decision is possible as long as the Carter administration remains opposed to reprocessing because of the hazard that resultant plutonium could spread nuclear weapons.

Brown said in a telephone interview that his signing of the bill did not compromise his conviction that the state should minimize dependence on nuclear power.

"It requires the Energy Commission, in timely fashion, to make a recommendation to the Legislature," the governor said.

The bill requires the Energy Commission, which has been studying the Sundesert proposal for nearly 18 months, to report to the Legislature by Jan. 16 on whether the nuclear plant is needed to meet energy demands and no alternatives are feasible.

The Legislature would have 90 days to act on the recommendation.

"This is not an exemption. It calls on the Energy Commission to evaluate supply and demand, including conservation, with particular reference to Sundesert," Brown said.

"It doesn't prejudge the case. It sets a priority for the Energy Commission to supply the Legislature with the information it does not now possess."

Brown said it would be "premature" to say whether he would approve a bill from the Legislature granting Sundesert an exemption.

He said the estimates for electricity requirements in the future are so far apart that it is "certainly very appropriate for the Energy Commission to refine estimates to determine whether this nuclear plant is necessary for the economy and well-being of the state."

Brown said his administration is "making a decided effort to explore alternative energy sources and expand conservation." Through this effort, "it may be possible to substantially minimize" the number of nuclear power plants.

"The question is timing," he added, on whether a combination of other energy supplies, such as coal and geothermal, could be used in time to meet the need for Sundesert's electricity."

SDG&E plans to start generating electricity from the first of two 950-megawatt reactors in 1984.

Brown said that plutonium from reprocessing "is frought with risks and difficulties and to the extent that we can maintain a healthy economic climate, I would like to see the state minimize dependency on nuclear energy.

"We have the strong regulatory controls. We have a number of alternatives. Consistent with a sound economy, I support an energy path that is responsible" now and "for future generations."

The bill applies only to Sundesert.

MOOSE ON THE LOOSE

State Game Warden Vincent F. Caracciolo creeps up on a tranquilized 900-pound bull moose in Worcester, Mass., Thursday, and then, with rope in hand lassoes the beast. The animal, described as obviously confused and perhaps sick, was apprehended by roaming through a residential area of town after a chase of several blocks.

Another broker, $300,000 in gems missing

Diamond mystery: episode 2

CHICAGO (AP) — A broker is reported missing with up to $300,000 in gems from New York's diamond district where police are investigating the murder of another merchant and the disappearance of a fortune in diamonds.

Abraham Shafizadeh has been missing since since July 28, the day before he left for Puerto Rico on business, his relatives said, and they fear he may have been killed.

They say police have suggested that the disappearance is linked to organized crime.

The diamond broker's brother, Dr. Farokh Shafizadeh-Hakimi, told The Associated Press in an interview Thursday night that Shafizadeh may have been carrying diamonds worth between $250,000 and $300,000.

The Manhattan Missing Persons Bureau confirmed it was investigating the 31-year-old Shafizadeh's disappearance, but released no details.

New York police would not comment.

Hakimi and his wife, Dayla, who are Shafizadeh's only living relatives in the United States, have been to New York and San Juan in search of the missing man.

"Each day we have less hope," said Hakimi, an electrical engineer for Standard Oil in Chicago. "All I want is to find his body and give him a decent burial."

The couple said they thought the New York City police had not devoted enough attention to the case.

"He was over 18, single and, therefore, it was not illegal to leave home. He is just a missing person," they said New York police told them.

"They said he flew to Puerto Rico so it is the problem of police there," Hakimi said. But he said New York police never determined that Shafizadeh definitely was aboard an American Airlines flight to Puerto Rico for which he had a ticket.

The couple said they held off calling the disappearance to the attention of news media because in New York's diamond business, if "they (brokers) get publicity, that's the worst thing for them."

The body of 25-year-old Pinchos Jaroslawicz, a diamond broker who vanished last week with up to $1 million in gems, was discovered Wednesday in the Manhattan office of diamond cutter Shlomo Tal, who led police to it.

Tal, 31, told police he was present on the eve of Yom Kippur, when, he said, two gunmen beat Jaroslawicz unconscious and left him. Police quoted Tal as saying the robbers let him go but later called him at home and ordered him back to the Manhattan office "to tie the body in a plastic bag and hide it ..."

Five days later, Tal said, he was kidnaped by the same two gunmen. Police found Tal asleep in his car in the borough of Queens.

After a hearing Thursday, Tal was being held under $75,000 as a material witness to Jaroslawicz' murder.

A grand jury reportedly is investigating the murder.

Shafizadeh, like Jaroslawicz and many of the men working in the diamond industry in New York, is an Orthodox Jew.

The Hakimis said police in San Juan "told us that a Chicago man, a diamond dealer, and a New York woman diamond dealer were murdered there in the last year." They said Puerto Rican police "said the Mafia was actively involved."

The Hakimis said that they, his partner and three witnesses were allowed into Shafizadeh's safety deposit box at his diamond trade association, and that he reportedly left $150,000 to $200,000 in diamonds.

The partner could not be reached for comment Thursday night.

They said Shafizadeh had been living in the United States since 1968 and had been a diamond broker since 1974.

21 who died in Viet war on way home

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — In the glare and sweltering heat of Vietnam's afternoon sun American soldiers and sailors today lifted the remains of 21 American servicemen and a civilian into the belly of a military cargo plane that would take them home for the last time.

The servicemen had died during the Vietnam war that ended in April 1975 and their remains were being turned over to the United States after long negotiation by the Vietnamese Communists.

After the brief ceremony, Vu Hoang of the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said: "We have cooperated closely on these humanitarian matters. We need to settle the past perfectly, so we can have good and sound basis for establishing normal relations between the two countries."

Panel OKs 'workfare' program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee agreed today to require that the federal minimum wage be paid under state programs designed to force welfare recipients to earn their benefits.

In approving the "workfare" provision Thursday on an 8-3 vote, the committee had agreed to allow either the local prevailing wage or the state minimum wage, whichever is higher.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the panel, proposed today that the federal minimum wage be paid.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., objected, contending that state officials who operate the welfare job programs are not inhuman.

"Well, I don't like to be called inhuman myself," Long replied, and the committee approved his proposed change.

Report Treasury Dept. recommends tax cut

NEW YORK (AP) — The Treasury Department has recommended tax reform measures to President Carter which include a one-shot cut in personal income taxes next year, The New York Times reported today.

Quoting a confidential memorandum to Carter, The Times said the Treasury Department feels the tax cut should be implemented immediately because of fears of an economic slowdown in the latter half of 1978.

A Treasury Department spokesman declined to comment on The Times story, saying such memoranda are confidential.

The Times said Carter's overall strategy is to "sugar-coat" some tax reforms affecting business and the wealthy by calling for a cut in individual and corporate tax rates.

The tax proposal, according to The Times, will recommend varying tax cuts, depending on income bracket, for persons making less than $100,000. Persons making $100,000 to $200,000 would be taxed slightly more, and persons making more $200,000 would be hit with a 6 per cent increase.

Corporate tax rates on income of more than $50,000 would drop from 48 per cent to 46 per cent, The Times said.

The most controversial item Carter is considering, according to The Times, is a proposal to fully tax capital gains profits on land, securities and some other assets. Half of those profits are now generally tax exempt.

The tax proposals are expected to draw strong reactions from special interest groups. For example, restaurant, hotel and sports groups are expected to lobby vigorously against anticipated recommendations that only half the cost of business meals be deductible, and that no business entertainment expenses be deductible.

'Live' rocket found

A five-inch rocket shell found inside a lemon box at the Upland Lemon Growers Association, 392 E. A St. in Upland Thursday night is slated to be detonated by the Ontario Fire Department bomb squad.

Upland fire officials said the rocket was found in one of the lemon boxes by workers about 5:30 p.m. The workers called police and firemen to the scene. Upland firemen, suspecting the shell to be "live," called on the Ontario bomb squad to remove it. The Ontario bomb squad confirmed that the rocket shell was loaded with explosives and could have been detonated if dropped or struck with a hard object.

2 hurt in crash

Two persons were injured in the collision of two autos at Indian Hill Boulevard near the eastbound on-ramp of the San Bernardino Freeway Thursday afternoon.

One driver, Larae J. Zawodney, 28, of Ontario, was unhurt, but the other, Gloria J. Madison, 31, of Ontario, and her passenger, 16-year-old Richard S. Deem, required treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Nothing to hide, will disclose all—Graham

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Graham says his evangelistic association has nothing to hide, has done nothing illegal or immoral and will begin issuing annual reports disclosing how it spends up to $25 million in yearly contributions.

Graham, whose organization is headquartered in Minneapolis, told a news conference Thursday that the question of disclosure for religious organizations had not really come up until this year.

"And no churches or church-related organizations are required by law to do so," Graham said. "But the mood of the country is moving in that direction, and I think we will gladly conform to it."

The Graham organization recently has been criticized by the Better Business Bureau for failing to provide prospective contributors with information on how money is spent.

"At the proper time, we will be fully cooperative," Graham said at the news conference.

"My job is to do the spiritual, ministry," Graham added. "I give myself to preaching and writing."

He said the association's board and executive committee have handled financial details and the board will decide, at a weekend meeting, what to disclose. A Graham aide said an announcement is expected next week.

"When people give to our association, they trust that it's being handled properly and wisely and invested for the advancement of the Kingdom of God, which all of it is," Graham said.

Bethlehem cuts 2,500 more jobs

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. said today it will cut 2,500 salaried jobs to reflect the company's reduced production amid sagging profits and sluggish demand.

It was the second major cutback for the nation's second-largest producer in seven weeks, and came amid a general retrenchment which has cost over 18,000 steel industry jobs since July.

Bethlehem announced in August that it would eliminate 7,300 jobs at Lackawanna, N.Y. and Johnstown, Pa.

The new layoffs are to be corporatewide and include salaried positions eliminated at Johnstown and Lackawanna.

Man shot from passing auto

A young Pomona man was wounded in the shoulder and back Thursday night when he was struck by shotgun pellets fired from a passing car.

The victim, Levi D. Prendiz, 18, said he was walking at Grand and San Antonio avenues just before 6 p.m. when he was shot by an occupant of a slowly-passing auto.

Prendiz, who lives nearby, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Fight on to down B1 bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said today a strategy is in the works that could overturn House committee action forcing President Carter to build two more B1 strategic bombers.

But O'Neill said "it is going to be a tough fight" in the House.

The President told O'Neill in a letter Thursday, "I hope that you will personally help me to prevent a serious mistake."

Congress has approved Carter's decision to halt production of the proposed bomber, but the House Appropriations Committee this week rejected Carter's request not to build two already funded.

The committee then went further and tabled the request to prevent it from even being considered by the full House.

But O'Neill said a plan has been worked out for the Senate to tack the request to scrap the two planes onto a different bill and give the full House a chance to approve that.

Carter told the speaker in his letter that "unless the Congress acts soon, over $1.5 billion will be wasted on unneeded defense purchases."

Carter said the House committee action would "force the Defense Department to produce weapons systems that the Congress has agreed are no longer needed."

O'Neill said he understands a feeling developed in the committee that there is still hope some sort of bomber will be developed to replace the B52s now flying, so the B1 should be kept in the running.

Carter and Congress agreed to halt future B1 production but to continue research and development for the plane.

Upland market robbed by 3 men

Upland police are seeking three men, one armed with a large revolver, who robbed the Circle K Market at 460 S. Campus Ave. of a small amount of cash Thursday afternoon.

Police said the vehicle the robbers are believed to have used in the robbery had been located, but not the robbers. Police said the robbers entered the store at 2:30 p.m. One produced the revolver and demanded the money.

They were all described as blacks in their 20s. The driver was described as being 5 feet 11, 150 pounds. He had a large blue handkerchief covering his hair. The second man weighed about 180 pounds. No further description was given of the third robber.

Oswald threat before killing told

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald threatened to kill John F. Kennedy during a visit to the Cuban embassy in Mexico City two months before the president was assassinated, former CBS newsman Daniel Schorr says.

Embassy officials threw Oswald out because they thought the threat was a provocation, Schorr reports in the current issue of The New York Review of Books.

Schorr said the Warren Commission, which investigated the Nov. 22, 1963 assassination, was told of Oswald's threat but did not follow it up.

The commission, Schorr said, did not "press the CIA for information about Oswald's Cuban association, this despite the fact — or perhaps because of the fact — that one of its members was former CIA Director Allen Dulles.

"The Cuban ambassador in Mexico City had reported the incident to Havana," Schorr wrote. "It had not been taken seriously at the time, but after Kennedy's assassination, Castro had come to suspect that the effort to get Oswald into Cuba was part of a right-wing conspiracy.

"Oswald would return from Cuba, then assassinate the President, and it would look as though Castro had been responsible," Schorr said.

Schorr speculated that Oswald may, however, have been acting alone, and his desire to kill the President could have been triggered by publication of a Sept. 9, 1963, interview with The Associated Press in which Castro said U.S. leaders would be in danger if they attempted to eliminate Cuban leaders.

"The possibility that Oswald acted on his own, inspired by Castro's statement, cannot today be proved, but it has the elements of the fortuitous and the lunatic that sometimes govern history," Schorr wrote.

"The 'conspiracy,' then, would have been a conspiracy of interlocking events — the incessant CIA plots to kill Castro, touching off a Castro warning, touching off something in the fevered mind of Lee Harvey Oswald," the former reporter said.

$35 million awarded in building collapse

MIAMI (AP) — A circuit court jury has awarded a total of $35.5 million in punitive damages to 23 persons injured and the estates of eight killed when a federal government building collasped in 1974 in downtown Miami.

"Let your verdict ring out across the country like a bell of truth," attorney Duane Anderson told jurors. "You have got to tell engineers, builders and renovators of old buildings that when they work they do it knowing the lives of good Americans will be at stake."

The jury made the award Thursday as a result of the collapse of the Drug Enforcement Administration office.

The court ordered $31 million from National Properties Inc. and Ungar Building Inc., owners of the building; $2 million from Burns and McDonnel Engineering Inc., and $500,000 from Ray Prieto Jr., a structural engineer once employed by another codefendant, the Kunde, Driver, Spooner and Associates consulting firm, which was assessed $2 million.

The four and the City of Miami were found to be negligent by the same jury Wednesday after authorities testified that the defendants, their agents or employes had doubts about the structural soundness of the 50-year-old building as far back as 1971 but did nothing about it.

Although the City of Miami was found negligent, it cannot by law be assessed punitive damages. However, the 31 plaintiffs can seek compensatory damages from the city and attorneys said that "probably many will."

Circuit Judge Richard Fuller said it would probably be some time before the money is divided among the 31 plaintiffs, whose damage suits were consolidated into one. Fuller said the money would be held in trust until any compensatory damage suits are settled.

He said the money will be distributed by the plaintiffs committee, composed of four lawyers. They said a guide to distributing the money has not been established.

Life support ordered removed

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Dane County Judge Robert Pekowsky today ordered that life-support systems be removed from a brain-damaged teen-ager as requested by the youth's parents.

Lawyers for the Madison couple said doctors would remove the equipment later in the day from the 18-year-old and no further comment would be forthcoming from the family.

The parents, whose identities were not released, made the request after doctors at the University of Wisconsin Hospitals testified Thursday that the young man's brain showed no life signs.

Pekowsky issued a temporary injunction last week preventing removal of the equipment, but said he would consider the request today.

The patient suffered an apparent heart attack at a state mental institution. He was brought to the UW Hospitals' Trauma and Life Support Unit.

Hope for his recovery faded two days after he was admitted when his eyes became fixed and dilated, said Dr. Marvin Birnbaum, director of the unit. Tests failed to detect brain activity, he added.

Birnbaum said the patient's biological functions could be artifically maintained indefinitely.

"There is no question in my mind that there is no chance of recovery of this man's brain function," Birnbaum said.

Birnbaum and Dr. Manucher Javid, the hospital's chief neurosurgeon, said physicians must have the ultimate responsibility for determining whether an individual is dead or alive.

Javid said the Karen Ann Quinlan case differs from the Madison case.

What's going on around here

Guest speaker

Dr. Tony Sycip, a retired dentist from the Philippines, will be speaker Tuesday at 7 a.m. at the Pomona Christian Business Men's breakfast program at Sambo's Restaurant in Claremont.

Hang Ten

The "Hang Ten" program, co-sponsored by the West End YMCA and the Hang Ten shirt company, will begin Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. with an orientation meeting at the YMCA in Ontario.

The program provides such activities as a bowling league, bowling tournaments and ski trips for junior high students.

For more information, persons may phone the YMCA at 986-5847.

Macrame class

The La Verne Recreation Department will start a macrame class Thursday, Oct. 13.

Sessions will be from 7 to 9 p.m. The cost is $12 for a four-week session. It is open to persons, ages 16 and older.

Instruction will include creative knot tying, tying the basic knots, bead construction, belts, wall hangings, plant hangers and several crafts.

Registration and fees must be paid prior to the first class. Materials will be included for the first class. Registration may be made at the recreation office at 2039 Third St. The telephone number is 593-4571.

Hobby circle

The Hobby Circle, which meets each Monday and Tuesday from 10 to 10:30 a.m. at the Upland Public Library will present local artist Dorothy Palmer, Oct. 10 and 11.

The topic will be "Design By Accident," with a demonstration on making Christmas cards from marbled paper and a display of batik and oil painting.

Patchwork items from the Patchwork Corner will be featured Oct. 17 and 18.

"Trends in Fall Accessories" will be the topic Oct. 24 and 25, with a display from Mona's Dress Shops.

Hobby Circle is a free group open to the public. Persons interested in sharing their hobbies or wanting more information may contact Billie Thompson at the Upland library, 982-1561.

Children's story time for pre-schoolers will be held at the same time as Hobby Circle.

Film clips

"It Couldn't Be Done" will be shown at the Tuesday film program at the Claremont Public Library.

This film uses old film clips and interviews to document the completion of projects that some said "couldn't be done" — for example, the Panama Canal, Golden Gate Bridge, and Mt. Rushmore. The program starts at 2 p.m. and is free.

Youth programs

The West End YMCA will offer two programs this fall for children 6 through 13 years of age.

Sport fitness is designed to teach boys and girls the importance of exercise while doing it in a fun way. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

A Saturday Fun Club program for the same age group will meet from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. It will include crafts, gym games, gymnastics, movies, table games and songs.

For more information, persons may phone the YMCA at 986-5847.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — A brighter outlook for the economy and interest rates spurred investors to push stocks higher early Friday in active trading. But Bethlehem Steel's decision to lay off 2,500 salaried employes cooled investor enthusiasm.

Prior to Bethlehem's announcement, investors continued to hail the government's report of a better-than-expected 0.8 per cent jump in its August index of leading economic indicators.

Early buying also was sparked by the Federal Reserve Board's report late Thursday that the nation's basic money supply fell $1.1 billion in the latest week, easing pressures on interest rates.

Trendsetting Citibank left its prime lending rate at 7¼ per cent, when its commercialpaper-based formula called for 7½ per cent.

Against that background, the Dow Jones industrial average, ahead nearly five points at the outset, was ahead 2.52 points to 842.61 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched average, which fell to a 21-month low earlier this month, rose 5.37 points Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines, 797 to 326, among the 1,589 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 9,900,000 shares, compared with 9,330,000 traded during the same period Thursday.

Sony Corp. was the most active NYSE issue, up ⅛ to 8¼ following two block trades of 100,000 each at 8⅛. Boeing Corp. was second, off ⅛ to 25⅛ in trading that included a block of 140,000 shares at 25.

U.S. Steel was third, up ⅛ to 28. Bethlehem was ahead ⅛ to 19 in moderate trading.

American Medicorp, trading for the first time since Tuesday, was ahead 2⅜ in active turnover. Humana has filed a tender for up to 75 per cent of American's stock. American Medicorp directors, who are opposed to the deal, raised their firm's dividend payout to 12½ cents a share from 7½ cents. Humana stock was down ⅜.

Savin Business Machines, which plunged 6¼ points Thursday, was off another 4½ before trading was halted because of an influx of orders. The stock has been weak following published reports that its Japanese supplier of copiers may become a Savin competitor.

Prices were higher in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Hanover Shoe was ahead 2⅜ after a delayed opening. The company said it may sell its shares to an unidentified party for $18.50 a share.

Homework attitudes changing

Tenth in a series
By JOHN DOUGLAS

Attitudes toward homework are changing. Some secondary schools have experimented with abolishing it altogether, but found that the change did not have much effect on overall achievement. Some teachers have concluded from such experiences that homework really isn't necessary. But another explanation seems more logical: the homework previously given probably wan't appropriate. A student who works more learns more. The problem is to assign homework that will sustain interest, develop good study habits, and provide a student with experiences not available in the classroom.

We already know that many students are bored in school, but now the problem becomes critical. If a student has spent all day staring out the window or counting the number of times a teacher fumbles with pocket change, he will hardly be motivated to study in a more relaxed home atmosphere.

Too often, homework has been merely a stultifying repetition of dull class exercises. This busywork is hated by advanced students, unheeded by average students, and unhelpful to poor students. Homework should have certain clear objectives that set it apart from studying done at school. Teachers should guide students enough so they know exactly what is expected. Most of all, homework should encourage independent study, so a child learns how to discipline himself and how to pursue answers to problems on his own.

To see whether these goals are being met, talk with your child about homework. Ask particularly about how it compares to class work, keeping the following points in mind:

—How much time is the child expected to spend on homework? How closely does this correspond to the time actually spent? Generally recommended times range from only a few minutes each night in the early grades — mostly to establish the habit — to roughly two hours a night in senior high school.

—Is the student encouraged to learn on her own, or is the homework just a repetition of exercises already explained in class? Remember, the most important aspect of homework is to develop study habits and ability to accomplish independent work.

—Is the homework obviously too hard or too easy? Work that is too difficult only feeds the "anxiety cycle" and frustrates the student. Work that is too easy is useless from the start and only bores a student.

—Is homework tailored to a student's individual needs or is it the result of a class assignment? Assignments should be different for advanced as well as slower students. Fast learners should be encouraged to strike out on their own to study interesting related material. Slow learners should be given exercises aimed at helping them overcome specific difficulties.

—Does your child understand the difference between "copying" and "working together" on homework? Children learn well from each other, and properly conducted, studying together can be profitable. Simple copying is a waste of time.

—Is extra homework being assigned as punishment? This regrettable procedure only leads a student to identify study with pain and is grounds for an immediate complaint to the teacher.

Boy, 10, dies from wounds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 10-year-old boy has died from head wounds received when his older brother accidentally shot him, officials said.

Abel Vargas, of Los Angeles, died Monday at County-USC Medical Center. The shooting occurred when the boy's brother mistakenly fired the gun as he put it away, officials said.

Auxiliary lists award winners

Awards were presented and officers installed when the Foothill Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary met this week at Griswold's, Claremont.

Peter Schabarum, supervisor of the First District, presented awards issued by the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, to Jane E. Tessitor, FPH public relations coordinator, and to the hospital auxiliary in appreciation for outstanding volunteer services during the flu clinics at the hospital last fall.

Recognition was also given to auxilians for service hours earned and special spotlight awards went to other deserving volunteers, according to Mrs. William T. Daly, outgoing president.

New officers installed are Mmes. Stephen Foley, president; Eugene Blackwood, president-elect; Alfred Ohrmund, first vice president; Alfred Hays, second vice president; John Kistler, third vice president; George Dawald, fourth vice president; John Boewe, recording secretary; and Karl Hoff, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Tom Robertson was installing officer.

HEIH sets Monday meeting

The Pomona Valley Home Economists in Homemaking (HEIH) will meet on Monday at the home of Lynn Sampson, 5319 Mountain Springs Ranch Road, La Verne, at 7:30 p.m.

This year, HEIH will meet the first week of each month on different nights of the week so that members having duties on a definite night may be able to attend most of the meetings.

The October meeting will offer ideas for Christmas gifts to make, and prepare for the sale at the Claremont Village Venture 4 on Oct. 15, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. which is sponsored by the Claremont Civic Association. The funds from the sale will be a major contribution to the scholarship fund. This year a scholarship was given to Julie Thompson, a senior at Cal Poly Pomona.

All graduates in home economics are invited to become members of the group. For further information, call Dorothy Karlson, 624-5148 or Bea Kelleher, days, (213) 339-3707.

Square dance scheduled tonight

The Calico Rompers Square Dance Club has scheduled a "Pom Pon" dance this evening from 8 to 11 at Serrano Junior High School, 4725 San Jose Ave., Montclair. Ross Quast will be guest caller.

The round of the month will be taught between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

Joyce Brothers

Care of baby?

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My 17-year-old daughter is pregnant and too far along to even consider abortion. She's very immature and her boyfriend refuses to marry her. We've discussed this problem so often, we're all sick from worry. She says she won't give up the baby under any circumstances. She says she's always wanted something that belongs just to her. She doesn't want to share it with anyone, even with the father. I'm taking her to see our priest hoping he can convince her. I can't take care of the baby and I know it will come to this after the novelty wears off. What can I do? — W.W.

Dear W.W.: Try to talk with your priest beforehand and tell him all the problems.

I agree, this is a serious and potentially tragic matter. If you can reach your daughter at all, try to get her to act out of love for the child, rather than from her own selfish needs. Remind her that having this child will restrict her social life, that when she wants to date boys or relax during the days or the evenings, the needs of her infant will demand her attention. Her friends will soon realize the restrictions on her life and will probably stop extending invitations.

She will have no chance to continue her education or even pursue hobbies or talents until the baby is 4 or 5. Even then, she will have to think of the child first.

Unfortunately, psychological studies suggest that among unwed mothers, it is the most unstable who keep their babies. Often, they are lonely and expect their infants to give them a love they're incapable of giving. Remind your daughter that babies need to receive love. Even a puppy is more capable of giving the love your daughter is looking for. It is the mother who gives. The child only receives — at least for the first few years.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I feel very sorry for my older brother, but I can't seem to help him in his problems with women. He's been taken by cold-hearted, ruthless women more times than I can say and yet he never learns. I can't understand how men can be such innocents when it comes to love. They seem to have endless faith and trust when they think they're in love. Because of his gullibility, my brother's always hurt. What can I do for him? — H.M.

Dear H.M.: I'm afraid there isn't much you can do, other than to encourage him to try to analyze why he's attracted to this particular kind of woman. If he's constantly rejected, and it's not anything that he's doing, then I suspect he's unconsciously drawn to women who are hostile to men. He would probably find professional therapy beneficial.

It is true that men are usually much more trusting than women in matters of the heart. A survey disclosed that almost 50 percent of the women questioned thought men would not remain faithful to their wives, while only 28 percent of the men expressed doubts about women's fidelity.

There are some people who simply can't love. They can accept, but they're unable to give, usually because of some deep emotional block. However, if your brother is consistently drawn to this kind of woman, then something's definitely wrong.

It's possible that you are getting only one side of the story. Your brother may make demands that are unfair or that no woman could meet. Usually, when there are problems in relationships, both parties involved bear some responsibility.

On campus

The Department of Business Administration at AZUSA PACIFIC COLLEGE is sponsoring a College Day for junior college students on Saturday to begin at 9 a.m.

The purpose is to introduce junior college business students planning to continue their education in business with Azusa Pacific's business administration and accounting program.

Students will be provided information regarding courses and degrees offered, financial aid available, and a tour of the campus. In addition, they will be the guests of the college at a luncheon featuring a person in business. Students may also meet each individual business administration faculty member to discuss their future careers. The activities will conclude at 1 p.m.

For more information, persons may call the Department of Business Administration, (213) 969-3434, ext. 139 or 189.

The assorted shapes and colors of gas nebulae from exploded stars will be presented in the Daniel B. Milliken Planetarium at CHAFFEY COLLEGE on Tuesday and on Oct. 11.

Explained with a slide presentation at 7:15 p.m. will be how astronomers measure time and distance by the character of these light sources.

The luminous clouds range in configuration from rings to streamers; their individual colors run the gamut of the rainbow.

There will be no admission charge. Seating will be on a first-come basis. The planetarium seating capacity is 78.

As a community service, CHAFFEY COLLEGE has arranged for a mobile unit of the Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside counties to be on campus from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Thursday.

The unit will be set up at the staff lounge to accept blood donations from residents of the college district, the Chaffey staff and students.

A blood bank representative reported the two-county facility disbursed 314 pints of blood to area hospitals during the Labor Day weekend.

Some 400 parents, alumni and friends of CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE are expected on campus Saturday at the annual Parents Day, combined this year with Alumni Homecoming. Day-long activities are scheduled.

After a 9:30 a.m. registration and coffee reception in Bauer Common Room, Dr. John R. Snortum will present a film and speak on "Cops and College Students: The Police Department as a Public Affairs Laboratory."

Also during the assembly will be reports on the Mothers Club activities by new president, Mrs. Thomas W. Kunkel of Long Beach, and a report on the students by senior Samuel Kagan, student body president.

Coach John Zinda will offer a pre-game "Chalk Talk," explaining certain new tactics the Stags will perform later at 1:30 p.m. during their first home football game of the season. Their opponents will be Cal Lutheran.

Conquistadors

The Spanish Conquistadors had set up colonies in Cuba and Mexico by the 1520s. They founded the first permanent settlements west of the Mississippi, beginning with Santa Fe in 1610.

ROBERT MITTELSTADT

Poly names new design chairman

Robert Mittelstadt of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pomona has accepted the chairmanship of the Cal Poly Pomona school of environmental design department of architecture.

He leads his own architectural firm in San Francisco and has been associate professor and director of the Stanford University program in architecture since 1973.

Mittelstadt believes teaching architecture must be more than technical and professional training.

His educational ideal would be a six-year block, or a triad, of courses — two years in the liberal arts, two years of design, theory and technical courses and two years of highly professional graduate-level work.

He is a registered architect in New York, California and Washington. And in additon to Stanford, he has taught at UC Berkeley. His commissions include private residences, city halls, municipal buildings, apartments and townhouses, banks and stores.

His awards include first prize for the Fremont Civic-Cultural Center Architectural Competition; the Prix de Rome Fellowship, American Academy in Rome; and Fulbright Fellowship to the University of Rome.

Supervisory techniques to be taught

Men and women preparing for or are in a supervisory position in business or industry may develop the techniques of effective organizational and personnel management this semester at Mt. San Antonio College.

The college is offering "Elements of Supervision" at Valley Light Industries, Inc., 822 N. Grand Ave., Covina.

Registration will continue to Tuesday with students enrolling in the classroom.

The class is open to persons who would like to gain a broader understanding of basic human attitudes and methods of meeting administrative and labor relations problems.

There are no prerequisites for the three-unit course. Regular meetings will be held each Tuesday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through Jan. 24.

Further information may be obtained by calling the MSAC office of Continuing Education, at 598-2811, ext. 321.

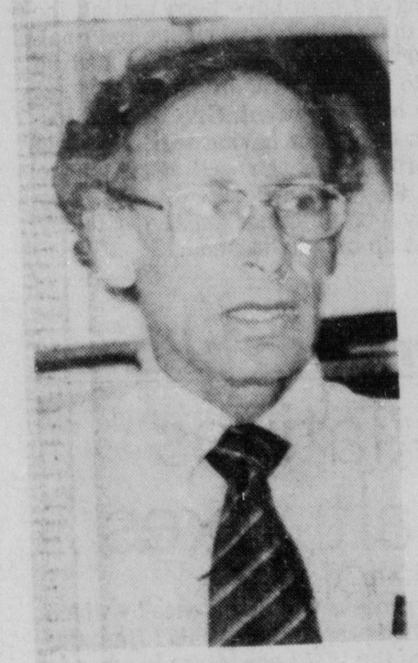
Former valley physician defends UC policy

Discusses the need for more family practice physicians



DR. SMILKSTEIN

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

"Because we played the game honestly, we got into trouble," said a former valley physician who served on a task force and admissions committee at UC Davis School of Medicine.

"We were not attempting to set a specific number of minority students so much as we were attempting to select students who would return to their own communities as family practice physicians," said Dr. Gabriel Smilkstein, who practiced in Claremont and Pomona for many years.

The university's medical school has been charged with "reverse discrimination" in the courts by two white students who were denied admission because of a "minority quota system."

The Supreme Court will begin hearings on an appeal of the first case, arising when a man was denied admission in 1973 and won his case in the state courts. In the second case, a young woman sued and won the right to be admitted this fall.

Dr. Smilkstein joined the medical school faculty at UC Davis in 1973 and has now become a member of the faculty at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

The physician, who served on the task force on discrimination at the Davis campus, recently spoke to the medical staff at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He discussed the need for more family practice physicians and how some medical schools are attempting to fill the void.

"There are pockets of the country which are medically underserved," said Dr. Smilkstein. "These are in rural areas and where the people are from minority groups or disadvantaged.

"The UC Davis program is designed to allow students from these minority areas to attend the medical school because we've learned that, in most cases, students will return to the area they came from to practice medicine."

Dr. Smilkstein said the school was not seeking minority students who were from advantaged families or with top-ranking preparatory school backgrounds.

He added that being from a minority group was just one of the criteria considered. More important was the commitment of the student to serve as family practice physicians in areas where doctors are vitally needed.

Dr. Smilkstein said at Davis, the stress on family practice physicians is further encouraged by providing medical students with an opportunity to practice in poorer areas of Sacramento.

"Family practice is a discipline which is still trying to find itself," continued the doctor. "But it is starting to make a distinct contribution to medicine."

Since World War II, most doctors have received their education in university hospitals where the patients they see represent only 1 percent of the ill population.

"When these doctors enter family practice, they see a different type of patient with different symptoms or types of illnesses.

"Some medical schools are incorporating new concepts of training which stress less formal lecturing and more problem-solving by students," Dr. Smilkstein reported.

The medical school instructor said that family practice doctors are now being taught to learn to recognize the family in crisis.

"Many physical problems are directly correlated to events within the family — life events," added Dr. Smilkstein. If the family is basically functioning well, a crisis can be faced and solved. If the family is already functioning poorly, a crisis — even a minor one — can be devastating."

He named five components which a physician could use to score a family.

These are the ability of a family to adapt to a situation and adjust; the sharing of decision-making and encouraging responsibility; growth and self-sulfillment; affection among members; and a commitment to sharing time, space and resources with family.

"The doctor needs to know where the patient is coming from," he added.

Dr. Smilkstein said that the need for family physicians is critical both in the United States and in Southeast Asia where he recently visited medical schools.

At least the Smilkstein family is helping to solve the shortage of doctors. Two sons are now attending UC Davis School of Medicine.

Who owns the sun?

With the tremendous degree of promotion being given to the use of solar energy in Southern California of late, the question simply had to come up soon: Who owns the sunlight?

Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn contends there is no point in installing solar equipment if those who use it cannot be guaranteed a right to sunshine.

Accordingly, he asked County Counsel John Larson for a legal opinion on how homeowners can protect their share of the sun.

For the most part, it will take county ordinances to restrict interference with it, according to Deputy County Counsel Melissa Taubman.

This means the county would have to limit the height of a tree a neighbor can grow and the size of a building a builder can put up.

Or, if the sun lover prefers, he can buy an easement from his neighbor that guarantees him more sun.

Ideal weekend weather expected

If the weather has anything to do with it, fair attendance will set a record this weekend.

The sun is expected to burn away early morning clouds long before noon, and the weatherman predicts temperatures in the upper 70s in the afternoons through Sunday.

MSAC instructor's twin brother one of hijack victims

The twin brother of a Mt. San Antonio College swimming instructor was among the eight Americans and 159 passengers aboard a Japan Air Lines DC8 hijacked earlier this week by Japanese terrorists and at last report still on the ground in Dacca, Bangladesh with 151 passengers still held hostage.

Kurt Krueger, whose brother Ken teaches at MSAC and in the Charter Oak Unified School District, was released about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday by the terrorists who vowed to still carry out their threats to murder the remaining passengers if their demands for the release of nine political prisoners and some $6 million.

Krueger's brother said Thursday he had a couple of conversations with representatives of the U.S. State Department in Washington D.C. informing him that his brother was all right, had been examined by a physician and was being housed in the American embassy in Bangladesh.

Krueger said his brother is a former Junior College All American swimmer and swimmer at the University of Colorado. He said Krueger was formerly a teacher of history and yoga in the Los Angeles City Schools and had gone to India about a year and a half ago to teach and continue his study of yoga.

"Aside from conversations with State Department workers in Washington D.C., I've had no personal word from my brother," said Krueger.

OUT OF REACH

This tiny visitor to the Los Angeles County Fair is kept amused by a balloon attached to the stroller. The fair, expected to receive its millionth visitor Saturday, will close on Sunday.

Crowing contest set today

With the Los Angeles County Fair scheduling its first national cock crowing contest today at 6:30, it might be appropriate for fair officials to crow this weekend if the world's largest county fair tops its all-time attendance record.

Fair attendance through Thursday totaled 929,426, with 44,991 going through the gates Thursday. The 1976 fair attendance figure for the same number of days was 819,115.

Fair officials hope to welcome the 1 millionth visitor to the 1977 fair sometime Saturday morning.

The all-time record for the fair is 1,268,446, set in 1972.

To top that record, 339,021 people would have to visit the fair today, Saturday and Sunday.

Mental health center slated for La Puente area

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A regional mental health center that would serve parts of the valley and have a first-year budget of nearly $2 million is scheduled to be established this fall in the La Puente area.

Funds for the project will come from state and federal mental health allocations.

The proposal will be submitted Tuesday to Los Angeles County supervisors. But since the project will not cost the county any money, approval is expected.

Jess Ramirez, deputy regional director for the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Department, said the proposal is so new the project is still looking for a home.

Under the proposal, the county would be willing to spend $150,000 a year for quotas in the vicinity of 20,000 to 28,000 square feet of floor space in the La Puente-Industry area, he added.

Ramirez reported the county could guarantee an eight-year lease since the program is to be funded for that long.

First preference would be given to a builder willing to construct such a building to the county's specifications. But lacking that, the county would be willing to view other suitable alternatives.

The center's target area will extend from Bassett and Azusa east to La Puente, Rowland Heights, Valinda, Walnut and sections of Diamond Bar. This has a population of about 200,000 persons.

The area, particularly in La Puente, Bassett and Rowland Heights, has been identified as a "severely poor" section of the state.

In fact, said Ramirez, the La Puente catchment area ranks seventh in priority of 152 impoverished areas in California.

About one-half the area's population is under 18 years of age, nearly one-third have Spanish surnames, about one-quarter are poor as defined by county standards, and one-third live in overcrowded housing.

According to the report, the community has expressed concerns over such problems as poverty, blighted neighborhoods, deteriorating housing and poor sanitation.

Ramirez said child abuse, neglect, wife beating and rapes are common complaints. Gang rapes and gang fights are reportedly common, unemployment is high, and suicides are more frequent than in the county as a whole, he added.

The project's purpose will be twofold: to reduce hospital care in other county facilities by early treatment of potential patients; and provide alternatives to inpatient services such as guidance, psychological area, effective anti-drug and alcohol programs, and rehabilitation.

Morrison E. Chamberlin, acting director of the county's health services, said the county would save money by accepting the proposal by diverting some of its patients from other facilities. This would cut back on workers.

At present, there is an existing health center in La Puente with a staff of seven.

The new proposal calls for a staff of 91 and a budget of $1,970,000. By the eighth year, the budget will increase to $3.5 million.

At the end of the eighth-year period, county supervisors will have the option of continuing the program with county funds or dropping it.

The project's fiscal year began last July 1, but delays have pushed the opening to possibly November or December, said Ramirez.

Since the first year's operation is cut in half, he hopes what funds are left over this fiscal year can be carried over to the next year.

Water proposal endorsed by former state official

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A controversial $26 million bond proposal designed to bring Northern California water to the valley was endorsed Thursday by a former state water official.

Despite opposition to his comments from the Claremont League of Women Voters, William R. Gianelli, a former director of the state Department of Water Resources, gave the bond issue a ringing endorsement.

The Pomona Valley Municipal Water District proposal, which will be on the Nov. 8 ballot, has been strongly opposed by the league. Officials of the group claim it is uncertain whether Northern California water would be available due to the drought and to future supply and energy problems.

The league also states the bonds are an "extravagant proposal" that would place another burden on the "already overburdened property tax."

Gianelli was attacked by the league in a press release issued after his speech as a "paid consultant" hired by the PVMWD to "make their outdated project sound reasonable."

While Gianelli noted he was paid $2,000 to prepare a seven-page report for the water district, he said, "I'm not about to prostitute myself for $2,000."

Now a consulting civil engineer, Gianelli said he would be glad to debate his facts with other engineers.

Gianelli, who presented his report Thursday to the water district at a luncheon meeting at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona, emphasized the proposed PVMWD projects were "logical" approaches.

He endorsed both the Northern and Southern California water projects proposed by PVMWD if the bond issue passes. "What the PVMWD is proposing makes a lot of sense," he stated.

In answer to a question, Gianelli said the proposed general obligation bond approach is the "best way to go" because taxes are used to make the payments. Revenue bonds are more uncertain as they are based only on the sale of water, he noted.

Gianelli disputed a claim by league members — who asked him various questions following his report — that Northern California water would not be available. "I feel it will be available," he said, although adding that state legislation is needed to increase present supplies.

Gianelli's seven-page report answered various questions posed by the water district relative to its proposed projects, with most questions centered on Northern California water.

He said it was a wise planning assumption by PVMWD that present water supplies coming from the Colorado River will have to be reduced upon completion of the Central Arizona Project, which will divert more river water to Arizona.

When this occurs, the PVMWD will become much more dependent on water from Northern California, said Gianelli.

He noted the district's statement "seems reasonable" that Northern California water will be available in future years, as contracted for with the state.

While pumping costs of Northern California water will increase markedly in future years, those costs would not be prohibitive for Southern California, Gianelli said.

The former state water official who served in the Reagan administration agreed with a PVMWD preference for pure Northern water compared to poorer quality Colorado River water. Hard water from the river creates problems for consumers, he added, including increased household operating costs.

In answer to another PVMWD question, Gianelli agreed with the district's phased approach to solving water problems in the valley. He endorsed the Northern California Miramar Plant project and the Tonner Canyon plan for Southern California.

Although the district has various alternatives for solving its water problems locally, Gianelli indicated the phased approach was a "logical first step."

The water project, if approved by voters, would involve construction of new treatment, storage and transmission facilities, plus the purchase of land in Tonner Canyon.

A larger — but similar — $35 million water bond proposal by the PVMWD was turned down by voters in 1975.

More flexibility is necessary

The current classroom shortage in the Pomona Unified School District is typical of what is happening in public education.

The Pomona school board and other boards of education throughout California are not calling the shots any more because they have signed contracts with teacher groups giving the teachers union the upper hand in many school district decisions. Therefore, the public no longer controls the schools it supports.

For instance, the Pomona school board signed a contract with the Associated Pomona Teachers last year which, among other things, established maximum class sizes. Pomona was one of the few school districts in the state to establish maximum class sizes.

Consequently, it was not totally unexpected that there would be a shortage of classroom space in some schools when classes resumed this fall.

The situation is not totally intolerable, however, and before the end of the calendar year there will be 31 new portable classrooms, now under construction, ready for occupancy.

Older hands in the school district can recall when in days of tremendous growth some years ago classroom space was at a premium and double sessions were not unusual. The current situation has not come to that, however, and is not likely to.

While the district is waiting for the new classrooms to be finished, there is no necessity for recriminations on the part of either the school district or the teachers union.

What is needed in the future is less rigidity in limiting class sizes so that when a student bulge occurs larger classes can be arranged temporarily so as to avoid such classroom inconveniences as are currently being experienced.

It hurts but it works

A lot of criticisms can be levelled against our crazy-quilt income tax system; but the claim that the burden falls disproportionately on lower-income people while the rich escape almost entirely simply doesn't stand up to inspection.

Total personal income taxes collected by the federal government came to $125 billion in 1975. Computations by the Tax Foundation, based on the Treasury Department's latest "statistics of income" report, show that 72 per cent of that total was accounted for by only 25 per cent of all taxpayers — those earning $15,898 or more.

The top 10 per cent of taxpayers—those with Adjusted Gross Incomes of $23,420 or more — picked up the tab for nearly half the total personal income tax bill; and 5 per cent of the taxpayers — those with AGI of $29,272 or more — paid more than one-third of the total.

At the extreme top, 1,149 taxpayers who reported incomes of $1 million or more in 1975 paid an average tax of $1,011,317, says the Treasury, or a total of $1.5 billion.

By contrast, the bottom 50 per cent of taxpayers — those earning $8,930 or less — accounted for only 7 per cent of total personal income tax collections, and the lowest 25 per cent — those with AGI of $4,044 or less — paid less than 1 per cent.

Also significant is the fact that the relative share of the income-tax burden on upper-income taxpayers has been increasing while the share paid by lower-income taxpayers has been shrinking. In fact, several million taxpayers disappeared from the tax rolls altogether between 1970 and 1975 because of changes in the law benefitting those with lower incomes.

The federal income tax is called a progressive tax, meaning that the more you earn the more you are supposed to pay. All in all, it seems to be working the way it was designed to work.

Honor where due

In a speech in New Delhi the other day, Indira Gandhi, the former and repudiated prime minister of India, sharply criticized the new People's party government for "lack of vision and direction" and dared it to arrest her.

Unlike in other countries, she pointed out, "going to jail in India is an honor."

Mrs. Gandhi ought to know. She "honored" thousands of her countrymen during the last few years of her 11-year-rule, when she turned dictator.

We hope, however, that reports from India that the government is looking for an excuse to arrest Mrs. Gandhi are unfounded. Otherwise, it would be embarking on the same fateful course she did when she threw the first dissenter behind bars to keep him quiet.

The tax-free college myth

Dear Editor:

The other day I recognized a familiar ogre that I hoped had faded away. A letter to the editor said the "tax-exempt status of seven colleges including all the undeveloped land they own . . . causes the rest of us to carry the would-be taxation on their properties as well as our own."

I can tell you about six colleges — The Claremont Colleges — and taxes. They paid property taxes of $442,825 in the 1976-77 fiscal year, and $351,102 of that was in Los Angeles County.

The myth of "the tax-free college clique" arises from the long-standing American practice of exempting from property taxes certain institutions that are making special contributions to society. Colleges are among them, but the tax exemption applies only to those portions of their properties that are actually used for educational purposes. They pay full tax on everything else they own, and it mounts up, as you can see.

There are a couple of other considerations. One is the money spent in the area by students, faculty and staff which generates considerable revenues for the city as well as profits for its businesses. In 1976, for instance, the colleges paid wages and fringe benefits totaling $21,780,000. Another consideration is what the tax consequences would be if houses instead of colleges covered these campuses. The cost of required services notoriously outweighs taxes derived from typical residences. I'll resist the urge to talk about cultural assets.

Certainly a broad tax base is a financial boon for any city, and industry can make significant contributions. So do The Claremont Colleges.

Remark misinterpreted

Dear Editor:

In regards to the article, "City ordinance limiting play opposed by backer of three games a week," in the Tuesday, Sept. 20, edition of the newspaper, apparently my explanation of the reasons for allowing bingo playing in the city were misinterpreted. I stated that the original intent was to quote "keep little old ladies off the streets," and that it was getting out of hand.

This quotation was used by the original backers of the groups asking for bingo to be allowed. At that time, I was and am still personally in favor of bingo being allowed for church and non-profit organizations on a one-night-a-week basis, and expressed my own displeasure at the "sweet little old ladies statement" to some of the people that expressed it.

I would like to apologize to anyone that was offended by this statement. I do not in any way wish to offend anyone.

More on Somoza

WASHINGTON — Of all the dictators Uncle Sam has embraced, he has hugged no one more tightly to his bosom than Nicaragua's Anastasio Somoza. The United States has showered blessings upon him to ensure, presumably, that Nicaragua's military might well remain safely on the U.S. side.

Somoza has one of the world's most decorated chests, adorned with medals he and his family have bestowed upon him. We are now presenting him with a new award to add to his collection.

We have decided after a five-month investigation of his qualifications to give Somoza our Idi Amin award. For Somoza, like the madcap Ugandan strongman, is a gluttonous caricature of a dictator.

Somoza has stuffed his bank accounts with money and his belly with food and booze. Much of the money has come, at least indirectly, from the U.S. taxpayers. The dictator has developed dozens of ways to divert economic aid, intended for his impoverished people, into his own pockets.

The Pentagon heavily subsidizes his small military force. And the Central Intelligence Agency left behind in Nicaragua about $1 million worth of arms from the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion, which had been launched against Cuba from Somoza's shores.

The dictator uses his national guard, which he maintains largely at U.S. expense, to protect himself and to control his people. He is obsessed with the fear that he, like his dictator father, will be bumped off.

His urban ranch, El Retiro, is barricaded and patrolled by guards. Several tanks stand by to repel any invading force. When he goes out for dinner, his own mess steward prepares his food beforehand and totes it along in insulated containers.

Somoza also employs a decoy, as beer-bellied as himself, to lead astray any assassins who might be laying for him. A few minutes before Somoza departs, the decoy climbs into an armored limousine just like the dictator's and takes off in the wrong direction.

Any area Somoza visits is literally placed under military siege several hours before his arrival. Two or three acres may be cleared of traffic to make room for the potentate and all entrances or exits are manned by guards.

Then Big Daddy's caravan arrives. He is accompanied by 30 or 40 aides, including the general in charge of national security and several fierce colonels. One of them, Col. Victorino Lara, always armed with a .44-calibre pistol and a ferocious frown, is the epitome of a dictator's lackey.

Arrayed around the presidential party in concentric circles are some 200 bodyguards, armed with Belgian automatics. An outer ring is under military command. The second ring, carrying knives in addition to guns, is under the command of the intelligence service.

An inner ring of five or six hand-picked goons, many of whom were hardened criminals, completely surround and shield Somoza. When he moves, they all move en masse. Watching them shuffle along, said one witness, "is a ludicrous sight."

Somoza's personal goons accompany him wherever he goes. At fancy functions, they try to remain inconspicuous and pass themselves off as guests. But they are so unkempt and so patently predictable that they are rarely successful.

In Washington

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

DETROIT (NEA) — Forced to abandon a clumsily managed effort to thwart opposition to President Carter in the 1980 Democratic primary elections, White House aides have devised a face-saving substitute of equally dubious value.

The stage for that still-unfolding political drama is the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Presidential Nomination and Party Structure, mandated to refine and recommend reforms or modifications of party rules.

The leading actors are the key Carter agents among the commission's 58 members: Richard O. (Rick) Hutcheson III and Mark A. Siegel, both members of the White House staff, and Patrick H. Caddell, the President's political pollster.

Current party rules, designed to guarantee the broadest representation of grass-roots voter sentiment, require that any presidential contender who receives at least 15 per cent of the votes in a state's primary or caucus must be given a proportional share of that state's delegates to the national convention.

When the commission met in Washington during the second week in August, Hutcheson proposed raising that threshold from 15 to 25 per cent, arguing that such a "consensus-building" mechanism was needed to establish a broad base of support around the leading candidate or candidates.

But that proposed change, first disclosed in this column, also would mean that any challenger to Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination would have to capture 25 per cent of a state's primary or caucus vote before qualifying for a single delegate vote from that state at the national convention.

Carter loyalists clearly control a majority of the commission, but by the time the panel convened here in the second week of September the President's operatives apparently decided that continued pressure to adopt the scheme would be too costly in terms of perpetuating the adverse publicity and political hostility the plan generated in recent weeks.

On the other hand, one of the unwritten rules of politics is that the White House, presumed to be a reservoir of unlimited political clout, must never display weakness by surrendering or allowing itself to be defeated in an intra-party fight.

Emerging from total obscurity to resolve that dilemma was Sarah Shuptrine, a commission member and Carter supporter from Columbia, S.C. who offered the meeting here a two-element compromise plan:

First, all caucuses and primaries would be confined by new party rules to a three-month period, from the second Tuesday in March to the second Tuesday in June.

Second, the threshold-level would gradually increase, from 15 per cent in the first month, to 20 per cent in the second month and 25 per cent in the third month.

Shuptrine claimed sole authorship of the compromise, but that's difficult to accept in light of her role as a commission wallflower who played virtually no role in earlier proceedings.

Siegel, in a more logical explanation, acknowledged that he was heavily involved in drafting the plan. But he disingenuously claimed to have been inspired by a speech Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., made to the commission.

Caddell, in the most believable version of all, acknowledged that he and Siegel discussed the compromise plan in a telephone conversation several days before the commission convened in Detroit.

If the compromise is eventually incorporated in the party rules, it could influence state legislatures to arbitrarily set primary dates based on the threshold percentages they prefer, thus upsetting the current precarious balance in the timing of primary elections.

The more likely prospect, however, is that the plan will quietly disappear from sight in the coming months — after serving its primary purpose of providing a smoke screen for the Carter forces while they beat a hasty retreat from the ill-conceived power-grab they tried to foist off on the Democratic party.

Just in jest

For all too long we men have been getting the short end on this thing called equal rights. But finally it appears our lawmakers have summoned up enough courage to rule that equality of the sexes is not necessarily a one-way street. Give our California assemblymen credit for having legislated this amazing breakthrough. Though well aware of the female reprisals they will undoubtedly face, they have voted approval of a bill that makes it a felony for a wife to beat up on her husband.

Initiatives to halt taxes

By EARL G. WATERS

Is the initiative process the only means by which homeowners will find property tax relief? Remarking on the failure of the 1977 Legislature to come to grips with the problem, Assembly Republican leader Paul Priolo observed the solution to be beyond the capacity of the Legislature.

Undoubtedly in anticipation of such a failure on the part of the lawmakers, two separate groups had already commenced circulation of petitions to place the property tax issue on the ballot.

One, sponsored by Wiley Davis of El Cajon, freezes assessments on homes at the value in effect at the time of passage of the measure and reduces tax rates 50 percent over a two-year period following its adoption. It also would exempt all homes of senior citizens which are valued at $40,000 or less. A further provision grants renters a maximum of $75-a-year credit on income taxes.

The second proposition, sponsored by Howard Jarvis of Los Angeles and Paul Gann of Carmichael, is even more direct. It freezes assessed values at the 1975-76 levels and limits ad valorem taxes to 1 percent. It would permit an increase of the tax rate of up to 2 percent a year to meet inflation. It would also restrict local government from imposing other taxes without a two-thirds approval of the electorate.

Both measures provide for changes in valuation for new construction or when property is sold.

The beauty of both propositions is their simplicity. Neither exceeds 500 words. One is barely more than 200 words. The voters will have no trouble understanding them.

The attorney general's staff has estimated the loss of property tax revenues to local government under either measure as ranging from $4.5 billion to $8 billion annually. Whether the proponents agree with those figures or not, they seem to be content to let the Legislature wrestle with the problems of making up the losses from other sources.

What the proponents are offering is a chance for the homeowners to call a halt to oppressive property taxes and, in effect, tell the state and local governments to either cut back on costs or find other chickens to pluck.

Since both measures are constitutional amendments, the sponsors must secure 499,846 qualified signatures no later than Dec. 2. If either or both are successful the initiatives would go on the June ballot. If both are on the ballot and both are approved, the one with the most votes would prevail.

The question at the moment is whether the failure of the Legislature to act on the tax issue will spur the success of signature gathering. No doubt Gov. Jerry Brown had such thoughts in his mind when he indicated he might call the Legislature back before its scheduled return in January.

However, even if he did, is there any prospect that the lawmakers can find the agreement in a few short weeks that eluded them for nearly eight months before recess? And, if the lawmakers do come up with something in special session or early next year, will it be enough to satisfy the homeowners and forestall passage of the initiative proposals?

It would seem the best way to head off the initiatives would be for the Legislature to adopt something close to that proposed by the citizens' propositions. That would be a simple, concise measure dealing solely with property tax relief for homeowners, leaving the multitude of other problems which they had woven into the defeated tax bill to be considered in separate measures.

Into hock

Consumers will make 1977 a banner year for credit, the Conference Board predicts. One reason: consumer bank accounts grew by $105 billion last year. Another: repayments of installment debt are amounting to only 14.5 per cent of disposable personal income after running at about 17 per cent in recent years.

Ann Landers

Shaw had words about women

Dear Ann: I wasn't too crazy about your correspondents who referred to themselves as "The Girls." May I share with you a delightful quote from George Bernard Shaw, written a generation ago? It proves that nothing has changed.

Shaw noticed that the most tyrannical females are strongly opposed to women's rights. He said this:

"No fascinating woman ever wants to emancipate her sex. Her object is to gather power into the hands of Man, because she knows that she can govern him. She is no more jealous of his nominal supremacy that he himself is jealous of the strength and speed of his horse. Women disguise their strength as womanly weakness, their audacity as womanly timidity, their unscrupulousness as womanly innocence, their impunities as womanly defenselessness; simple men are duped by them, and subtle ones disarmed and intimidated. It is only the proud, straighforward women who wish, not to govern, but to be free . . ."

G.B.S. sure used a lot of two-bit words, didn't he? — Proud Woman

Dear Woman: He sure did — and if he were around today, he'd have to wear a crash helmet and a bullet-proof vest.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have not been getting along worth a damn for two years. I tried counseling (Sam wouldn't go) and was told by my doctor, my minister and my therapist to finish this marriage before it finishes me.

We have two children, five and seven years of age. We also have a German shepherd. Last night we were discussing the division of household goods. Many of the things we have belonged to Sam's mother and grandmother and he wants them — which is all right with me. Out of the blue — and in the presence of the children — he blurted out, "I want to make it clear that I am keeping Gupper (the dog) and you can have the kids."

I always knew Sam was an insensitive clod but this really got to me. The children looked so rejected I broke down and bawled. Of course I planned on taking the children, but hearing him put it so bluntly right in front of them was too much. Comment, please. — Tears In The Valley

Dear Val: What's there to say except good riddance? On Father's Day I hope Gupper sends Sam a nice card.

Dear Ann Landers: Since when is school supposed to be entertainment? Who decided school is only for football and driver training? As a teacher with 27 years of experience, I maintain that school is for learning.

Parents must teach their children to work. It cannot be done by teachers. It is appalling that so many high school graduates are functionally illiterate and unemployable.

Thanks for letting me express an opinion. Your column is about the only place left where one can do it. — D.M., Muskegon, Michigan

Dear D.M.: I agree school is not supposed to be entertainment, but I always learned more and worked harder when I had teachers who were lively, tuned-in and turned-on. Long after I forget the date of the Battle of Hastings, I'll remember the philosophy and inspiration provided by my most insightful and interesting teachers.

Eyes light up at master's voice

More than one humorous bachelor has kept a female-type store-window dummy in his apartment to keep him company. But now such a plastic model can actually react to what the lonely fellow has to say. In the U.S. Patent Office is the official description of an electronic mannequin whose eyes light up everytime she hears her master's voice.

Phthisic is an old-fashioned word for any disease that wastes human tissue, even and including skin rash. And "tizzy" is a phonetic rendering of that word. When we say, "Don't get into a tizzy," we're alluding back to the admonition, "Don't break out in a rash." Or so contends an expert on the vernacular.

In Oregon last month, Ray L. and Brenda L. took out a marriage license. His last name is Smith. Hers used to be Everybodytalksabout.

THICK-SHELLED EGGS

Q. "Why is it a frightened hen lays eggs with particularly thick shells?"

A. Nervous tension delays the laying process, thus permits the egg to remain longer where shell secretions build up. That's the report from an authority on tense hens.

Q. "How long does it take to apply the average tatoo?"

A. About 20 minutes. The needle goes only one sixty-fourth of an inch into the skin, moving up and down 50 times a second.

Q. "What four kinds of trees are mentioned in the old song 'Sweet Adeline'?"

A. "Fir. Yew. Eye (buckeye). Pine." Such be the humorist's reply.

SMALL TOWNS

A third of the high school students surveyed five years ago told pollsters they intended to make their homes in small towns. Not in the cities, not in the suburbs, not out on farms. Evidently, they meant what they said. Those scholars who study the mass movements of people say the small towns are filling up to overflowing in a rapid manner. Rental property is where it's at, sir.

Vegetable diet for cats? uh! uh!

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since you commented that "it's hard to find a healthy vegetarian cat," I thought you might be interested in Snowball. I raised her from a kitten and she, like myself, hasn't had a sniff of fish, fowl or meat in seven years. You never saw a healthier cat. — B.B.

DEAR B.B.: Congratulations. Snowball still remains a feline minority member. Vegetarian cats who do not eventually suffer some nutritional deficiency are hard to find. Unfortunately, devising a complete, palatable, vegetable diet is difficult for even the most dedicated feline friends.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My sister's male dog had a bladder infection and now my female just got over one. These dogs have never been together. I'm just wondering where the bacteria which cause a bladder infection come from? — A.C.

DEAR A.C.: The bacteria travel from outside up the urethra (against the stream, so to speak) into the bladder. Many of the infections now are caused by the bacteria, E. Coli, or Proteus. And those infections migrating in from the skin are usually staph and strep bacteria.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Sly, my lovebird, is very stubborn. I'm having trouble switching him over to a natural food mixture that would be a lot better for him than the poor-quality seed I have to buy around here. I think the only why I'm going to get him to switch is to starve him into it by taking away his old crummy seeds. Will that work? — H.A.

DEAR H.A.: Don't try it. Starving Sly could be dangerous to his health — within a very few days, it could actually be fatal. While it's true a hungry bird is more likely to try something new than one who isn't hungry, it's also true many birds will literally starve themselves to death before trying an unfamiliar food. New offerings may eventually be tried if fresh samples are repeatedly placed in a familiar seed cup. Sometimes, though, it will be weeks before any sampling occurs, and sometimes it never happens. Acceptance can occasionally be accelerated by placing a small amount of the new food in with the old, but be sure this doesn't cause a hunger strike. Birds who are trained young to accept a variety of offerings, may do just that throughout their lives and can be easily introduced to something new. For birds without such exposure, it may be difficult or even impossible to even add to their diet, let alone switch it completely.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I heard bats are bad pets. I heard humans get rabies from bats. How does this happen? — O.D.

DEAR O.D.: By being bitten by a bat with rabies. The rabies virus is usually transmitted from the saliva of the rabid bat to the human tissue by a bite.

Joe Firman

Hold nature up to a mirror

Drama, according to Shakespeare or Bacon or Marlowe or whoever it was that wrote "Hamlet" (or "Macbeth") should hold a mirror up to nature. If it truly did, the show would have the lowest rating on the Nielsen register.

SCENE — A lavish apartment in Malibu. Door bursts open, handsome chap rushes in and seizes beautiful doll in his arms. They munch each other's faces for a few torrid minutes — and then? "Wait a second, honey," she says, breaking away. "The potatoes are burning."

I have never seen this happen, but presumably even residents of Malibu must eat from time to time. Does life go on for these gorgeous, improbable people between assignations, rumbles and the like?

"Tonight!" wheezes the hero, inflamed with lust, "Tonight we live! Alone, you and I, only stars above you to know I love you, just — "

"Darling, you know I'd love to," she says, stiff-arming him, "but I have to go to the PTA meeting. I'm chairperson of the Ways and Means Committee."

This, I submit, is Real Life Drama. This is the true mirror of nature. Can't you see the astonished lover falling back on the couch? The husband doesn't matter — but what's with this PTA bit?

"Which is more important to you," he demands frostily, "me or the Ways and Means Committee?" She says, "Oh, Raoul, you're such a child." (Classic line to mollify an outraged lover. Classic, that is, if his name happens to be Raoul.) "Don't you see I MUST go — they're counting on me. How about tomorrow night?"

There can be few characters more irate, crestfallen, perplexed and disillusioned than an importunate lover who has been given the mitten for a PTA meeting.

Daphne and Jeff have finally eluded her rich, elderly husband (or his sick, embittered wife — ex-fiancee of his brother who was killed in the war and whom she married out of loyalty, etc.) and are speeding off in their Porsche to a hideaway at Cannes. And he has a flat tire. Never in novel, movie, play or television. It happens in real life but not in reel life. But lovers in fiction never have blowouts when there are more urgent ends in view, as it were.

Then they get to the quaint pension on the Cote d'Azur, all giggly with anticipation and warm champagne, and scurry in — No Vacancy. Or the Gallic equivalent. This would be a moving drama, a crisis to which all audiences could relate, but it never happens on stage or screen. It isn't on a heroic scale, somehow. Hotel burns down, sure. This seldom happens, but it would at least have that epic quality that film makers and novelists (think we) require.

So actually Shakespeare, or whoever it was, was wrong. Drama does not hold a mirror up to nature. Are we a lot of Othellos and Lady Macbeths running around the suburbs with candles and daggers? I don't even OWN a dagger.

The Bard was a lot nearer the mark with the puckish "What fools these mortals be." Let him stick to calling names and belay that mirror bit if he wants his option renewed.

Dr. Lamb

Drawing blood a problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am ashamed to complain about what is routinely a painless, quick and easy process of drawing blood, but it isn't true in my case.

Twice a year for six years I have endured painful and always futile efforts of two supposedly trained technicians trying to get blood for thyroid and potassium tests. Finally, the doctor has to do it himself, using veins other than those inside my elbows. By that time I am a nervous wreck.

It never gets any better. Is there a solution for me?

DEAR READER — Veins that have been used frequently often scar or undergo so much thickening and inflammation that they are no longer useful. In the course of time the inflammation subsides and some of them open again, but some never do. When a vein undergoes these changes blood has to be drawn from some other location. In severe problems when drawing blood or inserting a needle to supply fluids or medicine is essential it may be necessary to do a "cut down," meaning cutting the skin and surgically exposing the vein to be used.

The pain of a needle puncture can be minimized or abolished by spraying the skin with one of the coolants that evaporate on the skin and deadens the sensation momentarily in that area. The veins can be made more prominent by using a blood pressure cuff around the upper arm rather than just a piece of rubber tubing. The pressure on the cuff can be adjusted high enough to impede flow through the veins, causing them to stand out but not high enough to block the arterial flow into the arm. Warm soaks over the skin also helps in some cases.

Despite all of these efforts if a vein is scarred or obstructed it is not likely that anyone will be successful using that vein.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there a home remedy you can take that will prevent the formation of kidney stones? I have heard that one teaspoon of honey with a tablespoon of vinegar daily would do this or a can of beer daily was recommended by a doctor. My husband has had surgery for kidney stones.

DEAR READER — The best home remedy in the world for kidney stones is to drink enough water. Because sweating and other factors affect how much water you need the rule is to drink enough liquids to form two liters (about two quarts) and even better, three quarts of urine a day.

The increased urine flow should be maintained evenly over the 24 hour period. That means drinking water around the clock and a reasonable amount before going to bed.

Specifically using vinegar or honey will not prevent a kidney stone. Depending upon the type of stone — what it is made of — the doctor may wish to give medicine to acidify the urine. Beer is worse than useless. It contains oxalate which is often a factor in the formation of some types of kidney stones.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Saturday, Oct. 1, 1977
Your Birthday, Oct. 1, 1977

Involvements you have with progressive associates this year will come off well. Dealings with those who live in the past won't be as profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't overlook old obligations today. Take care of your end of the bargain without any attempt to pass it off. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pessimistic companions should be avoided today. Their crepe-hanging could put you in the doldrums, too, and you'll see mud instead of stars.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's possible you could turn the smallest task into a gigantic undertaking today. Unfortunately, it's all in your head.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A hidden fear could spoil your fun today. You should forget it, because it probably won't happen anyway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When things go wrong at home today, don't try to pin all the blame on your mate. He or she may not be entirely innocent, but then neither are you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use a soft-sell approach in trying to convince a helper to do what you want today. Your subject may not be in the mood for an ear-beating.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're making a purchase of any consequence today, be certain to get exactly what you want. Buyer's remorse can strike quickly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Any disagreement between you and your family today should be settled speedily. Otherwise a long-lasting chill could set in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you're not prone to hold grudges, you're down on someone you deal with on a regular basis. You could be the big loser there.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Review how much you're spending on nonessential things and activities. Your budget is taking a beating unnecessarily.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Goals you set are not easy to come by today. If you give your best you can attain the heights. If not, you're the big loser.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have too many self-doubts for your own good today. Being cautious is a virtue, but being negative is not in that category at all.

If West could see all the cards he would open a spade or heart against three notrump. Not being clairvoyant, he opened the four of diamonds.

South won with the king over East's 10 and led a club. West rose with the king and now saw that a second diamond lead would be a give up play, since South was marked with the ace and queen of that suit. He also saw a chance to shut that club suit out by leading a heart and he led the right one. He planked down the king of that suit.

This gave South an extra heart trick, but it cost him four club tricks and four for one is a pretty good trade.

South had to win with dummy's ace. Then he cleared the clubs.

West led a second diamond. South still had a chance for his contract. Maybe that queen of spades would be an entry to dummy. He led a slow spade and played dummy's queen. East produced the king and South was held to seven tricks. Three hearts, three diamonds and one spade.

Shavers didn't know he lost

NEW YORK (AP) — The way it looked on national television, it was all over after the 12th round. As many as 50 million people in the TV audience knew Earnie Shavers would lose. Muhammad Ali said he knew it.

Then, why didn't Shavers know it?

"I thought I was ahead. My corner told me I was ahead," Shavers said after losing his only shot at the world heavyweight title in a 15-round decision to Ali Thursday night at Madison Square Garden.

"I threw a couple of pretty good shots, but I didn't hit him real hard. I was trying to save myself," said Shavers. "I didn't go after him because I thought he might have been faking it."

The simple fact of the matter was that after the 12th, the TV audience had been informed by NBC — which was revealing the referee's and judges' decision round-by-round — that Ali had eight check-marks on his side of the card. Shavers' only chance was a knockout.

Over on Ali's side of the ring, they were keeping track. Trainer Angelo Dundee had arranged with Eddie Hrica, a Baltimore-area fight promoter, to shuttle between the dressing room TV set and ringside to keep tabs on how things were going.

No such arrangements had been made on Shavers' side of the ring, and no one in the Garden audience of 14,613 was aware of the cards. After some discussion, John F.X. Condon, head of Garden publicity, said it was decided not to transmit the NBC information to the live audience or to reporters. The New York State Athletic Commission had recommended against it as being possibly disruptive, Condon said.

"But we didn't tell Ali," Dundee said. "We didn't want him to know. He might have let up, and you can't do that against a guy like Shavers."

Ali, however, said he had been told at one point during the fight that he was ahead, and that he would have thought so anyway. He looked like a fighter trying to hang onto his lead in the 13th and 14th rounds, which went to Shavers on the cards of the two judges and the referee, Johnny LoBianco.

"I took some punches that would have knocked any man out," said Ali, his face swollen from the beating he had taken from Shavers, considered one of boxing's all-time hardest hitters.

"Hurt me? Yeah, he hurt me a couple of times," Ali said. "I was almost knocked out two or three times. I was out on my feet. But the experts told you right. I can take a punch ... I knew I had it won ... I am the greatest fighter of all time."

After the 12th round, the two judges' cards had Ali ahead 8-4, and LoBianco had it 8-3 with one even. That's when Shavers, who had never gone past 10 rounds in his career, came on strong.

Shavers won the 13th on four solid rights to Ali's head, while the champion danced, covered up and hardly threw a punch. The 14th went to Shavers in a more spectacular fashion.

Shavers came out swinging those lumberjack fists that have scored 19 first-round knockouts in 54 victories (52 knockouts in all). He caught Ali in the corner and a mighty right landed.

Ali's feet went out from under him, and the count on the auditorium loudspeaker went to "two" before LoBianco waved off the count, saying it was a slip. But Ali was in trouble.

Shavers continued to press, and he caught the champion with another right as Ali layed against the ropes.

"My corner told me I was three rounds ahead on points," said Shavers. "I knew Ali was hurt, but I couldn't tell whether he was faking it. He's good at that. He always fakes it when you hit him."

The 15th round — by which time Shavers was expected to have been showered, dressed and on his way back home to the farm in Warren, Ohio — was a slugfest. Not since Ali-Joe Frazier in Manila was there such a round in heavyweight boxing.

Ali had Shavers in the corner, pounding combinations, hooking off the jab, and Shavers was wobbling. Both fighters were exhausted. Shavers found one more punch, and it saved him from a knockout.

A last look at Dodgers, Angels

It has been a year of exact opposites for the Dodgers and Angels.

The Dodgers have wrapped up a division title and are preparing for the playoffs. The Angels, hands down winners of Flops of the Year Award, are sinking into oblivion again.

Looking ahead to the playoffs, the feeling here is that the Dodgers must win both games at Dodger Stadium Tuesday and Wednesday.

That means they must beat Steve Carlton in the opener.

If the Phils even split, it means the Dodgers will have to win two of three at Veterans Stadium where the Phils have been devastating

While the Phillies have sizzled since July 4, posting 55 wins against 28 losses, the Dodgers have won only five more than they have lost (42-37).

And, this may shock you, but the Dodgers, who had the best record in baseball for much of the season, will go into the playoffs with the WORST record among the four teams.

Kansas City already has won 100 games and Philadelphia and the Yankees need only one more victory to reach 100.

On the other hand, the Dodgers CAN'T reach the century mark even if they win their three remaining contests.

And, remember this also, the Dodgers are in the WEAKEST of the four divisions. For most of the season, only the Dodgers and Reds were above .500 in the National League West. Houston is one game over .500 now and was under .500 most of the year.

N.L. East stronger

In the East, the Pirates, Cardinals and Cubs have been over .500 almost from the outset.

In the American League West, Texas, Chicago and Minnesota have likewise been over .500 from the start. In the East, only three clubs are over .500. But the Red Sox and Orioles have made it a three-team dogfight for the pennant up until this week.

The Dodgers' relief pitching has not been consistent the second half.

Mike Garman, Lance Rautzhan and Elias Sosa all have had streaks But there have been games where NONE of them could stop the opposition and this has caused the Dodger brass great concern.

Ron Cey, one of the keys to the offense, has had a terrible time after a sensational April.

For the first month of the season, Cey averaged .403 on 31 hits in 77 at-bats with nine home runs and 29 runs batted in.

In the five months since then, the "Penguin" has averaged .223 (108 hits in 484 at-bats) while hitting 21 homers and batting in 81 runs.

That averages out to something like four home runs and 16 RBIs per month.

Let me repeat. The things mentioned are NOT meant to imply that I don't think the Dodgers can win. I mention them to support my contention that the Dodgers MUST win both games in Dodger Stadium.

If they do, I think they'll win the pennant and advance to the World Series. If they don't win both here, tab the Phils for the World Series.

Angels sad losers

As for the Angels, well, they look like the same, sad losers they have been during Harry Dalton's six-year regime.

Never once have they reached .500. What is even more depressing is the fact that they are WORSE this year than last.

On Sept. 30, 1976, the Halos had a 73-85 record, 12 games under .500 and 18½ out of first place.

Today, they have a 73-86 record, 13 games under .500 and a stunning 27 games out of first place!

And you can't blame it all on the injuries. They were not a winning ball club before all the injuries. With everybody healthy, they fell flat on their faces.

Remember how they lost 12 of their first 20 games against teams they should have cleaned up on?

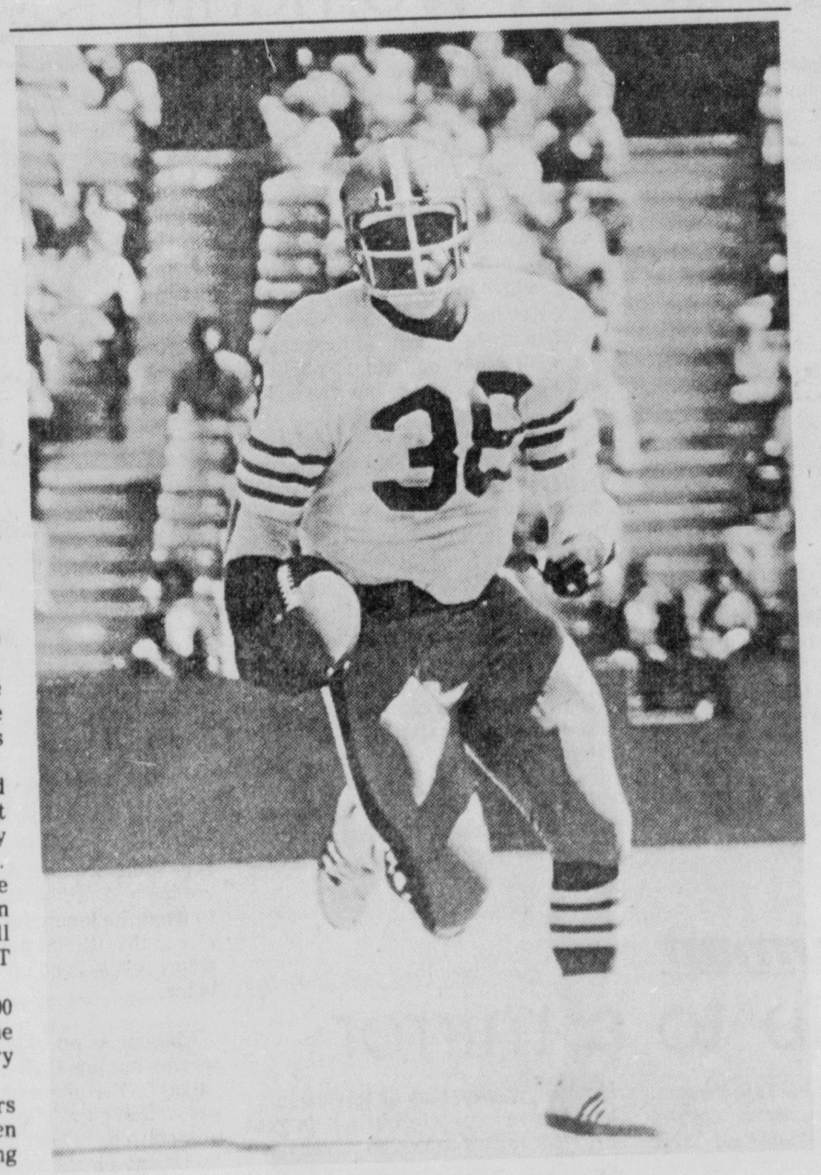
When Norm Sherry was fired July 11, the Angels were three games under .500 (and sinking fast in the throes of a five-game losing streak) and nine games out of first.

Under Dave Garcia, they are 10 games under .500 (34-44) and have dropped an additional 18 games out of first. Sherry was not a good manager. But Garcia hasn't proved he is any better. Like Sherry, he is far too low key.

The Halos need a fiery leader, someone who will build a fire under them. Neither Garcia nor Sherry can do that.

If, as rumored, Garcia is swept out after the season ends, Gene Autry, a very patient man, should take a long hard long at the LACK of progress under Dalton.

Wonder if Dalton can con Autry again as he has done the last six years?



RETURNING HOME

Running back Bob Ferrell, former Ganesha High star, will face the Rams Sunday at the Coliseum in a San Francisco 49er uniform. Ferrell got his big chance with the ill-fated Southern California Sun.

Faces Rams in 49er uniform

WFL gave Ferrell a chance

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Bob Ferrell was a high school sensation at Ganesha High but he was overshadowed in his own backyard by the exploits of Bonita's Allen Carter.

At the collegiate level, Ferrell went to the big time at UCLA but he never saw much action with the Bruins because of injuries, academic problems plus the problem of playing behind stars like Kermit Johnson and James McAllister.

But Ferrell is currently playing in the National Football League with the San Francisco 49ers which is more than Carter, Johnson or McAllister can say.

It's safe to say Ferrell is a late bloomer and he owes his present situation to the ill-fated World Football League.

"I twice thought my football career was over," Ferrell said by telephone from San Francisco as he prepares for Sunday's date against the Rams at the Coliseum.

"I didn't think I would play again when I left UCLA and I believed it was over again when the WFL folded," he said. "It's strange how things work out sometimes."

Ferrell, in his second season with the 49ers, is used as a kickoff return specialist and the second string fullback behind Wilbur Jackson.

In the 49ers' two games - losses to Pittsburgh and Miami - Ferrell hasn't run with the ball yet and has returned one kickoff for 17 yards.

"I may see some action on third down plays or late in the half to give Jackson a rest," Ferrell said.

He is just happy to be with the 49ers and is especially eager for the game in L.A.

"I always enjoy playing near home," Ferrell said. "We need a win right now and we always have a lot of incentive for the Rams because it's always a big game in our division."

Asked about the 49ers' problem generating much of an offense this season, Ferrell commented, "We're hurting ourselves a lot with mistakes. But it looks like we're starting to come. We could have easily scored 30 points (score was 19-15) against Miami except for mistakes. It's a matter of gaining consistency."

Ferrell will be remembered at Ganesha for his senior campaign (1970) when he rushed for 1,651 yards and 28 touchdowns. In one half against Montclair, he tallied five TDs.

But things weren't so good at UCLA.

Ferrell saw limited action in 1972 and 1974 for the Bruins. His combined statistics shows only 83 rushing yards on 26 carries.

Even though discouraged by his lack of action, Ferrell decided to try out with the new Southern California Sun in the WFL on the advice of a friend.

It turned out to be a big break for him.

With the Sun in 1975, Ferrell ran for 149 yards and two touchdowns and caught 11 passes for 61 yards.

"Playing for the Sun gave me good exposure and valuable game experience," Ferrell recalls about his days with the Anaheim-based team. "The Sun is the main reason I'm playing pro ball now."

Again, his football days looked over when the Sun folded with the rest of the WFL but a friend suggested he try to land with the 49ers.

After signing as a free agent, Ferrell made the club. He ran nine times for 28 yards and one TD, a three-yard plunge at New Orleans on the 49ers' final offensive play of the season, last year.

The 49ers like Ferrell because they feel he is especially effective running down under kicks. He is also considered an excellent blocker.

What about his off-season activities?

"I am getting into a lot of things," he said. "I have landed some bit parts in movies and TV spots and I am planning to finish my education at UCLA working on my Master's degree in business. I hope to get into public health administration."

Even though Ferrell now makes his home near the UCLA campus, his mother, father, sister and sixth grade brother still live in Pomona. Needless to say, they will be at the Coliseum Sunday.

"We'll be trying hard against the Rams and I will too," was Ferrell's final remark.

Trojans greet Jack Thompson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the nation's top quarterbacks is pitted against one of the country's best runners tonight to kick off a full weekend of college football clashes.

Quarterback Jack Thompson will lead the Washington State Cougars against speedy tailback Charles White and the second-ranked Southern California Trojans in a Pacific-8 game that shapes up as a wide-open offensive show tonight in the Coliseum.

The coaches are duly impressed by the opposition heading into the 8 p.m. PDT game.

"They always look good," said first-year Washington State Coach Warren Powers. "USC even looks good in their uniforms running out on the field."

"The Cougars are a good team both offensively and defensively, and you know they've got a great passing attack," said USC Coach John Robinson.

Southern Cal has whipped Washington State in the last 10 meetings, and has a 3-0 record this fall. The Trojans also own the longest winning streak in college football, 14 games stretching back to last season.

The Cougars, however, have proved they can play with anyone. They knocked off Nebraska 19-10 in their season opener, then bested Michigan State 23-21. WSU lost its first game last Saturday, falling to Kansas 14-12 when a 32-yard Cougars field goal attempt missed at the gun.

Robinson said that his Trojans have yet to face a stern test this fall, then added, "Our defense hasn't played a great offensive team yet, but the're going to get tested against Washington State."

The Trojans will remember Thompson from last year, when the WSU quarterback connected on 26 of 50 passes for 340 yards in the Cougars' 24-13 loss to USC. The 6-foot-3 junior from American Samoa currently ranks fourth in the nation in passing with 63 completions in 107 attempts for 831 yards and four touchdowns.

Flanker Brian Kelly, with 19 receptions this year, and split end Mike Levenseller, with 17 catches, provide Washington State with a pair of top-flight receivers.

White, the sophomore who was sensational while filling in for the injured Ricky Bell last season, has gained 466 yards on 87 carries this campaign, although he was used sparingly in the Trojans' 51-0 romp over TCU last Saturday.

Quarterback Rob Hertel adds balance to the USC offense. He has completed 28 of 50 passes for 439 yards and four touchdowns.

Saturday's feature games include top-ranked Oklahoma versus Kansas and No. 5 Texas A&M against third-ranked Michigan in Ann Arbor in a game that will be televised throughout most of the country.

Other day games involving Top 20 clubs include Kentucky at No. 4 Penn State, Rice at No. 8 Texas, Georgia at No. 10 Alabama, Indiana at No. 11 Nebraska, 12th-ranked Arkansas at Texas Christian, 13th-rated Texas Tech at North Carolina, Michigan State at No. 14 Notre Dame, 16th-ranked Pittsburgh at Boston College, San Jose State at No. 17 California and No. 18 Mississippi State at Kansas State.

John gets workout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy John can be excused if he did not have his mind solely on the Houston Astros Thursday night.

The Los Angeles left-hander was battered for 10 hits, one of them Bob Watson's 21st home run, in six innings. But, obviously, the Philadelphia Phillies were more on his mind than the Astros, who defeated the Dodgers 4-2.

"I was out there trying to win," said John, 20-7. "But at the same time, I wanted to work on a few pitches. I was trying to throw a lot of breaking pitches because against the Phillies you have to use everything in your arsenal. Tonight I just got behind and then made some bad pitches."

John's next start will be Tuesday evening in the National League playoff opener against Philadelphia.

"I have to think we are as evenly matched as two teams can be," John said of the playoffs. "It could be a series of breaks, taking advantage of a passed ball, a hit-and-run, an error.

"Philadelphia is smart and it's offensive unit is exceptional," continued John. "If Sutton or I don't win one of the games here, it's going to be awfully tough. I don't think we can sweep them in Philadelphia."

John gave up two runs in the fourth and Watson's two-run homer in the fifth, which gave the Houston first baseman 108 runs-batted-in, an Astro record.

Reggie Smith singled home Los Angeles' first run in the fourth inning, off winner Floyd Bannister, 8-9, and Steve Garvey hit his 33rd home run in the seventh off Gene Pentz.

The home run by Garvey set a Los Angeles Dodger record, breaking the mark previously shared by Garvey and Jimmy Wynn, who hit 32 in 1974. It's also the most homers by a Dodger in 20 years, since Duke Snider hit 40 in 1957.

Elias Sosa pitched the seventh and eighth innings for Los Angeles, testing his injured right wrist for the first time since he sprained it Sept. 20.

SAL, Hacienda play begins

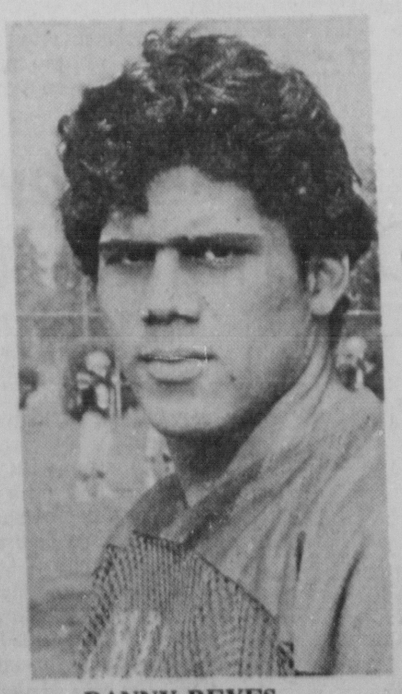
By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

It's only the first week of league play for most local high school football teams, but already there are some very important games on tonight's schedule.

Three in particular — Garey's game at Chino, the contest between Ganesha and Claremont at Citrus College and Chaffey's game at Fontana — figure to have considerable bearing on title races and playoff berths, even though there are six weeks of the regular season left after tonight.

Ganesha is ranked second and Chino seventh in the Southeastern Conference poll, but they will have to prove to talented Viking and Wolfpack squads that they deserve those positions.

Chaffey and Fontana have tied for the Citrus Belt League championship the last two years, so their tussle should be one of the best of the CBL season. Fontana is currently rated 10th in the prestigious Big Five Conference and the Tigers were No. 5 before being upset by Edgewood last week, so a CIF ranking is also at stake in tonight's game, which begins at 8 p.m. said coach Jim Rawls. "He runs the 100 in 10.2 and goes about 200 pounds, so he gives us another guy they (the opposition) has to worry about running the ball.



DANNY REYES . . .
Chino quarterback

"He's our team captain, so the guys have more confidence when he's in there."

Garey's defense appears quite sound again but coach Lawson Bush's offense hasn't got untracked yet. With bruisers like Elijah Turner and Doug Brissette and speedsters like Morris Cole and James Moore manning the running back spots, the Vikings are a threat to score on almost any play.

The defending SAL co-champs give away a lot of size, however, on the line.

Ganesha and Claremont, on the other hand, boast many of the league's more sizeable linemen.

"They look huge on defense," Claremont coach Esper Keiser said about Ganesha. "They look like the New York Giants, not the Ganesha Giants."

Garry Norvell's defensive line has a listed average of 205 pounds per man.

Tackle J.W. Melton tips the scale at 232, and tackle Randy Taylor and Kevin Jones are both over 200.

Claremont doesn't exactly have a group of lightweights on the defensive line, however, since three of the starting Wolfpack defenders — tackles Robert Villanueva and Neil Anderson and end Jeff Young — weigh 215 or better. Keiser's line averages 204 pounds.

"They'll be the biggest and most physical team we've seen," said Norvell. "They're bigger than South Hills."

Offensively, the 'Pack's down linemen average 198 pounds and the Giants' trenchmen average 197 — led by 235-pound tackle David Porter.

Claremont has allowed just 14 points in two games and Ganesha has surrendered 20 (only seven when the first string was in), but Keiser doesn't feel sure that tonight's game will be dominated by defense.

"Their two backs, (Bennie) Goodena and (Floyd) Williams, are awfully quick," he said. "You can contain them for a while, but sooner or later one of them says goodbye and he's gone."

Keiser finds himself thin at running back because of injuries to Grant Warhurst and Fred Flye. "We've got to get healthy so we can generate some 'O,'" he said.

Major sees local victors

By AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

The justly famous Hoople System this week foresees some of our local boys reverting to their former winning ways come Saturday. Your favorite forecastor also has a couple real stunners for you on the national scene, so let's hasten on — kaff-kaff — to my forecast.

Let us start, dear readers, with the local elevens. Three losers will return to the win column come Saturday. First off, Roland Ortmayer's Leopards will rebound by plucking Pomona-Pitzer's poor Sagehens to the tune of 49-7 in a game, shall we say, that won't be quite as close as even that score might indicate. Harrumph!

MSAC will return to the win column with a 30-21 victory at L.A. Harbor, while Citrus will post its first triumph of the year by downing host Rio Hondo 20-7.

Unfortunately, the outlook isn't quite as good for Cal Poly and Claremont-Mudd. Both figure to drop their home debuts to tough foes, Poly to UC Davis by a 22-14 count and C-M to Cal Lutheran by a 21-10 verdict.

Nationally, that big Pac-8 showdown at the L.A. Coliseum between USC and Washington State will be a exciting offensive shootout, won by the Trojans 33-21.

The Southeastern Conference also gets down to cases Saturday, as potent Alabama entertains defending champion Georgia, Florida meets Louisiana State at Baton Rouge and Auburn's Tigers host the Mississippi Rebels.

In the Alabama-Georgia fray, the Hoople nod goes to 'Bama's Crimson Tide by a 31-28 score. Florida's journey to Baton Rouge will be a profitable one as the Gators top LSU 32-21, while the tenacious Mississippi Rebels will hold off Auburn, 17-10.

Oklahoma's major powers will be in action at home as Oklahoma meets Kansas in a Big Eight affair and Oklahoma State takes on an improving Florida State club.

It will be a pleasant day — kaff-kaff — for the Sooners as they whip Kansas, 33-12, but a sad day for OSU as the Florida State Seminoles win, 20-19. Jove, that will be a close one!

Saving the best for last, we give you the Hoople Upset Special of the Week: Texas A&M 28, Michigan 25.

Yas, my loyal followers, the Aggies will shock the football world and stun 101,701 spectators at the huge Michigan Stadium by coming from behind to edge the powerful Wolverines behind the power running of George Woodward and Curtis Dickey. Har-rumph!

Now go on with my forecast:

Can Browns keep their dream alive?

By Associated Press

Okay, so the Cleveland Browns are for real—but do you really expect this fairy tale to go on forever?

Granted, they looked nothing short of spectacular last Monday night against New England.

Granted, the Pittsburgh Steelers looked less-than-sensational against the Oakland Raiders last Sunday.

But do you actually think the Browns can beat the Steelers?

We do ... so we're going with a National Football League Upset Special. We're picking Cleveland to find the slivers of space in Pittsburgh's defense, nose out the Steelers and take command of the American Conference's Central Division.

Maybe the fairy tale won't go on forever. Midnight is fast approaching, in the form of the silver and black of Oakland. But for now, the white mice are stallions, the pumpkin really is a coach—and the coach (Forrest Gregg, of course) is a genius.

Last week's 10-4 mark put the season record at 18-10, .643. This week's picks:

Browns 17, Steelers 13

Maybe we're impressed by the extra bit of inventiveness, of daring, of spirit that the Browns have exhibited—and the Steelers haven't. Maybe we're just caught up in emotionalism and blind to statistical reality. Maybe Brian Sipe isn't better than Terry Bradshaw. And maybe Cleveland won't be able to cope with the Steel Curtain.

But, like the Browns, we can dream, can't we?

Raiders 35, Chiefs 10

Remember when an Oakland - Kansas City meeting meant allout war? The only thing it'll mean Monday night is a lot of channel-changing by halftime.

Redskins 20, Cardinals 16

You could call this an upset. You could call it a toss-up. Call it whatever you wish. If you're looking for a reason why Washington's the pick, look somewhere else.

Vikings 24, Packers 13

Minnesota's getting awfully bad awfully quick, but not bad enough to let Green Bay get away with anything.

Bears 23, Saints 14

Hank Stram learns for the third straight week how meaningless a great preseason really is.

Lions 20, Eagles 13

Bill Bergey can't make every tackle for the Eagles, especially when the guy he's got to try and tackle is Dexter Bussey of Detroit. The Lions' offense is beginning to move a bit, unlike Philadelphia's.

Falcons 19, Giants 14

It won't be a defensive struggle, it'll be a lack-of-offense battle. Atlanta lacks less offense. That is, it has more. In other words ... oh, never mind.

Rams 27, 49ers 16

San Francisco's the team that made Los Angeles' offensive line look so pitiful a year ago. With any kind of protection, Joe Namath will do the same to the 49ers' secondary.

Cowboys 48, Bucs 10

It's the battle of two top running backs, Tampa Bay's Ricky Bell vs. Dallas' Tony Dorsett. Bell may have been No. 1 in the draft, but you know the Cowboys will have his number.

Patriots 34, Jets 17

The Jets are coming along slowly, which is not the way to play defense against a lightning offense like New England's.

Dolphins 21, Oilers 14

Miami is not very flashy, but it does just what it has to do to win. What it has to do this time is a little less than usual.

Bengals 31, Chargers 19

The only reason the Chargers will be running the wrong way this week is that there'll be a whole bunch of Bengals waiting for them in the opposite direction.

Colts 38, Bills 17

Baltimore's banged up, but it still has enough people to run, throw, catch, block and tackle. Once you stop O.J. Simpson's running for the Bills, there's nothing else to worry about.

Broncos 30, Seahawks 21

Defense. Denver's got it. Seattle's gonna get it ... right in the teeth!

Draw at Olympic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bantamweights Santiago Hernandez and Oscar Muniz fought to a draw Thursday night when their scheduled 10-round bout was stopped because of a cut suffered by Hernandez in the eighth round.

Hernandez, of San Padre de Las Banos, Mexico, was unintentionally cut over the right eye. After referee Marty Denkin called the doctor into the ring to examine Hernandez, the bout was halted.

There were no knockdowns in the fight, which was even when the end came.

Hernandez, who weighed 122½ pounds, is now 17-6,. Muniz, of Los Angeles, is 9-1-1. Muniz, who weighed 120 pounds, is a cousin of welterweight contender Mando Muniz.

Patriots must report

WASHINGTON — Offensive linemen John Hannah and Leon Gray were ordered to report to the New England Patriots by next Tuesday or be delcared ineligible for the remainder of the 1977 season.

The NFL Player-Club Relations Committee, after 12 hours of testimony and deliberation on a grievance brought by the league on behalf of the Patriots, found that there is "a binding, legally enforceable contract" between the players and the team. The two had left camp in the last week of the preseason in a dispute that started in 1974.

The committee, consisting of two owners and two players, denied the Patriots' claim for a return of the signing and reporting bonus paid to the players. The committee also ordered the club not to assess fines on the players for leaving the team in the last week of the preseason.

Roberts found dead

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Clifford Roberts, co-founder of the Masters Golf Tournament, was found dead at the Augusta National Golf Club, the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Roberts, 84, was discovered by club officials in a creek bed behind the cabin once owned by the late Prsident Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Red Sox sold

BOSTON — Haywood Sullivan, a former major league catcher, and Edward G. "Buddy" LeRoux, a former trainer, purchased the Boston Red Sox after months of neogotiations.

It was reported thet LeRoux and Sullivan, with a group of limited partners, were awarded the club for $16 million.

Douglass leads

NAPA, Calif. — Dale Douglass, whose last tournament title came in 1970, shot an opening round 66 for the first round lead in Napa's annual pro golf tour event and was pursued closely Larry Ziegler and Mac McLendon, with 67s. All three played on Silverado's South course, in the opening round of the $200,000 tournament.

Wade triumphs

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — Britain's Virginia Wade outlasted Evonne Goolagong 6-4, 6-7, 6-3 to capture the women's singles title of the World Invitational Tennis Classic.

In the final set Miss Goolagong, serving at 3-4, made four straight unforced errors that allowed Ms. Wade to serve out for the match.

In the men's doubles finals, Roscoe Tanner and Bjorn Borg defeated John Newcombe and Vitas Gerulaitis 7-6, 4-6, 6-4.

In mixed doubles Ms. Wade teamed with Gerulaitis to beat Dianne Fromholtz and Newcombe 6-2, 6-2.

Pakistan sweeps

RAWPALPINDI, Pakistan — Pakistan swept two singles matches and took a 2-0 lead against Malaysia in a best-of-five Eastern Zone Davis Cup tennis match.

Suns' record is still perfect

The Claremont Suns of the Pop Warner Midget division put their perfect 2-0 record on the line Sunday against undefeated Fontana, also 2-0.

Last week the Suns rolled over the Diamond Bar Dons, 28-0 and now have not lost since 1975. This year they have outscored the opposition, 62-6.

Mark Pruitt gained 125 yards and scored two touchdowns. Gary Williams gained 114 yards and score one TD and quarterback Trac Simms completed two of four passes for 42 yards and ran four yards for a touchdown.

'Pack runners sharp

Claremont High established itself as a definite San Antonio League title contender in cross country Thursday afternoon with a impressive 15-50 win over undermanned Ganesha.

Defending SAL champ Upland had things a bit tougher, but still prevailed over host Montclair 17-43. Other SAL winners Thursday were Garey, 24-32 over Chino, and Pomona, 27-28 over Damien.

In a Hacienda League match, Walnut bounced Bonita 15-50.

Top prep time locally Thursday was turned in by Garey's Joe Ramirez, who raced around the Chino High three-mile course in a fast 14:58.

Claremont's Locke Breaux recorded a 15:34 clocking at Claremont, while Pomona's Ed Allen was the only other prep under 16 minutes (15:54) Thursday.

Claremont thoroughly dominated Ganesha, winning the varsity, junior varsity, frosh-soph and girls races.

Pomona, running without Duane Keys and Jimmy Rodriguez, just did nip Damien. Keys is out with the flu while Rodriguez has a minor injury. Both will be back next week.

Upland and Montclair, along with several other local squads, will be in action Saturday at the Chaffey District Invitational at Alta Loma High.

Claremont, Pomona and Walnut are slated to see action Saturday in the Yucaipa Invitational.

CHS girls take 1st

Claremont High's girls volleyball team has first place all to itself after Thursday's San Antonio League action.

The Wolfpack (2-0) defeated Pomona (0-2), 15-5 and 15-1, at Claremont.

In other games, Garey (1-1) defeated Montclair (0-1), 15-5 and 15-9 at Montclair in the Cavaliers' conference opener. Chino (1-1) beat Upland (1-1),15-6 and 15-3, at Chino.

Claremont, 8-2 overall, visits second place Ganesha (1-0) Tuesday. Montclair hosts Chino and Pomona hosts Upland. Garey has a bye.

In jayvee competition, Pomona won two of three games from Claremont, 15-12 and 15-12, after the Wolfpack won the first game, 15-6. Chino defeated Upland, 15-9 and 15-6.

There was no Montclair-Garey jayvee score because Garey has no jayvee coach and, hence, is unable to field a jayvee team.

La Verne LL seeks helpers

The La Verne Little League is looking for several adult volunteers to serve as chairpersons or members of various committees now being formed for the 1978 season.

These committees will be responsible for planning, organizating and directing functions such as facilities maintenance, snack bar operations, candy sales, picture day, dances, publicity, etc. Husband and wife teams are encouraged.

All interested persons are invited to call either Jerry Jordan, president, at 596-1353 or Vel McOmber, secretary, at 593-4696. A special meeting for committee volunteers will be held Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings building at Bonita and "D" streets in La Verne.

Pan-Am Games move to July

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 1979 Pan-American Games at San Juan, P.R., have been moved up one month, the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union announced Tuesday.

Ollan Cassell, executive director of the AAU, received a telegram from Amadel Francis, a member of the Pan-Am Games Organizing Committee, advising him of the change.

The Games will be moved up to July 8-22, 1979, instead of the previously announced Aug. 4-18.

Saints beaten at home, 3-0

The Diamond Bar-Walnut Saints lost their home opener to the South Bay Gunners, 3-0, last week and now are 1-1 for the season.

Only outstanding goal tending by goalie Kevin Kaufman kept the score as close as it was. The Saints had 13 shots on the Gunners' goal, but none got in.

Midfielder Brian Berrie was credited with eight headers and nine super kicks and was named Saints' Outstanding Player.

The Saints have a bye this Saturday but resume action October 8 against the South Bay Vikings in Torrance.

Kickers play to 2-2 deadlock

The Diamond Bar Kickers, frustrated by a 2-2 tie last week against the Palos Verdes Mariners, return home to host the Palos Verdes Panthers in an 1 p.m. contest Saturday at Diamond Bar's Chaparral Intermediate School.

Diamond Bar took a 2-0 lead in the Pacific Soccer League game at Palos Verdes but the Mariners were able to catch up to gain a tie.

Rocky Crisp and Mike Brocki scored the Kickers' goals with Paul Caligiuri getting an assist on the second goal.

Royals first to win 100

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Larry Gura and Doug Bird combined on a seven-hitter and the Kansas City Royals pounded out 14 hits to down the California Angels 6-3 Thursday night.

Gura, 8-5, gave up six hits, struck out four and walked none before needing ninth-inning relief help from Bird.

The Royals, with every starter in the lineup getting a hit, became the first team in the majors to win 100 games and tied the New York Mets' record for victories by an expansion team.

The Royals strung together five singles in the first inning for a 3-0 lead. Rookie Clint Hurdle touched off a two-run inning in the fifth with his second home run of the year, then made it 6-0 with a run-scoring single in the sixth.

Wayne Simpson, 6-12, took the loss.

The save was the 14th for Bird this season.

Yankees remain in holding position

By Associated Press

The New York Yankees are in a holding position ... and Earl Weaver is in a hoping position.

"People can still say Billy Martin hasn't won two championships in a row," says the manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Weaver's reference is an obvious needle aimed at the New York Yankees manager, who has laid claim to the American League East title, when in truth it is not officially his yet.

The Yankees lost a chance to lock it up Thursday night, dropping a 4-1 decision to the Cleveland Indians while Weaver's Orioles and the Boston Red Sox stayed mathematically alive by winning their games. The Red Sox defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 7-3 while the Orioles stopped the Detroit Tigers 6-3.

"That was a funny quote," said Weaver, referring to a statement by Martin that is getting more notoriety by the day. After the Yankees clinched a tie for the East title with a victory over Cleveland Wednesday night, the New York manager said that he could now be credited with two consecutive division titles in the same city. The Yankees won the AL East last year and Martin had won two others, with Minnesota and Detroit.

"To tell the truth," said Weaver, "that's the way I used to think. When the other team could do no better than a tie, I always thought it was ours."

But now that Weaver is on the other end, he doesn't see things quite the same way. Joking that a local undertaker was creeping around the Orioles' ballpark during the game Thursday night, Weaver noted:

"When they flashed that New York score on the board, he made reservations for Boston."

Weaver's reference was to the opening of tonight's three-game series with the Red Sox. Each team must hope for a sweep, and for the Yankees to lose their three-game set with Detroit, otherwise Martin's premature announcement will be a reality before the weekend is over.

In other AL games Thursday night, the Kansas City Royals defeated the California Angels 6-3 and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Texas Rangers 2-1.

Wayne Garland's six-hitter led Cleveland's victory over New York. Garland, one of last winter's free agents who signed a 10-year contract with Cleveland, posted his 13th triumph in 32 decisions and took some solace after a disastrous campaign by averting a 20th setback.

"Foremost in my mind was pride," said Garland after his overpowering performance. "I always have and I always will have pride. It probably would have been the biggest letdown of my life if I had lost, because I know I'm not a 20-game loser.

Upland softball team to compete

SAN BERNARDINO — The Upland Majestics will be one of 10 teams in action here this weekend as the First Annual Herald Examiner Women's Invitational Fast Pitch Softball Tournament gets underway.

The tourney field includes the top women's fast pitch squads in the state, including California champion San Fernando Valley Royals and state runnerup Glendale Blazers. Host team for the tourney will be the Southern California Dawns of Riverside.

The tourney begins today at 5 p.m. The Majestics will play their opening round game at 8:45 a.m. Saturday morning.

The tourney is being held at Little League Stadium, located six miles north of San Bernardino. Tourney finals are set for Sunday.

Tickets prices per day are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students, senior citizens and military. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Girls AYSO signups set

Chino AYSO signups for girls ages 8-16 will reopen due to a shortage of players for the girls teams.

The signups will be held Saturday at Chino High from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and at Ramona Junior High from 10 a.m. until noon. Girls should bring their birth certificates. Fees for applicants will be $10.

This week's trout plants

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

DWIGHT TWILLEY BAND: "Twilley Don't Mind" (Arista AB 4140).

Twilley scored in 1975 with "I'm on Fire," a fine recreation of the Sun sound, but the debut album foundered in the same sort of imitation. "Twilley Don't Mind," the group's second LP, is also highly derivative, but this time, the roots are much more well-integrated, less obviously plagiarized. The reference point this time is Southern California rock, after the heyday of the Beach Boys, before the hegemony of the Eagles: the Byrds, Love, West Coast folk-rock in general. But even in a song as blatantly Byrds-ish as "Sleeping," which evokes "Goin' Back" beautifully, Twilley adds a shade of its own personality. At the very least, this is a sign of increased maturity. On "That I Remember," it amounts to something for which no references are needed: an excellent pop-rock record. Next time out, Twilley may be able to come up with an entire album of that sort. Until then, this ranks with the very best late-summer releases.

JOHNNIE TAYLOR: "Reflections" (RCA APL 1-2527).

Taylor and producer Don Davis are the same combination who produced one of the Bicentennial's largest selling singles, "Disco Lady." "Reflections," however, is much more heavily influenced by the Memphis Stax sound where both began their careers, although oddly enough the album was recorded in Detroit and Muscle Shoals, Ala., R&B hotbeds of a slightly different stripe. The key is the excellence of the material and arrangements, and the suitability for Taylor's Wilson Pickett-derived style. Davis's arrangements are harder-edged, and stand out over Wade Marcus's, but despite the presence of a mini-classic like "Stop Half Lovin' These Women," there is no song as distinctive as "Disco Lady" here. Which is unfortunate, because this is neo-classic soul music of a very high order.

* * *

PIPER: "Can't Wait" (A&M SP-4654).

This Boston band is involved with classic Anglo-American hard rock — derived principally from the Who and Rolling Stones. The title cut is the major standout; co-written by Boston Phoenix columnist James Isaacs, it might be an out-take from the Who's "Sell Out" or "Happy Jack" LPs. The rest, despite the improvement in Bill Squier's vocals and Richie Fontana's much more forceful, Keith Moon-style drumming, suffers from a bit of the same sluggishness that was the bane of the group's debut. Nonetheless, a promising effort in a generally abused genre.

* * *

EDDIE KENDRICKS: "Slick" (Tamla T6-356S1).

This is Kendricks' final album for the Motown organization, but oddly enough it contains his best singing since the heyday of the Temptations. He dominates the arrangements completely, rather than being buried in rhythm tracks as on so many of his hits, even while essaying such unlikely material as Seals' & Crofts' "Diamond Girl."

HIGH KICKERS

Under the watchful eye of Patricia Ziegfeld Stevenson, these four lovelies kick high in Los Angeles Tuesday after being selected as dancers in the "new" Ziegfeld Follies which will appear in a three-hour NBC television special, "Ziegfeld: The Man and His Women." Mrs. Stevenson is Ziegfeld's daughter by his marriage to actress Billie Burke.

CBS plans TV drama on Oswald

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Stuart is a rangy man with gold-frame glasses, long greying hair that is growing thin, and what seems to be an obsession with those four days in November.

"Fourteen years have passed and I think people should get an idea of what happened," says Stuart, a movie director who produced and directed "The Making of the President" series.

"Do you realize that one quarter of this nation is too young to remember what happened on Nov. 22, 1963? Even those people old enough to remember have no real idea of what happened."

Stuart first told of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in the 1965 feature documentary "Four Days in November," which was nominated for an Academy Award.

Now he has completed directing "Ruby and Oswald," a three-hour television movie billed as an authentic recreation that follows Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby from Thursday, the day of the assassination, to Sunday, the day Ruby shot Oswald in the Dallas police station.

Emmy-winning screenwriter John McGreevey and his son Michael wrote the script, adhering closely to the Warren Report, for Alan Landsburg Productions. CBS is expected to air it in November.

Michael Lerner plays Ruby and Frederick Forrest is Oswald. Some scenes were filmed in Dallas, some using actual sites. President Kennedy appears only in newsreels.

Stuart ducked comment on ABC's "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a speculative movie on what might have happened had Oswald lived to face trial, because he hasn't seen it. But he is emphatic that "Ruby and Oswald" avoids any element of "what might have been."

"My film is based on sworn testimony and the facts that are known," he says.

MURDER WILL OUT

Dorothy Malone and Ed Nelson take a break on the set of "Murder in Peyton Place," an NBC/TV special to be aired Monday. They are two of the original cast of "Peyton Place," which ran for 514 episodes 1964 to 1969. The series was adapted from Grace Metalious' novel.

'Murder in Peyton Place' to air on NBC television Monday night

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television has reached an age where it wants to go back and relive its past.

NBC looked at its first 50 years. Charles Kuralt toured the nostalgic early days for CBS. Lucille Ball and Bob Hope revived old skits. Dobie Gillis tried to update his show, to indifferent results.

"Father Knows Best" had better luck and a second sequel is in the works. "Laugh-In" is back and "Star Trek" is heading into production. The Brady Bunch came back and the Addams Family is coming back.

Now comes a revisit to "Peyton Place," and, as you might guess, things are still not going smoothly in that hotbed of passion. It's called "Murder in Peyton Place" and will be seen Monday night on NBC. NBC.

Five of the original major cast members are back for the reunion. Two others who went from "Peyton Place" to movie stardom are also back, in a manner of speaking.

Ryan O'Neal, who was Rodney Harrington, and Mia Farrow, who was Allison McKenzie, are there in body if not in spirit. It is the murders of Rodney and Allison that is the occasion for the movie.

Christopher Connelly is back as Norman Harrington, Rodney's brother; Dorothy Malone as Constance McKenzie, Allison's mother; Ed Nelson as Dr. Michael Rossi; Tim O'Connor as Elliot, and Joyce Jillson as Jill.

The producers felt it would be a waste of time to ask O'Neal or Miss Farrow to the reunion. Lee Grant and James Douglas had other commitments and Barbara Parkins declined.

Connelly admits he wasn't happy about returning to Peyton Place, but, as often happens to an actor, he was otherwise unoccupied.

"It was like going back while everyone else was moving on," he said. "Like Ryan and Mia and Lee. It was like going back and doing your first job over again.

"But I wasn't busy. It can only really do me good, which it has."

Connelly said that while making the movie he made contacts that landed him the role of Mark Twain in another NBC movie. It's "The Incredible Race," and in it he and Forrest Tucker are pitted against each other in a race from St. Joseph, Mo., to the Pacific Ocean.

Nor was he overjoyed about reviving the character of Norman, who began "Peyton Place" as a "misguided youth" and ended it "happily married at the age of 19."

"Peyton Place" ran for 514 half-hour episodes on ABC between September 1964 and June 1969. For a time it was on twice a week and then later three times a week in prime time.

The series was adapted from the 1956 novel by Grace Metalious and two movies. At the time it was on the air it was regarded as "controversial." Read that sexy. By today's standards it would be considered tame, if ABC's new series "Soap," is any comparison.

Lee Delano

Hollywood's pigeonholes annoy character actor

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — To most of the world, Hollywood is still a magical place. That is especially true for anyone who acts or wants to act. For them, Hollywood is the only place in the world worth working.

But, if you are one of those with Hollywood dreams, be warned that this town has some very strange foibles. Even after you are established as a working actor, Hollywood's peculiarities can be a source of annoyance.

Which brings us to Lee Delano. He is established as a working actor. In fact, he works all the time, one of the premiere character actors around today. You may not know his name, but you surely would recognize his face. You've seen it dozens of times, in movies, on TV.

Yet, even though he works and makes a comfortable living, he has a few gripes, mostly directed at those Hollywood foibles.

One, and perhaps his loudest gripe, is with Hollywood's age-old tendency to pigeonhole people.

"I do comedy and I do straight drama," he says. "But the problem is that when I do comedy, they think of me only as a comedian and I can't get a part in a drama. Then I get lucky and get a straight part, and then for a few years I never get a shot at a comedy part."

For three years, Delano worked with Sid Caesar. He was his modern-day Carl Reiner, whenever Caesar worked, on TV, in clubs, on the stage. So, for the next couple of years, producers and casting people would say, "Lee Delano? He's a comic." and Lee never got a chance to do anything else.

Before that, Lee Delano worked in New York. For some years, he was one of the most active of off-Broadway actors. He was in 17 off-Broadway plays, all heavy dramatic roles. If he went out for a comedy part, they scoffed. (Obviously, it's not just Hollywood that pigeonholes people.)

At the moment, he's in one of those dramatic pigeonholes. Lately he's done lead roles on Police Story and Charlie's Angels and so, for now, he is considered only a dramatic actor around town.

Another gripe:

"In this town, as opposed to, say, England, an actor can only take a certain kind of part, that pays a certain salary and that carries a certain billing. If you do a job for less money or for smaller billing, then they put you in that lesser category."

And so an actor here strives to get ahead, to become established at a higher price and a better billing. But, when he is established there, he can no longer take anything less, or else he is automatically put again in that lower strata.

"It's a bad situation," Delano says, "but that's the way it is and nothing can be done about it."

Still, he really isn't complaining. He has that other gripe, that every actor has — what to do between parts. He has solved the problem in two ways. First, he and two partners are trying to produce their own movies, and they have acquired some properties to do just that.

And, second, he and some other people have come up with a recipe for a Fat Albert cookie. They have Bill Cosby's OK to market it, and that's currently in the oven.

What he'd really like is a comedy series of his own. He thinks comedy is his forte, that he can do the things Sellers and Matthau do.

"I'd prefer a feature movie, of course," he says, "although not for my ego, but for the ego of the industry. The industry still respects movies more than TV and actors in movies more than actors in TV shows."

Guest stars on 'Five-O'

HONOLULU (AP) — Two major guest stars have been signed for appearances on CBS' "Hawaii Five-0."

Eleanor Parker has come out of retirement to play an aristocratic matriarch of a pioneer Hawaiian family. Miss Parker has been inactive in television for about six years and has not made a movie in 12 years.

Italian film star Rossano Brazzi will play a wealthy shipping magnate who has a freighter hijacked on the high seas.

Broadway digs revivals

By NORMAN NADEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Looking forward to the 1977-78 theater season bears an eerie resemblance to looking backwards. Continuing a trend of recent years, revivals of past hits (musicals in particular), or new adaptations of old successes, will abound.

The reasons? Most of them have to do with money. These days it is difficult — some producers would say impossible — to open a new musical on Broadway for under $1 million. As for a genuinely new stage work, there is no guarantee that it will earn back its costs, much less make a profit.

By contrast, a revival involves considerably less risk, although even it is not a sure thing. In the theater, nothing is a sure thing. But the show that has been around before, and has made money, will be easier to finance; angels will feel less shaky. As far as the public is concerned, an older show is already pre-sold by its earlier success.

Apart from money, there is the sensible reason that an entertaining and meaningful play or musical should be returned to public view as often as the demand warrants. Wouldn't it be a shame to shelve the plays of Shakespeare, Moliere, Ibsen, Strindberg, Chekhov, O'Neill and so many others just because they're not new?

At the same time, too many revivals make dedicated theater folk uneasy, because every time an old play is restaged, it means that a new play is not being staged.

"Hair!" already has returned to the Biltmore theater, just off Times Square, where it played 1,750 performances starting in the spring of 1968. The musical actually had three premieres its first season: off-Broadway as a modest and quite charming entertainment about the generation gap in the fall of 1967; at a mid-Manhattan discotheque in director Tom O'Horgan's much noisier version that winter, and again in the spring, with more cast, more songs, more noise, and nudity. Book by Jerome Ragni and James Rado, music by Galt MacDermot.

The Dale Wasserman-Mitch Leigh-Joe Darion "Man of La Mancha" inaugurated its second revival run in New York, on Sept. 15 the first having been in 1972, with the original production dating from a memorable November night in 1965. Once again, Richard Kiley will act and sing the role of Don Quixote, but Joan Diener, who created the stage Aldonza and returned in the part five years ago, has been replaced by Emily Yancy. In December the show will quit Broadway to visit Philadelphia, Chicago, San Diego, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

SOMETHING OLD — Revivals of old musicals have been doing well for the past several seasons. This summer's hit at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Conn., was "Hit the Deck," starring David Eric and Tudi Roach. The Vincent Youmans 1927 musical is headed for Broadway.

Moliere's corrosive comedy "Tartuffe" has been around even longer than the above two, dating from 1664 or 1669, depending on whether you stand by the original or the revised version. Anyway, the Circle In The Square stirs it up again in a new English translation of the French classic, by poet-playwright Richard Wilbur. Strong cast: John Wood, Tammy Grimes, Mildred Dunnock, Patricia Elliott, other able players.

Not to be out-Moliered, Joe Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival will mount the French satirist's "The Misanthrope," also translated by Wilbur, in a musical version with a score by Margaret Pine. Announced for Oct. 4.

"Dracula," Bram Stoker's shocker which first was adapted from novel to playscript in 1927, has been adapted again with a Broadway bow set for Oct. 20. Another stage treatment of the Dracula fable also is on the books for later this season.

Lynn Redgrave will undertake one of the most challenging women's roles in theater — and potentially one of the most rewarding — in Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," which the British actress' husband, John Clark, will direct. Dec. 15. Also Shaw, and also at the Circle In The Square, will be "Man and Superman," co-starring Rosemary Harris and Ellis Rabb, repeating their roles in a 1964 revival of the turn-of-the-century play. Tentative date is March 16, 1978.

Prior to that, however, "Hello, Dolly!" will steam back into New York for a February opening, with Carol Channing in the role she created for this musical adaptation, by Jerry Herman and Michael Stewart, of Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker."

Wilder, who never gave up on a book or a script, wrote "The Merchant of Yonkers" for a 1938 premiere in which Jane Cowl starred, but it ran only 39 performances. At the 1954 Edinburgh Festival he offered the play again, but with a new title, "The Matchmaker," and with Ruth Gordon as Dolly Levi. It made a hit with the Scots, and repeated in New York the following spring, enjoying a long run and later a screen adaptation. Set to music a few years later it became one of the greatest all-time musical popular successes, and has been playing somewhere ever since.

The current "Hello, Dolly!" run started in Houston in June and will have hit a dozen cities before it returns to Broadway, then will tour another dozen after it leaves here.

The Houston Grand Opera, which is producing "Dolly!", also is responsible for a new musical by Carlisle Floyd based on John Steinbeck's novel (1937) and play (1938), "Of Mice and Men." It played Washington early this summer, after Houston, and might travel elsewhere.

Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington will precede New York in seeing a new production of Eugene O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet," which premiered here in 1959. Jason Robards will portray the tavern keeper played 18 years ago by Eric Portman.

Those aren't all the revivals or adaptations, but they should give you an idea. Though no date has been set, a possibility for this year is James Montgomery's 1916 comedy success, "Nothing But The Truth," which in turn was taken from a novel by Fred Isham. It was musicalized in 1927 as "Yes, Yes, Yvette" (that was in the wake of "No, No, Nanette," as you might have guessed), and again in 1932 as "Tell Her The Truth." Several films, including Bob Hope's "Nothing But The Truth" in 1941, were made from this hardy perennial. Plot: a young man accepts a $10,000 bet that he will tell nothing but the truth for 24 hours.

Don't despair. There also will be new plays and musicals during the 1977-78 season. That's another story.

Buck Rogers to bow on TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Buck Rogers will make his debut as a weekly television series on NBC this season. . .

Viewers of ABC's "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald" will be asked to vote on Oswald's guilt or innocence after the second segment is aired Sunday, Oct. 2. Mail-in ballots will be published in TV Guide.

FAIR HELEN — Singer Helen Reddy will star in station KMPC's eighth annual Show of the World at the Forum in Inglewood at 8 p.m. Saturday. She will join Lou Rawls, Vikki Carr, Johnny Mathis and others in the benefit show.

Golden Days set at Azusa

Crooner Rudy Vallee will be grand marshal of the Azusa Golden Days Parade starting at 11 a.m. Oct. 8. The theme of the parade is "Happiness Is Music."

Fifty thousand spectators are expected to line the parade route along Foothill Boulevard. Equestrian grand marshals will be Kaptain Kool and The Kongs, popular Saturday morning television song-and-comedy group.

Theme marshals will include Billy Barty, of Little People of America, and Jim Mc Ewan, popular entertainer at Azusa's El Encanto restaurant.

Also representing the parade theme will be Helaine Lembeck, better known as Judy Borden on television's "Let's Make a Deal;" Don Pedro Colley, star of television and theater; Aldo Ray, known to millions for a quarter of a century as the movie tough guy with the big heart; and Will Walter Scholz, television actor. Also in the parade will be Michael D. Roberts, known as "Rooster" on the "Baretta" show, and singer-entertainer Phil Thomas, a 1967 graduate of Azusa High School whose new records, "Easy Lady" and "When I'm Down," are currently being played on area radio stations.

Novelty entries will be led by the Wizard and Troll from Magic Mountain and Ronald McDonald.

In addition to the 23 floats depicting the music theme, 14 bands will compete for trophies in their divisions and 20 equestrian units will present their animals in flashing regalia. The Al Malaikah Silver Mounted Patrol will be featured.

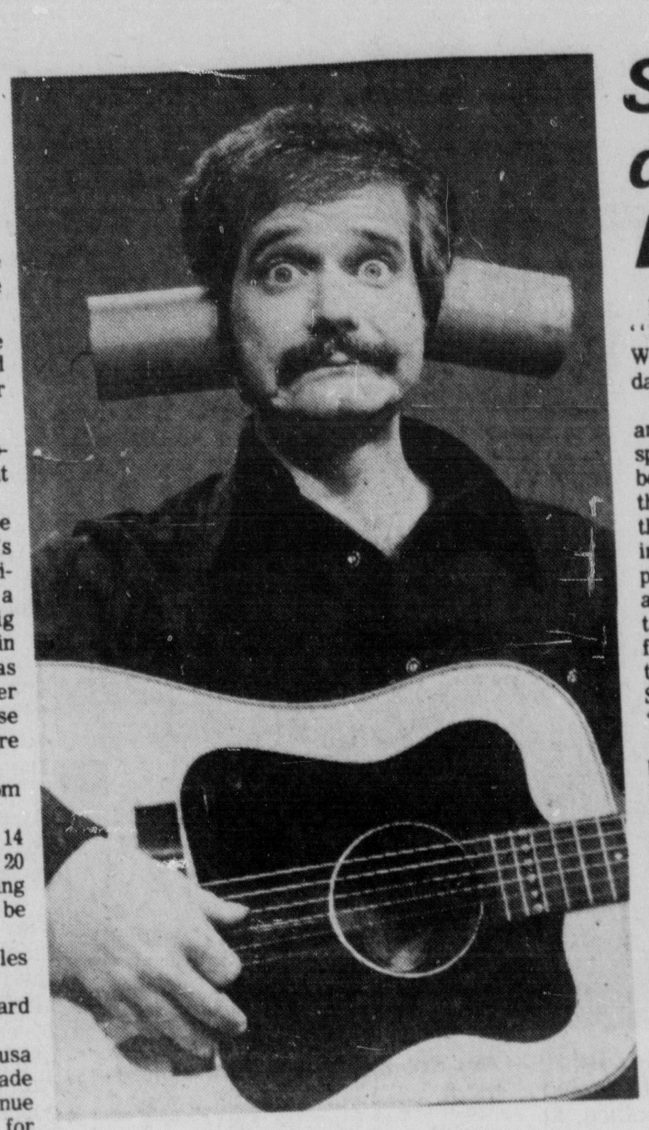
Antique cars, vans, clowns and animal-drawn vehicles round out the entries.

The two-hour long parade will be followed by an award ceremonies in Civic Center Park, behind City Hall.

A community pancake breakfast sponsored by Azusa High School Athletic Boosters will precede the parade from 6 to 10 a.m., at the recreation center, Third Avenue and Orange Place. The charge is $1.50 for adults, $1 for children under 12.

The day's activities include an arts and crafts fair on City Hall lawn from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The show and sale will feature artistry in many media as well as demonstrations of oil and sand painting.

A carnival and food and game booths sponsored by local organizations will operate until midnight in Civic Center Park, Dalton and Alameda streets.



BANGUP PERFORMANCE — Comic guitarist Ron Coden will perform in "Ice House Revue" at Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The show is sponsored by the Assistance League of Pomona Valley. Also on the program are Duncan Tuck and the L.A. Cabaret.

Senior days at D'land

Disneyland will hold "Senior Fun Days" Wednesday through Friday.

People 50 years of age and older may purchase specially priced $6 ticket books for themselves and their families during the three-day period. The offer includes admission to the park and 10 tickets good for any of Disneyland's 57 attractions, including such favorites as the "Pirates of the Caribbean," "It's a Small World" and the "Jungle Cruise."

On-stage performances by the popular Mickey Finn Ragtime Band and the Hoosier Hot Shots will complement the regular musical lineup.

Renowned for its enthusiastic way of playing Dixieland favorites, the Mickey Finn Racktime Band will be featured in three daily performances from Tomorrowland's new "Space Stage." The Hoosier Hot Shots, offering a style of entertainment they have dubbed "musical corn," will perform three times each day from Disneyland's Plaza Gardens stage.

Disneyland will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for the three-day celebration.

Fourth annual

Oktoberfest slated at Old School House

Griswold's Old School House in Claremont will stage the fourth annual Oktoberfest next Friday through Sunday and the following weekend. Admission is $1 in advance, $1.50 at the door. Children under 12 are admitted free.

The program will include polka dancing, a beer drinking contest, a pretzel eating contest for children and the traditional beer stein carrying competition. (Last year's winner carried 10 full steins without spilling.)

Huge kegs of German beer will be ready, and food will include knackwurst, German potato salad, sauerkraut, glazed pretzels and German chocolate cake from Griswold's bakery.

Folk dancer Harve Edwards will conduct polka contests for children and adults and give instruction in German dances. Several civic and youth groups will have booths on the GOSH patio to raise money and publicize their programs. Musical groups performing will be the Bavarian Beer Garden Band, The Villagers, The Winstrup Olesen Band, The Mlakar Brothers, Blue Max and The Tyroleans.

Since this is Claremont's 70th anniversary, the city will be saluted by Oktoberfest with a plaque to be presented to Mayor Bertye Smith next Friday. Oktoberfest will also honor Pomona College, which observes its 90th anniversary on Founders Day Oct. 15. The festival salute will be Oct. 14.

Griswold staffers expect 10,000 visitors during the two-weekend run of Oktoberfest.

Fullerton exhibits sculpture

The perspective-distorting wall sculptures of John Okulick are on view until Oct. 6 in the art gallery at Cal State Fullerton.

The 13 pieces were called "beautifully crafted, clearly articulated and amusing" by art critic William Wilson of the Los Angeles Times.

Callery hours are noon to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Sundays. An illustrated catalog is available for purchase.

Further information is available from the Cal State gallery office at (714) 870-3905.

The exhibit is sponsored by the art department, Art Alliance and Associated Students, Inc.

wandering with woody

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

What do Frickadellers and Ableskivers have in common? Well, they are both Danish and they are both round, and they've been going together for years at The Danish Kitchen in Claremont.

I was wandering around last Tuesday night, looking for an interesting place to eat when I spotted Soup's On and realized it had been some time since I had eaten there. Besides, the pies at this little restaurant with the big title of Soup's On at The Danish Kitchen are marvelous, and I was almost drooling in anticipation by the time I got to the front door.

But as soon as I looked at the menu I knew I had a hard choice to make. A hamburger would do the job, I thought, and leave room for pie, too. On the other hand, who could resist at least finding out something about the Tuesday night special with the funny name . . . Frickadellers and Ableskivers?

I found that the F & A combo has been a staple at Soup's On for 30 years, and that Rick Byrket has featured this Danish dish for the 15 years he's owned the restaurant.

So, many of you are probably acquainted with this Tuesday night offering. But for the benefit of the uninitiated, Frickadellers are Danish meatballs, mild and very tasty. Ableskivers are round rolls, slightly sweet, doughy, slightly deep-fried. Ableskivers reminded me of the gobs of dough my mother used to deep fry and sprinkle with sugar, calling her concoction, appropriately, "dough gobs."

Soup's On is open from 11:30 A.M. to 8:00 Tuesday through Saturday. If my meal Tuesday night was any indication, take a healthy appetite with you when you visit. My F & A dinner included mashed potato & gravy, a vegetable, soup and salad and coffee . . . for $3.75. 560 E. Foothill, Claremont.

Have you met the new faces and the people behind them at Elli's Lounge yet? I stopped in last Friday night to meet the new owners, Ronnie Holmes and Bette Hertzog, and found them both very personable and friendly.

They know a number of people on the restaurant nightclub circuit and seem to be shooting some new life into this business. I hesitate to use the name because they are planning to change it soon . . . to The Back Door. Other changes are in store for this Pomona club as Bette and Ronnie are finding that their decision to go into business was a profitable one.

"Second Childhood" plays there on weekends and provides good listening or dancing music. Thursday night's Gong Nite Contest is growing in popularity, and now the girls have installed two TV sets for the sporting crowd on Monday nights. Elli's is located at 1250 E. Mission in Pomona.

Larry Buster and Denis White have announced new hours for their Old Montclair Peanut Co. This is one of our newest Valley restaurants, and if you haven't been there yet, you're missing out on a neat experience.

Since they opened the restaurant, they have opened for business at 5 P.M. on weekdays. But so many people are waiting at the door at that time, they've decided to open an hour earlier. So now their hours are 4 to 10 Monday thru Thursday, 4 to 11 on Fridays and Saturdays, and 12 to 9 on Sundays. Holt Blvd., Montclair.

AROUND 'N ABOUT

. . . Betsy Ross restaurants are sporting a new menu these days. New owner of the long-time Valley restaurant and ice cream stores is Gary McArthur, who also owns Marie Callendar restaurants in the West Covina area. To introduce their new menu, Betsy Ross is offering a free ice cream sundae with any item you purchase from the new menu this week. Also, as you'll notice when you read their ad in this section, you can save almost a buck on a half-gallon of Betsy Ross Ice Cream. Both are coupon deals, so cut 'em out and redeem them by next Thursday at any Betsy Ross restaurant.

. . . John and Louise Spellman have introduced some variety for customers to their Taco Kitchen, 2911 Bonita, La Verne. They've mixed art, Albondi-

The largest of all dolphins is the killer whale. These huge black-and-white creatures often measure 30 feet in length and weigh several tons.

Killer whales aren't fish. They are mammals and breathe air. Like their dolphin cousins, they breathe through a single blowhole high in the head.

One of the most intelligent of all animals, the killer whale has a fearsome reputation because it preys on such warm-blooded animals as porpoises, dolphins, and seals, and will readily attack the great whales as well.

Its mighty jaws are equipped with rows of cone-shaped teeth and its throat is large enough to swallow a seal whole.

Despite its savage reputation, the killer whale has never been known to attack a human.

In captivity it is a friendly animal, and because of its intelligence and learning ability it is usually one of the star performers in oceanariums.

The large variety of paints on the market is the result of a continuing effort by manufacturers to supply the widely divergent demands of the public. People are no more in agreement on the kinds of paints they want than they are on anything else in life.

Years ago, kitchen and bathroom walls were finished with a paint that had a high gloss, simply because this type of paint had a high resistance to food stains, grease, finger marks and spots in general. Flat paints were reserved for the other rooms in the house.

These days, the new acrylic latex satin enamels are getting more and more use in kitchens, bathrooms, laundry and playrooms where good resistance to moisture, stains and hard knocks is needed. These new low gloss finishes have a satiny luster and are easy to clean when soiled. Paint manufacturers use various designations for these finishes, such as eggshell, velvet, satin latex or simply low luster. Seen head-on, these coatings appear to be flat with little or no gloss. But when viewed at an angle, they have a definite sparkle without the glare that some people find objectionable in a high gloss finish. They dry quickly, are practically odor-free during application and are easy to use.

As with finishing materials of all kind, pigmented or clear, they are most effective when time is taken to prepare the surface properly. It is especially important to wash kitchen walls, ceilings and trim with detergent and water to remove the greasy film deposited by cooking. Finger marks, mildew and dirt should also be washed off. Traces of detergent must be removed by wiping the surface with a damp cloth.

Once the surface is clean, cracks, nail holes and other indentations should be filled with a latex crack-filling compound, using a putty knife to smooth the patch. After the filler has dried, sand the surface lightly. When a crack or opening is very deep, it may be necessary to use a second coat of filler where shrinkage has taken place.

When dry, sand the surface smooth and apply a latex primer to all bare areas. The latex satin enamel then can be applied with a roller or brush. If the color selected for the top coat is not too different from the original color, a single coat usually will be sufficient. Rollers and brushes must be washed promptly with water after painting, since the acrylic coatings dry quickly to form tough, water-resistant films.

Many paint manufacturers also offer low luster acrylic latex paints for outdoor use. These coatings can be used on almost any exterior surface, including wood, stucco, concrete and cement asbestos shingle. The exterior grades have sheen properties similar to the interior coatings. They chalk slowly so that there is little chalk rundown to disfigure trim or brick walls and have good resistance to peeling, cracking and fading. But remember that the time and attention you give to the proper preparation of the old surface will be reflected in the quality of the result.

(If you do things around the house, you'll find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J., 07888.)

Gardeners check list

—Spring blooming bulbs like Daffodils, Hyacinths and Crocus go into the ground this month.

—Fall spraying to combat diseases that develop in spring is recommended. Remember coverage is important and is only as good as your equipment.

—Loosen up soil with a spade or shovel to increase air and water penetration to the root zone.

—Fall is an ideal time to plant ground covers, shrubs and trees or rake in wild flower seeds.

—Re-seeded lawns or newly seeded ones should be kept moist until the lawn is well established.

—Re-let the tops of Dahlias die back before cutting them back when bloom is gone.

Philodendron

Heartleaf is hearty greenery

If you were to simply ask for a house plant at your local nursery, chances are you would receive a Philodendron. Not only is it the most popular of all indoor foliage plants but it almost literally thrives on neglect.

The varieties and sizes range from the small Heartleaf Philodendron (or Philodendron cordatum, the commercial name) which is the Living Plant Growers Association "Plant of the Month" for September, to the Philodendron selloum, often seen in indoor planting areas of modern office buildings.

The Heartleaf is also referred to as oxycardium, which is the botanical name, and is native to Brazil. Young plants have small, bright green leaves. Because the Heartleaf is a vining Philodendron, it can be trained in a number of ways — as a hanging basket or a table plant; or if the objective is to attain size, as a climber on a large moisture-retentive totem pole.

Interestingly, when allowed to grow upright, the leaves will increase in size as the plant matures. You may see some Heartleafs in greenhouses with leaves up to a foot in length. So if you are not attracted to such large-leafed Philodendrons as the Split-Leaf, Fiddle-Leaf or Lacy Tree, the Heartleaf lets you tailor the size to your needs.

Medium or high levels of light are recommended for best growth. If the light is on the low side, the leaves may lose some of their character. Also, they will tend to grow smaller. But like all Philodendrons, the Heartleaf can adapt to almost any indoor living condition.

Moisture is needed to maintain the Heartleaf but avoid overwatering. Root rot is not uncommon with Philodendrons. However, don't wait for the soil to dry out completely between waterings. Temperatures in the 65 to 80 degree F. range are best. They can take brief cool spells despite their tropical ancestry.

As with all glossy-leafed plants, the Heartleaf should be kept dust-free. Larger-leafed Philodendrons will retain their attractiveness if leaf polish is used occasionally.

Propagating the Heartleaf can be done by terminal cuttings or by air layering. Long runners can be pinched off and will live and grow for some time in a jar of water. Any good packaged potting mix will do for re-potting with the addition of a little peat and sand for good drainage. Re-pot about once a year or when the plant outgrows its container. Fertilizing should be done every two or three months with a water-soluble type but hold off for four to six months with a plant that has just been brought home from the nursery.

If the popular Heartleaf arouses your interest in the more exotic Philodendrons, there are some highly attractive hybrids — such as "Red Emerald" which is self-heading (not a climber but will adapt to a support) and has large leaves. The stem is red as are the leaf petioles.

You will find the September "Plant of the Month" Heartleaf along with many other popular varieties of Philodendrons in the greenhouses and nurseries of members of the Living Plant Growers Association throughout Southern California.

Founder

Inigo Jones (1573-1652) was the founder of the English school of classical architecture.

HEARTLEAF — (Or Philodendron Cordatum) is a native of Brazil and makes a hearty indoor foliage plant.

Here's the answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We had vinyl gutters put around our house several months ago. Everything was fine until recently when, during a heavy rainstorm, the water poured over the top of the gutter at one point. It has happened twice since then, each time at the same spot. What is causing this and how can it be fixed?

A. — If the work was done by a professional installer, it is possible he might be willing to fix it for you without charge. If not, examine the gutter where the trouble is occurring. You will find that the gutter is held in place with brackets. The chances are that one of these brackets has come loose. Was a ladder ever placed against the gutter at that point? In any event, if a bracket is bent or loose, you will have to figure out whether it can be straightened out or retightened or must be replaced.

Q. — You told a reader what the initials DFPA stood for on the back of a sheet of plywood. Now perhaps you can help me with something similar. I bought considerable lumber for a project that probably will be started by the time I know your answer, but I'd like the answer to satisfy my curiosity. There is a circle stamped on the wood with the letters WWP inside it, followed by a lot of numbers and symbols. What do they mean?

A. — The stamped circle means that the lumber has been graded according to quality control standards of the Western Wood Products Association, thus giving the specifier a dependable measure for determining the value of the lumber. The other markings tell which mill the lumber came from, its official grade name, the kind of wood it is and its moisture content at the time of the surfacing.

Q. — Please settle an argument. When making a fire in the fireplace, is it better to leave the old ashes in the fireplace or remove them?

A. — Leaving about an inch of ashes on the floor of the fireplace helps the fire to burn steadily.

Q. — I know that spar varnish can be used outdoors, but is it good for furniture that is kept outside all year round in both hot and cold weather? Also, how did it get its name?

A. — The traditional spar varnish got its name because it was, and still is, used on the spars that supported the rigging on ships. It is sometimes called marine varnish. While it is very durable, it is not meant for furniture, inside or out.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY 11743.)

Laziness a part of the therapy for heart attack

By Dick Kleiner
(Last of Two Parts)

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Life in the intensive care unit of a hospital is governed by routine. It doesn't take you, as a patient, long to recognize this and adapt to it.

I had had what, later, they called a mild heart attack. They had put me in the coronary care unit at Midway Hospital and, within a few hours, I began to fit into the system.

The medical routine began right after breakfast. An orderly wheeled in an EKG — electrocardiograph — machine. Another orderly came to take a blood sample. There might be an X ray or some other test.

Every few hours, day and night, one of the nurses would take my temperature, check my pulse, measure my blood pressure. Every few hours, night and day, another nurse would wheel a small cart to the door of my room, dole out a few pills in a paper cup, make sure that I swallowed them.

For hours, between ministrations, you are alone, trapped with your fears and doubts. Suddenly, you have been confronted with the positive fact that you are mortal. You could die in this place. People did.

On the wall behind me, if I twisted around, I could see the monitor and the cheerful green line that indicated my heart was beating away. It was comforting.

A few times, the loudspeaker voice would say, "Code 5 Blue, Room 242" and everybody would rush to that room. That was the code for a cardiac emergency.

I was the center of one emergency of my own. Trying to sleep, I apparently tossed and turned so vigorously that the wires hooking up to my monitor became unhooked. The monitor went wild — red lights flashing, buzzers buzzing. Nurses came running. It was reassuring.

As it turned out, I was in the intensive care for a shade longer than 48 hours. On the second day, they wheeled me to the next phase — COU, or Coronary Observation Unit. It was like being released from prison. The intravenous bottle was removed, the monitor disconnected (for several more days I would be monitored, but by a wireless device) and I found I could move a little without worrying about disconnecting myself.

They rolled me into a room that was equipped with two wonderful inventions — a bathroom and a television set. You cannot imagine how great it is to go to the bathroom on your own until you aren't allowed to.

In intensive care, you don't even brush your teeth — they give you a basin and some mouthwash. But now I could not only brush my teeth, I could shave. I toyed with the idea of letting my beard grow — it seemed to be coming in grey, which might be interesting — but realized that was laziness talking.

And laziness is part of your life. You are encouraged and urged to be lazy. It's part of your therapy as a heart patient. And then you find that you are actually enjoying it.

The longer you do it, the more the thought of getting out and going back to your work and your worries is not as alluring a prospect as it once was. The lazy life begins to capture you.

And you bask in the glory of your illness. People call you up, send you cards, books, flowers, fruit. Everybody rallies around to help you and wish you well. There is a certain status to your condition.

And yet, fortunately, the restlessness proves stronger than the laziness. You feel guilty about not doing your job, about the burden your illness is placing on your family. They tell you to think of this as a vacation, but you know better.

So you welcome every sign that you are being readied for the outside world. One day, the doctor says you can sit up in a chair a few hours a day. The next step is being labelled "ambulatory," which means you can walk through the hospital corridors. Another great moment is when you receive shower privileges. When they say you will be going home tomorrow, you feel like jumping for joy.

The doctor explains carefully what I can and cannot do. For the next two weeks, at least, I must continue to rest. Lie down two hours every afternoon. Go up the stairs only twice a day. No writing yet. After those two weeks, we'll see.

Heart disease is the number one killer in America. The American Heart Assn. estimates that 52 per cent of all deaths in 1977 will be from some form of cardiovascular disease (CVD). Three times as many people will die from CVD as from cancer; 10 times as many from CVD as from accidents. What had happened to me was hardly uncommon. Actually, I was lucky. I got there in time. Even so, I had delayed and procrastinated much too long.

The Heart Association has a booklet called, "Some People Would Rather Die Than Admit They're Having a Heart Attack."

The booklet advises: "Recognize the earliest danger signals. The most important signal is a steady pressure on the center of the chest lasting two minutes or more. The discomfort may spread to the arms, neck or jaw, but don't wait for this to occur. Remember, the victim may look completely well and may deny that the symptoms are serious."

That had been me. I had denied the seriousness of my symptoms for several months. I was flirting with death, but I honestly wasn't sure that what I had been feeling were really heart disease symptoms. Next time — God forbid — I'll know.

One thing I will say for a heart attack is that it's a dandy way to quit smoking. By the time I was out of the hospital, I hadn't smoked for two weeks and I'd heard several dozen lectures to the effect that I had smoked my last cigarette.

They all added that I was lucky in one respect — that I wasn't overweight. Smoking is bad enough, but being overweight is probably worse.

Later, perhaps in two months, I'll have to go in for some serious tests to determine exactly how much damage has been done to my heart and what, if anything, can be done to repair it. Maybe the heart will have repaired itself. Let's hope so.

But now I'm going home. The nurse brings a wheelchair to my room, and I get dressed in regular clothes and they wheel me down to the outside. The cars seem to be faster and louder and scarier than I remember.

Supervisors for Boys Full Time
If you have had any experience running a magazine crew, or newspaper experience operating with carrier boys, if you have had any experience in any direct sales, such as cookware, photos, books, etc., then don't pass this ad up.

I have taken the sting out of sales work; no collecting or delivering.

Let me introduce you to a program in newspaper circulation promotion. If you believe you can supervise teenage boys and have a good running sedan, station wagon or van, then I want to talk to you.

Our company secures new readers for a leading newspaper in this area.

Speak to our people on the job, ride with them, before you decide.

Our incentive and commission structure will earn you a better than average earning. Watch our operation in the field, then you be the judge. Call Mr. Julian, (213) 967-2069, between 9 a.m. & 11:30 a.m. for interview.
